PREFACE.

THE delay in the publication of this Volume has arisen from the difficulty of obtaining a complete collection of the engagements mediated with the petty Chiefs in Malwa. No collection of the kind has ever been attempted before; and only a few of the more important of these engagements are to be found among the records of the Foreign Office. For the comparative completeness of the collection now published the Compiler is entirely indebted to the assistance readily given him by Major Meade, the Governor General's Agent in Central India, and his subordinate officers, more particularly Lieutenant Bradford, Major Macmullin, and Major Hutchinson.

Most of the engagements contained in Part III. of this Volume were received from Central India in the vernacular. The translations were made by Moulvie Izhar Hoossein Khan Bahadoor, Baboo Anund Chunder Mookerjee, and Baboo Prankissen Gangooley, of the Persian Office, and were carefully revised by the Political Agents in Central India, to whom the best thanks of the Compiler are due.

PART I.

TREATIES, ENGAGEMENTS, AND SUNNUDS

STATES IN RAJPOOTANA.

THE system of non-interference which was introduced on the accession of Lord Cornwallis left the States of Central India and Rajpootana a prey to the Pindaree freebooters, who gained in strength as the Mahratta power decayed. They soon ventured to extend their depredations into British territory. No line of defence and no disposition of troops could protect the country from their incursions under the system of warfare which they pursued, and Government was therefore led to form a general system of political alliances for the entire suppression of the Pindarees. The Treaty of 1817 with Sindia removed the restriction which had been placed upon the formation of alliances between the British Government and the Rajpoot States, and left Government free to enter on new relations with them. The object of the Treaties to be formed with them was the establishment of a barrier against the predatory system and against the extension of the power of Sindia or Holkar beyond the limits which Government designed to impose on it by other measures. It was not at that time proposed to acquire the power of exercising any interference in the internal administration of the Rajpoot States, but to subject only their political measures and external relations to the control of the British Government, to secure to Sindia and Holkar the tribute payable to them in the event of these Chiefs entering into the policy of the British Government, and to secure to the British Government such pecuniary aid as might be adapted to the means of the several States respectively, in order to indemnify the British Government for the charges incidental to the obligation of protecting them.

Arrangements on this principle were made with the States of Oudeypore, Jeypore, Jodhpore, Kotah, Boondée, Kerowlee, Banswarrah, Doongurpore, and Kishengurh, and the relations of Government with the more distant States of Jessulmere and Bickaneer were improved, but without the establishment of the same intimate connection as with the other States.

There are eighteen States in Rajpootana, of which fifteen are Rajpoot; two are Jat, Bhurtpore and Dholepore; and one is Mahomedan, Tonk. The Rajpootana States pay the following tribute to the British Government:—

Oudeypore	Co.'s Rs.	2,00,000
Jeypore	"	4,00,000
Jodhpore	"	98,000
Kotah	"	1,84,720
Boondée	"	1,20,000
Jhallawur	"	80,000
Pertabgurh	"	72,700
Banswarrah	"	27,387
Doongurpore	"	27,387
Serohi	"	7,500

In addition to the above, the three States of Oudeypore, Jodhpore, and Kotah, contribute towards the support of local corps:—

Oudeypore	Rs.	50,000.	In part support of the Meywar Bheel Corps.
Jodhpore	"	1,15,000.	In part support of the Erin-poorah Irregular Force (late Jodhpore Legion).
Kotah	"	2,00,000.	In part support of the Deolee Irregular Force (late Kotah Contingent).

And Government pays to the Nawab of Tonk a stipendiary allowance of Rupees 1,50,000 per annum in lieu of lands which he gave up.

OUDEYPORE OR MEYWAR.

From Captain Brooke's History of Meywar.

THE Oudeypore family is the highest in rank and dignity among the Rajpoot Chiefs of India. The ruling Chief is considered by Hindoos to be the representative of Rama, the ancient King of Ajoudhia, by one of whose descendants, Kanaksen, the present family was founded about A. D. 144. The States of Doongurpore, Sirohi, and Pertabgurh are offshoots from it. Sivajee, the founder of the Mahratta power, and the Bhonsla family were also descended from the House of Oudeypore. No State in India made a more noble and a more desperate resistance to the Mahomedans. It is the boast of the family that they never gave a daughter in marriage to any of the Mahomedan Emperors, and they for many years ceased to intermarry with the other Rajpoot families who had disgraced themselves by such alliances.

Rana Umra, who succeeded to the State in A. D. 1700, formed an alliance with the Rajahs of Jeypore and Jodhpore for mutual protection against the Mahomedans. It was one of the conditions of this tripartite alliance that these Chiefs should regain the privilege of marriage with the Oudeypore family on condition that the sons of the Oudeypore princesses should succeed* in preference to children by other wives. The quarrels to which this stipulation gave rise led to the conquest of the country by the Mahrattas, at whose hands Oudeypore suffered more cruel devastations than it had ever been subjected to by the Mahomedans. Rana Umra was succeeded in 1716 by Sangram Sing II.,

* So recently as 1851 an attempt was made to revive this condition. In that year the Maharao of Kotah married a niece of the Maharana of Oudeypore, and an agreement was signed by him and his son, according to which the latter was to succeed to the Kotah State, but on his death his children were to be set aside in favor of the children of the Maharana's niece. The Agent to the Governor General refused to recognize the agreement.

who was followed in 1734 by Juggut Sing II. On the departure of Nadir Shah, the Peishwa, having received from Mahomed Shah the cession of the chouth or fourth part of the revenues of the empire, demanded this tribute from Oudeypore in common with the other States which had been tributary to the Emperor; and, in 1736, Bajee Rao Peishwa concluded a Treaty with Juggut Sing II., by which the Rana agreed to pay annually Rupees 1,60,000 on account of chouth.

Jey Sing, the Chief of Jeypore, had married a daughter of Sangram Sing of Oudeypore, having at the time a son Esree Sing whom, with the view of defeating the condition with Oudeypore regarding the succession, he had married to a daughter of the Rawut of Saloombur, the most powerful of the Oudeypore feudatories, and the hereditary leader of the Oudeypore forces. On the death of Jey Sing, the power in Jeypore was assumed by Esree Sing. But the claims of Madho Sing, the son of the Oudeypore princess, were supported by the Maharana, who called in the aid of Mulhar Rao Holkar and agreed to pay him Rupees 80,00,000 on condition of his deposing Esree Sing. In part payment of this sum the Maharana made over to Holkar the district of Rampoor. The loss of Rampoor, however, was the least of the evils which followed. It became thereafter the custom, for the redress of any real or supposed wrong, to call in the aid of the Mahrattas, who thus obtained a firm footing in Meywar and became the referees in all disputes and the virtual rulers of the country.

On the withdrawal of the British influence from Rajpootana in 1806 under the policy of non-inteference which had been introduced by Lord Cornwallis, Oudeypore was laid waste by the armies of Sindia, Holkar, and Ameer Khan, and by many hordes of Pindaree plunderers. To such distress was the Maharana reduced, that he was dependent on the bounty of Zalim Sing, the Regent of Kotah, who gave him an allowance of Rupees 1,000 a month, and was exposed to the insults of his own feudatories, the more powerful of whom had retired to their forts and were bent only on their own preservation.

In this state of degradation Maharana Bheem Sing was found in 1817, when the British Government entered on its general scheme of alliances for the suppression of the Pindarees. Bheem Sing had succeeded to power in 1778, and between Juggut Sing II. and him there had been the following successions: Pertab Sing II. in 1752; Raj Sing II. in 1755; Rana Ursee in 1762, whose insolent behaviour led to the estrangement of his nobles from him and the seizure of the districts of Jāwud, Jeerun, Neemuch, and Morwur by Sindia, of Neembhera by Holkar, and Godwar by Jodhpore; and Humeer in 1772, from whom Sindia wrested the districts of Ruttungurh, Kheree, and Singowlee, and Holkar the districts of Jath, Bichore, and Nuddomay.

Oudeypore.

By the Treaty (No. I.) the British Government agreed to protect the territory of Oudeypore, and to use its best exertions for the restoration of the territories it had lost when this could be done with propriety; and the Maharana acknowledged the British supremacy and agreed to abstain from political correspondence, to submit disputes to the arbitration of the British Government, and to pay one-fourth of the revenues as tribute for five years, and thereafter three-eighths in perpetuity. The object of the 7th Article of the Treaty was to leave Government the right of acting on the Meywar claims to restoration of territory as might be deemed just and expedient. This clause has furnished the Oudeypore State with never-failing cause of complaint, particularly with respect to the district of Neembhera. This district, having been guaranteed to Ameer Khan, could not be restored. During the mutinies of 1857, Captain Showers, the Political Agent of Meywar, unauthorizedly allowed the troops of Oudeypore to occupy it, but after the return of peace the Maharana was compelled by the British Government to restore it to the Nawab of Tonk, and to account for the revenues during the time of his occupation.

The district of Mairwarra, inhabited by predatory tribes and belonging* partly to Oudeypore, Jodhpore, and the British Government in virtue of its possession of Ajmere, was entirely subdued by a British force in 1821. With a view to the pacification and improvement of the country it was taken under British administration and a local corps was raised to which Oudeypore and Jodhpore were to contribute annually Rupees 15,000 each. Although the Maharana of Oudeypore acquiesced in the arrangement and transferred his villages to the British Government for ten years, he appears to have executed no formal engagement. As his consent was reluctantly given, he was required to pay nothing towards the expenses of management beyond his contribution of Rupees 15,000 to the local corps. The arrangement expired in 1833, when the Maharana, having profited largely by it, willingly made a new engagement (No. II.) for eight years, and agreed to raise his contribution to Rupees 20,000. In 1843 he again expressed his readiness to allow the district to remain under British management so long as it might suit the convenience of the British Government. Much was done towards the civilization of the Mhairs by the British Government, and in 1847 an effort was made to procure the perpetual cession of the Meywar and Jodhpore shares. The Maharana agreed to a permanent transfer of his villages on condition of his receiving in farm the districts of Jawud, Jeerun, Neemuch, &c., which had been assigned to the British Government by Sindia for payment of the Gwalior Contingent, and to the restoration of which the Maharana conceived he had a right under the 7th Article of the Treaty of 1818. The Maharana's government, however, was so inefficient and oppressive that it was considered most objectionable to put additional districts under his control. In this unsatisfactory state the British occupation of Mairwarra remains.

The hill districts of Oudeypore to the south and south-west are inhabited by wild and turbulent tribes of Bheels and Grassias, under Rajpoot Chiefs owning a nominal allegiance to Oudeypore, holding the right of property in the land over which the Maharana has no power, and levying black mail on neighbouring villages and a tax on the passage of goods and travellers, for whose safety they are considered responsible. Various injudicious attempts to interfere with the prescriptive rights of these tribes drove them to revolt, and necessitated the employment of British troops for their coercion. It was found that without the constant supervision of British Officers permanent peace could not be restored. Accordingly it was proposed in 1838 to raise a Bheel Corps to be stationed in these districts. The Maharana of Oudeypore offered to contribute towards the expenses of the corps the revenues of his share of Mairwarra, estimated at Rupees 45,000, and the Grassia tributes, estimated at Rupees 40,000, and to make over the district for ten years to British management. The corps was raised in 1841 at a cost of Rupees 1,20,000 a year, of which Oudeypore agreed to pay Rupees 50,000, but the civil control of the districts was left with the Maharana. Since the formation of the corps the outbreaks of the Bheels have been suppressed; but there has been a constant struggle between the native government seeking to oppress the Bheels and the Superintendent of Kherwarra to protect them. In 1861 the cost of the corps was reduced to about Rupees 98,000.

Oudeypore

Captain Tod was the first Agent appointed to Oudeypore. As the country was utterly disorganized, decided interference was necessary to restore the State to prosperity, and enable it to perform with effect the stipulations of the Treaty with the British Government. Captain Tod was therefore directed to take the whole control of affairs into his own hands. The result was that the net revenues which in 1819 were only Rupees 4,41,218, amounted in 1821 to Rupees 8,77,634. Towards 1821, however, this minute interference was gradually withdrawn. The consequence was that within two years the State was involved in debt, the British tribute remained unpaid with arrears amounting to Rupees 7,90,747, and the incoming revenues of the State were anticipated. It became absolutely necessary again to place the districts under the superintendence of the Political Agent, to make the Maharana an allowance of Rupees 1,000 a day, and to reserve certain districts for the regular payment of the tribute and the liquidation of arrears. The dependent state to which the Maharana was reduced, although the result of his own improvidence, could only be justified as a temporary measure, inasmuch as it paralyzed all spontaneous and individual action within the State. In 1826, therefore, the authority of the Maharana was re-established, and the interference of the Political Agent was withdrawn. Within a few months the extravagance and oppression became as great as they had ever been before, and the roads became almost impassable to single travellers.

Maharana Bheem Sing died in 1828, and was succeeded by his son, Jowan Sing, who gave himself up to debauchery and vice. Within a few years the tribute again fell heavily into arrears, the State was overwhelmed in debt, and there was an annual deficit of two lakhs of Rupees; so that, in 1838, the Court of Directors ordered that, if the

RAJPOOT-
ANA. Maharana should fail in his engagements to liquidate the arrears, a territorial or other sufficient security should be required.

Oudeypore.

In August 1838 Jowan Sing died without issue, and was succeeded by his adopted son Sirdar Sing. He received an inheritance of debt amounting to Rupees 19,67,500, of which nearly eight lakhs were on account of tribute. Sirdar Sing was very unpopular with his Chiefs, and in 1841 he proposed, with a view to strengthen his authority, to subsidize a regiment of infantry to be stationed at his capital; but the proposal was not accepted. He died in 1842, and was succeeded by his younger brother, Suroop Sing, whom he had adopted.

The financial embarrassments in which the Oudeypore State was involved had led to repeated applications for a reduction in the amount of tribute, which, in 1826, had been fixed at three lakhs of Oudeypore Rupees. In June 1846 it was reduced to two lakhs of Government Rupees.

Suroop Sing died on 17th November 1861, and was succeeded by his nephew and adopted son, Sumbhoo Sing, to whom the privilege of adoption has been guaranteed (No. III.). The administration is conducted during his minority by a Regency Council with the aid of the advice of the Political Agent. The Council was, as usual in such cases, nominated by the Political Agent and appointed by Government. Three of the members have been dismissed by Government for misconduct, and in consequence of the gross perversion of justice by the Regency Council, it has been found necessary to confer judicial and revenue powers on the Political Agent during the minority of the Maharana.

Ever since the connection of the British Government with Oudeypore, the Chiefs of that State have been involved in disputes with their nobles, who enjoy privileges and rights which do not prevail in any other part of Rajpootana. The greater number of the feudatory Chiefs are descendants of former Ranas. Of these the most important are the Choondawut Chiefs who are descended from Choonda, and of whom the most powerful is the Rawut of Saloombur. This Choonda, about the middle of the fourteenth century, gave up his claim to the succession in favour of his younger brother Mokul, reserving for himself the first place in the councils of the State. The Rawut of Saloombur therefore claims the office of chief hereditary councillor; and when the Treaty of 1818 was concluded, an attempt was made, but without success, to obtain the guarantee of the British Government to this office being held by the Rawut. Next in importance to the Choondawut Chiefs are the Sukhtawuts, descended from Sukhta, brother of Pertab Rana, who ruled about the middle of the sixteenth century. At the date of the Treaty with the British Government these Chiefs had made themselves virtually independent of the Maharana, and one of the first acts of the Political Agent, who was invested with full control, was to draw up an agreement (No. IV.) between the Maharana and his Chiefs, by which the latter bound themselves to restore all the lands they had usurped or otherwise acquired during the last fifty years, and to perform service for three months each year with quotas of two horsemen and four foot soldiers for every Rupees 1,000 of their revenue. The object of this was to restore territorial possession to the footing on which it stood in the year 1766, when the ruin of Oudeypore commenced.

The quotas furnished under this agreement were notoriously inefficient. Shortly afterwards, in addition to service, the Maharana levied chuttoond or a tax of one-sixth of their revenues, at first to meet the expenses of the marriage of his daughters, but afterwards for purposes of police. The Chiefs objected to this tax, which was taken without their consent and was not devoted to the purposes for which it was professedly raised. In 1827, therefore, a new agreement (No. V.) was framed, the principle of which was that the Chiefs should pay the tax of one-sixth of their revenues and be excused half their service; that is to say, be bound to serve for three months in the year with only one horseman and two footmen for every Rupees 1,000 of revenue. This agreement was sanctioned by Government as the act of the Maharana and his Chiefs, but was not guaranteed. It was as inoperative as the agreement of 1818. The oppressive measures of the Oudeypore government drove many of the Chiefs into rebellion, while the Maharana on his part complained of the failure of his Chiefs to perform their obligations. In 1840 a third agreement (No. VI.) was signed, only to be replaced by another (No. VII.) five years later. Within two years disputes were as violent as ever, the Maharana complaining that the Chiefs did not perform their stipulated service, and the Chiefs alleging that service was demanded of them beyond the period agreed upon, and that their villages were attached and fines imposed on them on groundless and frivolous pretences.

In 1850 the Maharana confiscated a large portion of the estates of the Rawuts of Saloombur and Deogurh for non-performance of their obligations, but his troops were expelled by these Chiefs, who forcibly retook possession of the confiscated villages. The Maharana and his Chiefs applied for the mediation of the British Government, and a full enquiry took place into the causes of dispute. Sir Henry Lawrence negotiated a new agreement (No. VIII.), but this was signed only by the Maharana and four of his principal Chiefs. Its conditions, however, were never fulfilled, and eventually Government declared it to be null and void, but guaranteed the protection of the British Government to the Chiefs who had signed it. Under this guarantee the Maharana was compelled in 1861 to restore the estates of Mehta Sher Sing which he had confiscated.

The area of the Oudeypore State is 11,614 square miles and the population 1,161,400 souls. The gross revenue is about Rupees 40,00,000, of which about Rupees 12,00,000 are enjoyed by the subordinate Chiefs, subject to the payment of chuttoond. Deducting this and the religious endowments, British tribute, &c., there remain to the State about Rupees 14,00,000. The Maharana receives a salute of seventeen guns.

2nd.—Every Sirdar accompanied by half the quota he is by Sunnud bound to produce, shall do personal service in his turn for three months in each year; at the expiration of his tour he will be permitted by His Highness to retire to his jaghire.

3rd.—Foreign Beoparees, &c., &c., travelling through Meywar will give notice to and place themselves under the protection of the proprietor or local authorities of the village where they halt, who will be held responsible for their property; this will not extend to such persons as may encamp at a distance from the village without giving notice.

4th.—The Sirdars, &c., will take from their ryots half the produce as is done in the Khalsa; if this be objected to, the ryots will pay one-third and Burar as usual.

6th.—No village shall be sequestrated without just cause.

8th.—All Bhoom granted prior to 1722 Sumbut shall be considered valid.

10th. Surna (or Sanctuary) shall remain on the established footing, but shall not extend to murderers.

N. B.—This was not signed by the contracting parties until 1839, when it was signed by both and countersigned by Colonel Robinson, Political Agent, as witness of its having been duly executed in his presence.

KAULNAMAH OR AGREEMENT between the MAHARANA and his Chiefs, signed in presence of MAJOR ROBINSON, Officiating Political Agent in Meywar, on the 1st February 1840.

On Bysack bud 14th, Sumbut 1874, or May 1818, a Kaulnamah of ten Articles was concluded through the mediation of Captain Tod, bearing the signature of the Maharana and his Chiefs, for the mutual benefit of the contracting parties.

As in several instances the Chiefs have lost sight of the terms of that agreement, and their conduct has been at variance with it, the Maharana has agreed that a new Kaulnamah should be drawn up with the advice and concurrence of Captain Cobbe, introducing therein the clauses of the original agreement with such additional Articles as may be deemed beneficial both for His Highness and the Chiefs: that on the Dusserah festival the whole of the Chiefs shall assemble and the Articles of the Kaulnamah be read and explained to every Chief, and their signature affixed to the same, as also that of His Highness: that the Political Agent should also be requested by the Maharana and the Chiefs to sign and witness, to ensure the due observance of the terms of the Kaulnamah. This agreement was drawn up several years ago, but was not signed either by the Maharana, the Chiefs, or the Political Agent. Now, at the request of the Nobles and Chiefs of Meywar, His Highness the Maharana Sirdar Sing approves and confirms the said Kaulnamah without making any additions or alterations to it, and the same has been formally executed in the presence of Major Robinson, Officiating Political Agent in Meywar, on Mahbud 13th, Sumbut 1896, or 1st February 1840; and has been duly signed by the Maharana and the Nobles and Chiefs of Meywar.

Additional Articles for the benefit of both parties.

1. In the 9th Article of the first Kaulnamah, it is written that no Chiefs shall oppress or commit violence on their ryots; that all new dund, barar exactions, levied in times of commotion, shall cease. As they have not acted up to this engagement, and through their oppression many ryots have been driven from Meywar, it is ordained that they shall in future desist from such proceedings, which will induce the ryots

AJPOOT- to re-settle and tend to the increase of the revenue of their puttahs and
ANA. the prosperity of the country.

No. VI. 2. It is customary for every Chief to remain with his quota udeypore. of troops in attendance on the Durbar for three months in the year. This shall continue in force, and no Chief shall be detained at Oudeypore beyond the stipulated period of service, as by their detention the Chiefs are subjected to additional expense and trouble. It is optional with the Durbar to excuse the attendance of any Chief; however, in doing so, the Durbar will not send for another in his room until the expiration of the period the Chief thus excused from duty was to attend. The Chiefs shall be bound to maintain the full number of followers; if they furnish a less number, they will subject themselves to the displeasure of His Highness.

3. The three-eighths from the revenue collections of the khalsa lands are paid by the Durbar to the British Government for the protection of Meywar from foreign enemies; not a fraction is taken from the jaghiredars on this account. The payment of the tribute as here stated is exclusively for the protection of the country against foreign invasion, as the troops of the Chiefs are wholly inadequate for this purpose, the Chiefs participating largely in the benefit thus secured. In former times, a chout was paid to the Dukhnees, who were a source of great annoyance to the country; this evil is removed. The troops furnished by the Chiefs are only half the number they are bound to maintain, and are altogether unfit for duty; on which account the Durbar is obliged to issue rozeena and dustuk on the villages of the Chiefs, which subject them to trouble and expense. As the Durbar pays the tribute from the revenue of his khalsa possessions to the British Government, it was but fair for the Chiefs to have made a similar payment from the proceeds of their estates to the Durbar; but knowing that they can ill afford such a demand in consequence of the heavy expenses they are subject to for the maintenance of their relations and dependants, His Highness has thought proper to discharge the tribute from the revenue collections of the crown lands, without making any demands on that account from the Chiefs. His Highness has now resolved that the service of half the troops the Chiefs are bound to furnish, agreeably to the rekh or rent-roll, be discontinued, and, in commutation of the above half service, a money payment, amounting to 2 annas 7½ pie in the Rupee, be made, which is to be termed chuttoond; that from this fund a body of troops shall be raised for the service of the State. The Chiefs are not to suppose that the amount to be paid by them is taken in lieu of the tribute payable to Government, as no portion of it will be appropriated to any other purpose than the maintenance of a body of troops. The payment of the chuttoond will not bear hard upon the Chiefs, considering the performance of twelve months' service with their full quota of troops, which, no doubt, is more expensive and troublesome to them. On urgent occasions, if the Durbar requires the attendance of the full number of troops, and detaches them on duty beyond the Meywar limits, a remission will be made in the amount of the chuttoond of the Chief furnishing such troops.

4. His Highness the Maharana declares that he will not, without cause, confiscate the villages belonging to a Chief and bestow the same on another.

5. As several Chiefs wilfully withhold and delay the payment of the chuttoond, on which account the Durbar is compelled to send dustuks of horse and foot on the estates of the Chiefs, to enforce payment of the dues of the State, which subjects the Chiefs to a loss of hundreds of Rupees, and is by no means profitable to the Durbar, His Highness has resolved to invite agents on the part of the whole of the Chiefs, and in conjunction with the minister, to make a settlement for five years for the payment of chuttoond by two instalments; by doing so, there will be no occasion to send rozeena or dustuks: that if any of the Chiefs fail to pay the chuttoond ten days after it has been due, they would render themselves liable to the confiscation of their lands and villages to the extent of the defalcation, which shall not be restored to them.

Period of the payment of chuttoond 1st instalment on Mungsirsood Poonum, 2nd instalment Jeytsood Poonum. "

KAULNAMAH between MAHARANA SUROOP SINGH of Oudeypore and his Nobles and Chiefs, mediated by LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ROBINSON, dated Mah sood dooj, Sumbut 1901, or 8th February 1845.

Formerly an agreement was entered into between Maharana Bheem Singh and the Meywar Chiefs in Captain Tod's time, consisting of ten Articles. Afterwards another Kaulnamah of five Articles was drawn up in Captain Cobbe's time, and lastly one was concluded between Maharana Sirdar Singh and the Chiefs in the presence of Colonel Robinson, and duly signed by both parties. As the Chiefs have failed to act up according to the terms of the Kaulnamah, the Maharana, in order to the due observance of the same in future, has, in conjunction with the Chiefs and His Highness' authorities, drawn up the following additional Articles, and which have been mediated by Colonel Robinson and in his presence signed by both parties.

1. All the Articles of the former agreement are to continue in force. Every year, ten days before the Dusserah festival, a general assembly of the Chiefs shall take place. After the inspection of their troops, the Durbar will order such Chief as he pleases for three months' duty, and distinctly name the Chiefs and periods they are required to attend, and permit them to return to their homes. The troops of the Chiefs to make no excuse in the performance of their duties. Should they fail to attend at the appointed time, or be found negligent or deficient in numbers, the Chief in whose service they may be shall be called upon to make a money payment in lieu of troops to the Sree Durbar.

2. The Chiefs are to pay chuttoond at the rate of 2 annas 7½ pie in the Rupee, in commutation of half the troops they are bound to furnish, regularly at the stipulated periods according to the terms of the first Kaulnamah.

3. The Chiefs are to use their best endeavours for the suppression of thefts and robberies in their respective puttahs; they are not to harbor thieves, outlaws, or dacoits, belonging to foreign jurisdictions, but to apprehend all such offenders who may attempt to enter their elaguas, and make them over, together with such plundered property as may be found in their possession, to the State whose subjects they may be, agreeably to the course adopted with the concurrence of this Durbar by the governments of Jeypore and Jodhpore. RAJPOOT-ANA.

4. The Durbar has agreed, at the request of the Chiefs, that, whenever any dispute may arise among them concerning boundary or other matters, a punchayut will assemble at the scene of dispute, consisting of four persons on the part of the Chiefs and one to be nominated by the Durbar. It will be their duty to enquire into and settle the dispute with justice and equity, and their decision to be binding on both parties. No. VIII.
Oudeypore.

5. This agreement has been entered into with the free will and pleasure of both parties and to be mutually observed. All the Chiefs shall continue to pay chuttoond and perform service with pleasure and satisfaction according to the Kaulnamah, and as in Maharana Juwan Singh's time; any instance of carelessness or departure from the terms of this agreement shall render the Chiefs liable to the displeasure of the Sree Durbar as set forth in the first Kaulnamah.

No. VIII.

KAULNAMAH of 1854.

For thirty-four years the Maharana and his Chiefs have been at variance. The first has perpetually complained of disloyalty, the latter as often of tyranny.

With no other motive than the peace of the country and the happiness of all ranks, the various representatives of the Supreme Government have been from time to time permitted to arbitrate between the parties.

Several Kaulnamahs have been accordingly prepared, signed, and agreed to; yet all by each side have been continually broken.

RAJPOOT-
ANA.

No. VIII.

Oudeypore.

The Maharana's answer to the Chiefs' complaints of encroachment on their lands proves that he has not only encroached on their estates, but even established villages in them. His Highness' treatment of Lawa also shows he has punished guilt with undue severity. On the other hand, it is not denied that the Chiefs have been disobedient and many of them even rebellious.

Such conduct must cease on both sides, and as it is the desire of the Government of India that all subjects of Meywar should know that it will support the legitimate authority of the Maharana, so long as he acts justly and to their satisfaction and in accordance with the counsel and advice of the Political Agent, the Government orders the promulgation and enforcement of the following "Kaulnamah," which is founded on previous ones. Whoever does not adhere to it will be considered an offender against the British Government and liable to punishment; but an appeal in any dispute may be made to the Political Agent and the Agent, Governor General, whose decision will be final, and in accordance with the present Kaulnamah and with the spirit of ancient customs.

ARTICLE 1.

Chuttoond at the rate of $2\frac{1}{2}$ annas per Rupee of actual produce to be paid to the State of Meywar at two periods, December and June, through a banker or vakeel.

If any Chief fails in doing this he must pay interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum; after 12 months, lands to be confiscated to the extent of defalcation.

Those who neglect to give in a statement of actual produce to be arbitrarily assessed, but no increase to be hereafter demanded.

Saloombur does not pay chuttoond, but performs service at the capital for 12 months.

In addition to the $2\frac{1}{2}$ annas chuttoond, the Chiefs are to furnish one horse and two foot soldiers for 3 months at home or abroad [that is within Meywar], in lieu of the two horse and four foot at present furnished on each Rupees 1,000 of actual produce. Should any extra service be required, the Rana will pay for it at Rupees 16 a month for a horse and Rupees 6 for a foot soldier. Any failure of service will be charged to the Chiefs at the same rate. All Chiefs with their quotas will attend at Oudeypore for 10 days before and 5 days after the Dusserah, to pay their respects to the Maharana, at which period their turns of service and their posts will be allotted. On any emergency all Chiefs on receipt of the Rana's sign-manual will attend with their quotas.

RAJPOOT-
ANA.

No. VIII.
Oudeypore.

Those holding separate jaghires from the Rana will pay chuttoond and perform service separately.

ARTICLE 2.

Kaid or fees paid on Tulwar Bundun, i. e., investiture of fief, to be 12 annas per Rupee on the actual produce of one year; this will exempt the payment of that year's chuttoond. The Chiefs of Amait Gogoonda, Kanore, and Banaira, and the Kishnawuts, are exempt from these fees, but in lieu of them they pay nuzzerana, which, instead of being left to the will of the Rana, is now fixed at Rupees 8 per cent. on the actual produce.

ARTICLE 3.

All sums which the Rana has paid or may yet pay in indemnifications for thefts and robberies proved to have occurred within their fiefs, to be repaid by the Chiefs with interest at Rupees 6 per cent. for the past, and 12 per cent. for the future.

ARTICLE 4.

Thieves, dacoits, Thories, Baorees, Mogheas, and outlaws, are not to be harboured by the Chiefs. All participators in the proceeds of robbery, receivers of stolen goods, or protectors of thieves, will be held as guilty as the thieves. They will, with the concurrence of the Political Agent, be punished by fine or imprisonment. All merchants, traders, caravans, Bunjaras, and travellers are to be protected in passing through the territories of the Chiefs, who will be answerable if plundered, provided they have given notice of their arrival and taken reasonable precautions for their own protection. Plunderers of all kinds are to be apprehended and made over to the Maharana. If the Chiefs are unable to do this, they must report it to His Highness, and the Political Agent conjointly with the Maharana will settle upon the responsible party. All

RAJPOOT- claims for thefts traced into Meywar villages will have to be paid
ANA. by the villages where the tracks cease.

No. VIII.

ARTICLE 5.

All monies borrowed from the Maharana by the Chiefs, or on His Highness' guarantee, to be liquidated; the former at 6 per cent., and the latter at 9 per cent., unless a rate was fixed at the time of guarantee, in which case that rate must hold good. The Political Agent will fix the instalments to be paid in such liquidation.

ARTICLE 6.

All nuzzerana except the following are abolished:

1st.—On accession to the throne and on the first marriage of the Rana or heir apparent: From the sixteen Chiefs, and two Rajahs of the first rank, Rupees 500 and one or two horses, as is customary; lesser Chiefs and others 2 per cent. on the present actual produce; will be given to the State.

2nd.—On the marriage of the Rana's sisters or daughters, 2½ annas in the Rupee on the present actual produce for one year, and horses as in Rana Bheem Singh's time, will be given to the State.

3rd.—On the Rana's proceeding on a pilgrimage, 1½ anna in the Rupee on the present actual produce of one year, will be given to the State.

ARTICLE 7.

Arrears due by Chiefs on account of the marriage of the present Rana's sisters to be paid at the rate of 2½ annas per Rupee on the present actual produce of one year.

ARTICLE 8.

The Chiefs are not to levy larger sum from their ryots on occasions of investiture or nuzzerana, than they themselves pay the Rana.

ARTICLE 9.

Many Chiefs have of late been guilty of contumacy and disloyalty, thus rendering themselves liable to be fined. The Maharana has, however, with the advice of the Agent, overlooked their offences except those of the Chiefs of Saloombur and Deogurh. These latter forcibly resumed their confiscated villages, and ejected the State troops; for which they are each to be fined Rupees 25,000. The Maharana has forgiven all past offences with the exception of murder. In future all offenders shall be punished as the courts of justice may decree.

ARTICLE 10.

Bhoom lands [allodial allotments], houses, jaghires, villages, pieces of mortgaged land, deeds, grants, charity lands, &c., to continue in the possession of the present holders. Those which are held by grants dating from Bheem Sing's reign, or written deeds of Captains Tod and Cobbe, will not be resumed without good grounds, and their rights will be investigated by the Political Agent, aided, if he thinks advisable, by four or six Chiefs who are known not to be hostile to their sovereign.

Bhoomias [or landholders] from the Maharana are, as hitherto, to be responsible for the protection of their villages, and for all losses by theft and robbery.

ARTICLE 11.

Dan, Biswah [transit duties], Lagut [taxes], Khur Lakur [wood and grass], Rewaree camels, house-tax [Khana Shumari], all belong to Government; but those who have had the right of collecting such since Tod and Cobbe's time, and who possess the necessary [Sunnuds] deeds, will continue to collect them.

ARTICLE 13.

The orders about jails, witches [Dakuns], Bhopas [witch-informers], Tyag Bhat Charun, fixed by the Governor General's Agent in Rajpootana and concurred in by the Maharana, are to be obeyed by all classes in Meywar. Prisoners are to be maintained according to their condition,

ARTICLE 14.

The Maharana, the Political Agent, and the Chiefs will each appoint three Agents of character and knowledge, and these will name a seventh to draw up a Code of Rules consonant to Rajwarra customs and justice, for the future settlement of all Criminal and Civil cases, and by which in future all parties must be adjudged; the Code to be approved of by the Political Agent.

ARTICLE 15.

The constituted courts will settle all cases of importance and any that may come before them. The Chiefs may adjudicate suits of minor consequence between their retainers and ryots, and may imprison culprits for one month, though not ill-treat or torture them. An appeal in any case may be made from their decision to the Minister and from him to the Political Agent.

ARTICLE 16.

ARTICLE 18.

The ancient usages and privileges of Chiefs, temples, religious establishments, &c., to continue. The An or oath of allegiance to be observed as of old.

ARTICLE 19.

No person to be seized on the plea of sorcery, witchcraft, or incantations. In charges of poisoning or of criminal intercourse [both cognizable by the courts] the Durbar is in no way to interfere.

Dhoush (or summons) only to be sent by the Minister's written order to those who did so in Tod and Cobbe's time.

ARTICLE 21.

A British Officer or other Official will be appointed to settle all boundary disputes [Kankur or Seem-ka-jugra] present and future. Parties to share the costs, unless one may be proved to have neglected boundary marks, when that party will pay the whole, and be punished as deemed expedient.

ARTICLE 22.

Adoption of the next heir male by Chiefs or others is allowed, with the knowledge of the Maharana, and in consonance with custom and the law. On the demise of Chiefs, their widows, with the council of the family, may adopt. In cases of disagreement, appeal to lie to Political Agent.

ARTICLE 23.

Grants of lands or villages to Eklungjee, Nathowara, Punchowlee, Seedass, and Chobee, to continue to the holders; all customary impositions as Naiq or court fees to be paid to those entitled to them, and to be collected with the chuttoond.

ARTICLE 25.

The Rana will not interfere in mortgages of houses, lands, &c., though he may discourage them as much as possible. He will not take interest from his troops for advances, but pay them regularly every four months. Nor will he permit his name to be used in shops or in any way in trade.

ARTICLE 26.

The Chiefs were prohibited in former Kaulnamahs from uniting or banding together. This has not been attended to. All such combinations are now unnecessary, as every one can, if he has a real grievance, immediately obtain redress; and they will therefore in future subject those entering into them to be treated as enemies to the State.

ARTICLE 27.

An Agent from each Chief to reside at court, through whom business will be transacted. Persons of respectability only to be deputed, and they will be treated according to custom and the rank of their master.

ARTICLE 28.

ARTICLE 29.

The Crown lands being responsible for the protection of the British Government dâks and banghees, the Chiefs must be equally responsible in their jaghires and in like manner make good all losses by plunderers.

ARTICLE 30.

After the execution of this Kaulnamah, which abrogates all previous ones, any disputes that may arise at any time between the Durbar and Chiefs, on points not mentioned or that may be doubtful, must be brought to notice within three months, for the decision of the Political Agent in Meywar and the Governor General's Agent in Rajpootana, whose decision will be final. Any case not submitted within the above period will be dismissed as groundless.

J E Y P O R E.

THE present State of Jeypore was founded by Dhola Rai in A. D. 967. The family belong to the Cuchwaha tribe of Rajpoots and claim descent from Rama, King of Ajoodhia, between whom and Dhola Rai are said to have intervened thirty-four generations. At the time of the foundation of the Jeypore State, the country of Rajpootana was divided among petty Rajpoot and Meena Chiefs, all owing allegiance to the Hindoo Kings who then ruled in Delhi.

At an early date Jeypore succumbed to the Mahomedans. Rajah Bhugwan Dass was the first Rajpoot Chief who allied himself by marriage with the Mahomedan Emperors of Delhi. The Jeypore family furnished the Emperors with some of their most distinguished military leaders. One of the Chiefs of Jeypore, Jey Sing II., who began to rule in A. D. 1699, was distinguished by his intellectual capacity and his liberal patronage of science and art. His attainments in mathematics and astronomy have made his name known to European scholars. At a later period the Rajahs of Jeypore united with Oudeypore and Jodhpore to resist the Mahomedan power. To obtain the privilege of re-marrying with the Oudeypore family, which had been forfeited by marriage with the Emperors, they agreed, on the occasion of such alliances, that the issue of the Oudeypore princess should succeed to the State in preference to elder sons by other wives. This attempt to set aside the rights of elder sons brought great disasters both on Jeypore and Oudeypore.

The Mahratta supremacy over the Rajpoot States had succeeded that of the Mahomedans when the political relations of the British Government with Jeypore commenced in 1803. Juggut Sing was then Maharajah of Jeypore. In pursuance of the general policy of the British Government at the commencement of the Mahratta war to exclude the Mahrattas from Hindostan by uniting the Rajpoot Chieftains in a subsidiary alliance with the British Government, a Treaty (No. II) had been concluded in 1803 with the Maharajah of Jeypore. The Maharajah, however, fulfilled his obligations very imperfectly, and Lord Cornwallis, who had resolved to abandon the system of subsidiary alliances, declared the connection with Jeypore to be dissolved, and withdrew from that State the protection of the British Government. But before this resolution had been communicated, the Maharajah had retrieved his credit by heartily co-operating against Holkar with Lord Lake, who had thereupon assured him of continued support. The policy of Lord Cornwallis, however, was adopted by Sir George Barlow, who, notwithstanding the remonstrance of Lord Lake made both on grounds of general policy and good faith, dissolved the alliance with Jeypore.

ANA.

Jeypore.

The expediency of the dissolution of this alliance was considered to be very questionable by the Home Government, who in 1813 directed that Jeypore should again be taken under protection if opportunity afforded. But owing to the outbreak of the war with Nepal it was considered better to postpone any such measure until it could be adopted as part of the general scheme for the suppression of the Pindarees. In 1817, when negotiations were opened, it was found that the cancelment of the previous Treaty had rendered the Jeypore State reluctant to enter into a fresh alliance. In time, however, the increasing necessities of the State, the example of its neighbours, and the apprehension of being excluded from British protection, the continued exacting of Ameer Khan's troops who were permitted to remain in the country till Jeypore should enter into the general scheme of suppressing the Pindarees, and the arrangements in progress for forming separate engagements with the small States depending on Jeypore, which would have reduced her to insignificance; all these concurring causes led at length to Jeypore accepting a Treaty (No. X.) on 2nd April 1818, by which the protection of the British Government was extended to Jeypore and the Maharajah agreed to furnish troops at the requisition of the British Government, and to pay an annual tribute of eight lakhs of Rupees until the revenue should exceed forty lakhs, after which the sixteenths of the excess were to be paid in addition to the eight lakhs. The first duty urged on the Maharajah after the conclusion of the Treaty was the resumption of the lands usurped by the nobles and the reduction of the nobles to their proper relation of subordination to the Maharajah. Through the mediation of Sir David Ochterlony agreements (No. XI.) were entered into similar to those formed at Oudeypore. The usurped lands were restored to the Maharajah and the nobles were guaranteed in their legitimate rights and possessions.

RAJPOO

Jeypore

In 1818 Juggut Sing ended a life which had been spent in the grossest debauchery. He died regretted by none. He left no sons, and an attempt was made to put Mohun Sing, a distant relative of the family, in power; but on 25th April 1819 a posthumous son was born by one of the Rances, and he was recognised as heir both by the Jeypore nobles and the British Government, under the Regency of his mother. Till the Rance's death in 1833, Jeypore was a scene of corruption and misgovernment, and the British Government found it necessary to appoint an Officer to reside at Jeypore and to authorize him to interfere in the internal administration of the State, with the view of guarding the interests of Government and securing the payment of the tribute.

The young Maharajah Jey Sing died in 1835, leaving a young son, Ram Sing, the present Maharajah, then under two years of age. It was supposed that the Rajah was poisoned by one Jota Ram, the paramour of the late Rance, who under her influence had acquired great power in the State and supplanted in the Office of Minister Rawul Byree Lall, the nominee of the British Government. On the death of the Maharajah, the Agent to the Governor General proceeded to Jeypore to make enquiries, reform the administration, and assume the guardianship of the infant heir. The strong measures which he adopted led to the formation of a conspiracy by Jota Ram. The Agent's life was attempted and his Assistant was murdered. The murderers were seized and executed by order of Rawul Byree Lall whom the Agent had appointed minister, and Jota Ram and his fellow-conspirators were imprisoned for life in the fort of Chunar.

Large arrears of tribute had accumulated during the long course of misgovernment in Jeypore, and the resources of the State were nearly ruined. It therefore again became necessary for the British Government to interfere in the internal administration. A council Regency, consisting of five of the principal nobles, was formed and the superintendence of a Political Agent for whose decision all measures of importance were submitted; the army was reduced, every branch of the administration was reformed, and suttee, slavery, and infanticide were prohibited. The tribute was found to be far in excess of a fair proportion of the revenue; and therefore in 1842 a remission was made of forty-six lakhs of arrears, and the annual tribute was reduced to four lakhs of Rupees.

RAJPOOT-
ANA.

Jeypore.

The Maharajah Ram Sing did good service during the mutiny for which he received a grant of the pergunnah of Kote-kassim, under promise to respect the revenue settlements made while the pergunnah was under British management. He has also received the privilege of adoption (No. III). He is an intelligent ruler, and takes much interest in education and in opening up roads through his State.

The right of succession to the State of Jeypore, in the event of the failure of direct heirs, is supposed to be vested in the Rajawur or the descendants of the main stock of Pirthee Raj, one of the former rulers, in contradistinction to the descendants of the other sons of Pirthee Raj. Of these sons there were twelve, to each of whom Pirthee Raj gave estates known as the twelve Kotrees. The present number of Kotrees, however, is more than twelve,* some having been obtained by descendants of earlier rulers, while some of the Kotrees created by Pirthee Sing are now extinct.

The area of Jeypore is about 15,000 square miles and the population 1,900,000. A large portion of the revenues of the State is alienated in jaghires and religious grants, but the available receipts are Rupees 36,00,000. The larger portion of the Sambur Lake belongs to Jeypore, and the salt manufactured from it yields to the State a revenue of about Rupees 4,00,000. No local corps or contingents are paid from the resources of Jeypore. The effective military force consists of 45 Artillery, 4,600 Infantry, 5,142 Cavalry, and 4,090 Naghas. The Maharajah receives a salute of seventeen guns.

JODHPORE OR MARWAR.

THIS State ranks next in importance to Oudeypore and Jeypore among the States of Rajpootana. Tradition ascribes its foundation to Jodha, a descendant of the Rahtore Rajpoot kings of Canauj, who is said to have founded the city of Jodhpore about A. D. 1459. Jodhpore became tributary to the Emperor Akbar. The family gave several daughters in marriage to the Imperial family and furnished some distinguished Generals to the Imperial army. About the beginning of last century Rajah Ajeet Sing became a party to the triple alliance with Oudeypore and Jeypore to throw off the Mahomedan yoke. It was one of the conditions of this alliance that the Chiefs of Jeypore and Jodhpore should regain the privilege of marriage with the Oudeypore family which they had forfeited by contracting alliances with the Emperors, on the understanding that the offspring of the princesses of Oudeypore should succeed to the State in preference to all other children. The quarrels to which this stipulation gave rise led to the invitation of the help of the Mahratta leaders by the aspirants to power in support of their claims and the subjection of all the Rajpoots States to the Court of Poona. Jodhpore was conquered by Sindia, who levied from it a tribute of sixty lakhs of Rupees and took from it the fort and city of Ajmere.

At the commencement of the war of 1803, Maun Sing had just been elected by the nobles to be Chief of Jodhpore after a long struggle with his cousin Bheem Sing. The alliance of the British Government was offered to him, and a Treaty (No. XII.) was concluded. But instead of ratifying it, Maun Sing proposed another. In the meantime he had also given assistance to Holkar. The Treaty was therefore formally cancelled in May 1804, and Maun Sing was left to his own resources. Thereafter Jodhpore was ruined by internal disputes regarding the succession of Dhokul Sing, a reputed son of Bheem Sing, and by a disastrous war with Jeypore, in which the freebooter Ameer Khan, after espousing first the cause of Jeypore and then of Jodhpore, terrifying the Maharajah into abdication and pretended insanity, and assuming the management of the country himself for two years, ended by plundering the treasury and leaving the country with its resources completely exhausted.

JAIPOOT-

Chutter Sing, the only son of the Maharajah, assumed the Regency on the withdrawal of Ameer Khan in 1817. With him negotiations were commenced at the outbreak of the Pindaree war and a Treaty (No. XIII.) was concluded in January 1818, by which Jodhpore was taken under the protection of the British Government, the tribute payable to Sindia was transferred to the British Government, and the Maharajah engaged to furnish 1,500 Horse for general service whenever required, and the whole forces of the Jodhpore State when necessary. Chutter Sing died from the effects of dissipation shortly after the conclusion of the Treaty, whereupon his father threw off the mask of insanity and resumed the administration.

In 1824 twenty-one villages in the pergunnahs of Chang and Kot Karana in Mairwarra were made over (No. XIV.) to the British Government for eight years, with a view of bringing the lawless Meenas and Mairs into submission, the Maharajah agreeing to pay Rupees 15,000 a year towards the expenses of the local corps which was then raised.* The engagement was renewed (No. XV.) in 1836 for nine years, and seven additional villages were put under British administration. This lease expired in 1843. The Maharajah then resumed the seven villages, but expressed his readiness to leave the others under the administration of the British Government for such time as might suit their convenience. But no definite arrangements were made; and on this unsatisfactory footing the administration of these villages still remains. The desert tract of Mullanee also is under the superintendence of the Jodhpore Political Agent. It belongs to Jodhpore, but the feudatories acknowledge the Maharajah's supremacy only by paying an annual tribute of Rupees 6,882, which is collected by the Political Agent and paid over to the Durbār.

* See Oudeypore, page 6.

By the 8th Article of the Treaty of 1818 the Jodhpore State was bound to furnish a contingent of 1,500 Horse. Under this Article a demand was made in 1832 for a force to co-operate against freebooters who occupied Nuggur Parker. The contingent failed in its duty and proved perfectly useless. In 1835, therefore, the obligation to furnish the contingent was commuted (No. XVI.) to an annual payment of Rupees 1,15,000 towards the Jodhpore Legion, which was then raised. This Legion mutinied in 1857. Its place is now supplied by the Erinpooora Irregular Force. The commandant of the Force is also Political Superintendent of Sirohee and Magistrate of Mount Aboo. Besides the contribution for the Erinpooora Force, Jodhpore pays a tribute of Rupees 98,000, a remission of Rupees 10,000 having been made in 1847, in consideration of the cession (No. XVII.) to the British Government of the rights of Jodhpore to the province and fort of Omerkote. This province fell to the possession of Jodhpore in 1780, but it was wrested from that State in 1813 by the Talpore Ameers of Sind. After the conquest of Sind, Government promised to restore it to the Maharajah. But as the fort of Omerkote was a valuable frontier post and the district could not be controlled by Jodhpore, it was considered best for the British Government to retain possession of it, and to give to Jodhpore a money compensation in the shape of remission of tribute.

Within a few months after his resumption of power, Maharajah Maun Sing put to death or imprisoned most of the Chiefs who, during his assumed imbecility, had shown any unfriendly feeling towards him. Many of the other nobles fled from his tyranny and found refuge in neighbouring States. The exiled party appealed for aid to the British Government. Aid was refused; but an accommodation (No. XVIII.) was effected with the Maharajah through the mediation of the British Government. In 1827 the recusant nobles assembled their followers, and putting the pretender Dhokul Sing at their head, prepared to invade Jodhpore from the Jeypore territory. By giving facilities for this attack on Jodhpore, the Jeypore State was considered to have violated its Treaty engagements in such a flagrant manner as to justify the British Government in adopting any measures which might seem expedient, both for resenting the infraction of a positive engagement, and for preventing its mischievous effects. Strong remonstrances were

RAJPOOT- therefore addressed to the Maharajah of Jeypore. Although the attack
ANA. on Jodhpore was headed by Marwar nobles, the Maharajah looked on it Jodhpore. as a foreign aggression, and claimed protection under the Treaty of 1818. Dhokul Sing was therefore called on by the British Government to retire from the confederacy. He withdrew to Jhujjur and the Chiefs settled their differences among themselves. At the same time Government declared that although it might perhaps be required to protect the Maharajah against unjust usurpation or wanton but too powerful rebellion, there was no obligation to support him against universal disaffection and insurrection caused by his own injustice, incapacity, and misrule.

In 1839, in consequence of disputes with the nobles and the subjection of the Maharajah to priestly influence, the misgovernment of Jodhpore was such that the British Government was compelled to interfere. A force was marched to Jodhpore, of which it held military occupation for five months, and Maun Sing executed an engagement (No. XIX.) to ensure future good government. The engagement was a personal one, and ceased with his life on 5th September 1843.

Maun Sing died in 1843 without sons of his body and without adopting a son. The succession lay between the Chiefs of Edur and Ahmednuggur in the Bombay Presidency, Edur being the nearest of kin. It was left to the widows, the nobles, and the state officials interested to select the Chief whom they should desire to rule over them. Their choice fell on Tukht Sing of Ahmednuggur, whom with his son Jeswunt Sing they invited to Jodhpore. At this time Dhokul Sing, the supposititious son of Bheem Sing, revived his claims, but they were set aside.

On his removal to Jodhpore, Tukht Sing left his son Jeswunt Sing at Ahmednuggur and claimed the right to retain Ahmednuggur in his family on the ground that the former ruler Pirthee Sing had adopted Jeswunt Sing, and he, Tukht Sing, had only been regent and not actual ruler of Ahmednuggur. Inquiry, however, proved that for two years Tukht Sing had been, and had been recognized as, the ruler of Ahmednuggur, and that by the customs of Rajpootana and Goojerat and by Hindoo law the right of succession of his family in Ahmednuggur was cancelled by his acceptance of power in Jodhpore. It was therefore decided in 1818 that Ahmednuggur should lapse to Edur from which State it had been severed in 1784, and that Tukht Sing should remove his family from Ahmednuggur and abstain from all interference in its affairs. Maharajah Tukht Sing is still ruler of Jodhpore. He did good service during the mutinies and has received the right of adoption (No. III.) He is entitled to a salute of seventeen guns.

TRANSLATION of a NOTE from the JODHPORE VAKEEL, to the POLITICAL AGENT, Jodhpore, dated 15th May 1847.

I communicated to His Highness the Maharajah the contents of your note of the 6th March last, intimating that, in lieu of the cession of Omerkote, a yearly deduction of Rupees 10,000 would be made from the 1,15,000 Sower Khurch.

His Highness observed, "Omerkote was mine and my claim to it is clear, as the Sahib Bahadoor knows. As long as it remains in the possession of the British Government, I may look upon it as belonging to myself; but whenever the British Government may be pleased to grant it away, let it be granted to me, and not to another, for Omerkote was mine, so let it be granted to me. In Rajasthan we estimate a right to land very high, and the day on which Omerkote is given to me will be a day of great rejoicing.

"In the meanwhile may the 10,000 Rupees be deducted yearly from the 1,08,000 (tribute payable to the British Government). This deduction is granted in lieu of land, and tribute is leviable on land, therefore it ought to be deducted from the tribute."

ENGAGEMENT between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and MAHARAJAH MAUN SING.

No. XIX.

Jodhpore.

Between the august British Government and the Sirkar of Jodhpore friendship has of old subsisted, and in consequence of the negociation of the Treaty in Sumbut 1875 (A. D. 1818), this feeling has been established upon a firmer basis; mutual amity has thus existed down to the present time between the two Governments, and such will endure in future time.

At this time the following Articles of agreement are concluded between the august British Government and Maharajah Maun Sing Bahadoor, the sovereign of Jodhpore, through Colonel John Sutherland :—

1st.—Now for the government of the country mutual deliberations having been agreed upon, the Maharajah and Colonel Sutherland and the Sirdars and Uhal-i-kars and the Khuwas Pasbans of the Raj will meet and institute rules for the government of the country which are to be acted upon now and henceforward; they will also define and settle the rights of the several Chiefs and of the Officers of the Government and of others depending upon it according to ancient usage.

2nd.—The British Political Agent and the Uhal-i-kars of the Raj of Jodhpore having counselled together will conduct the affairs of the government according to these rules and after having consulted the Maharajah.

3rd.—The said Punchayut will conduct all the affairs of government in accordance with ancient usage.

4th.—The Colonel Sahib has said that a British garrison shall be placed in the fortress of Jodhpore, and to this the Maharajah agrees. In other Principalities of Rajasthan, where Political Agents reside, they remain outside the city. Within the precincts of the fortress are only dwelling houses, and the area is very much confined. In this consists the difficulty; but nevertheless in view to gratify the Sirkar, the (proposition regarding the) British garrison has been approved, and a suitable spot having been selected it shall be established. The Durbar is under no kind of apprehension of the Sirkar.

BOONDEE.

THE ruling family of Boondée belong to the Hara tribe of Rajpoots. The first Rajah with whom the British Government had any intercourse was Omeda, who gave most efficient assistance to Colonel Monson's army in its retreat before Holkar in 1804, and brought down on himself the vengeance of Holkar; he died in 1804 after a rule upwards of fifty years, and was succeeded by his infant son, Bishen Sing. During the Mahratta supremacy this State suffered much at the hands of Sindia and Holkar, who virtually assumed the management of its revenues.

The territory of Boondée was so situated as to be of great importance during the war in 1817 in cutting off the flight of the Pindarees. Maha Rao Bishen Sing early accepted the British alliance, and a Treaty (No. XX.) was concluded with him on 10th February 1818. Although his forces were inconsiderable, he co-operated heartily with the British Government. It was this connection with the British Government that raised Boondée from the lamentable condition to which it had been reduced by the Mahrattas. By the Treaty of 1818 the tribute paid to Holkar and the lands in Boondée held by Holkar were relinquished to the Rajah, who engaged to pay to the British Government the share of tribute he had hitherto paid to Sindia. The tribute was fixed at Rupees 80,000, of which half was on account of two-thirds of the pergunnah of Patun held by Sindia; the remaining one-third of the pergunnah which had been held by Holkar was restored to Boondée under Article 4 of the Treaty. It had been the intention of Government to restore to Boondée the territories usurped by Sindia as well as by Holkar, and under the belief that the two-thirds of Patun had been so usurped, these districts were entered in the schedule of the Treaty. It was not known at the time that the whole pergunnah of Patun had been ceded to the Peishwa during the ministry of Nana Furnavese.

WJPOOT- for assistance rendered in expelling a usurper from Boondée, and that ANA. the Peishwa had conferred two-thirds of it on Sindia and the rest on Boondée. Holkar. The real state of the case, however, was afterwards discovered, and the tribute of Rupees 40,000 on account of the two-thirds of Patun was never exacted from Boondée. As compensation to Holkar for the share of Patun of which he was deprived, an annual payment of Rupees 30,000 is made to him by the British Government. In 1844 Sindia transferred to the British Government the two-thirds of Patun as part of the territories ceded in trust for the support of the Contingent; the Chief of Boondée thereupon revived the question of its cession to him. Sindia was unwilling to give up the suzerainty, but in 1847 an agreement (No. XXI.) was effected with the consent of the Gwalior Durbar, by which the district was made over in perpetuity to Boondée on payment of Rupees 80,000 a year to be credited to the Gwalior Durbar. Under the Treaty of 1860 with Sindia the sovereignty of the two-thirds of Patun was transferred to the British Government, so that Boondée now holds the district as a perpetual fief from the British Government, subject to a payment of Rupees 80,000 in addition to the tribute of Rupees 40,000 payable under the Treaty of 1818 as the "chouth of Boondée and other places."

Bishen Sing died on 14th July 1821, and was succeeded by his son, Ram Sing, the present Maha Rao, who was then about eleven years of age. During the long minority which ensued, the British Government had on more than one occasion to interfere in the internal administration of the State. Maha Rao Ram Sing was so indifferent in his allegiance to the British Government during the mutinies of 1857, that friendly intercourse with him was broken off and not resumed till 1860. The Maha Rao has received the right of adoption (No. III.).

The area of Boondée is estimated at 2,291 square miles, the population at 220,000, and the annual revenue at Rupees 5,00,000. Boondée pays no contribution to any local corps or contingent. The Chief receives a salute of seventeen guns. The army of the State amounts to 700 Horse, 2,700 Infantry, and 12 guns.

All the rights of sovereignty which the British Government has engaged to continue to the Gwalior Durbar by the 12th Article of their Treaty of the 13th January 1844, the Maha Rao Rajah of Boondce agrees for himself and his heirs to respect and continue in the Patun District.

ARTICLE 5.

The transfer of the two-third shares of Kishorae Patun District having been made in compliance with his own application, the Maha Rao Rajah of Boondce agrees for himself and heirs in the event of failing to pay the stipulated instalments with punctuality, or in the event of non-performance of any of the conditions above referred to, to resign the management of them together with the management of the other, viz., his own third share of the district, to the British Government, from which any arrears that may be due are in the first instance to be taken; and after their liquidation credit to be given to him for the yearly collections of revenue that may be made from the said third share. But neither the Gwalior Durbar nor the British Government will ever otherwise require the restoration of the Keshorae Patun District from the Boondce Raj.

ARTICLE 6.

No interference of any kind to be offered to the management of the two-third shares of the Keshorae Patun District by the Boondce authorities, so long as the above conditions are faithfully adhered to.

The above agreement of six Articles has been prepared for and is signed by the Maha Rao Rajah Ram Sing Bahadoor, Raees of Boondce, on the 7th of Aghur Bud, Sumbut 1904, corresponding with the 20th of Zil Hij 1263 Hijree, and the 29th of November 1847.

K O T A II.

THE principality of Kotah was formed about two centuries and a half ago by the Chief of Boondee, who was forced by the Maharana of Oudeypore to cede half his territory to his younger brother, in whose family it continued till the time of Omeid Sing, when the British Government formed their first connection with Kotah. Like all the other Rajpoot States, Kotah had been despoiled by the Mahrattas, and was under obligations, which it was too poor to fulfil, to pay tribute to each of the three great Mahratta families of Malwa, the Puars, Sindia, and Holkar, as well as to the Peishwa.

Kotah was saved from absolute ruin by the talents of the Minister Raj Rana Zalim Sing, into whose hand Maha Rao Omeid Sing surrendered all power. In the course of forty-five years he raised the Kotah State to be one of the most powerful and flourishing in Rajpootana. He was one of the first of the Rajpoot Chiefs to co-operate with the British Government for the suppression of the Pindarees in 1817. Through Zalim Sing a Treaty (No. XXII.) was concluded with the Kotah Chief in December 1817, by which Kotah was taken under the protection of the British Government, the tribute formerly paid to the Mahrattas was made payable to the British Government, who accounted to Sindia for his share, and the Maha Rao was to furnish troops according to his means when required. A supplementary Article was added to the Treaty, vesting the administration in Zalim Sing and his descendants. The tributary claims on Shahabad, the personal estate of Zalim Sing, were remitted on Kotah restoring to Oudeypore some lands held from that State as security for a bond debt of nine lakhs of Rupees. The fidelity and active zeal of Zalim Sing in the Pindaree war were further rewarded by the permanent annexation (No. XXIII.) of four districts ceded by Holkar. It was at first intended to make a separate grant of these districts to the Minister, but he insisted that they should be annexed to the Kotah State.

During the life of Maha Rao Omeid Sing no inconvenience was felt from the arrangements made by the Treaty of 1817, by which one person was recognized as the titular Chief and another was guaranteed as the actual ruler; but on his death in 1820 his successor, Kishore Sing, attempted to secure the actual administration by force. An accommodation was effected after the defeat of Kishore Sing by a British force. Kishore Sing received an allowance of Rupees 1,64,000, and on his part recognized the perpetual administration of Zalim Sing and his heirs (No. XXIV.)

Zalim Sing died in 1824, and his son Madho Sing succeeded him. The unfitness of Madho Sing for office was matter of notoriety; but he received undisputed charge of the administration under the Treaty. In 1828 Kishore Sing the Maha Rao was succeeded by his nephew Ram Sing, the present Chief. In 1834 the disputes between Ram Sing and his Minister Muddun Sing, the son and successor of Madho Sing, broke out afresh. There was danger of a popular rising for the expulsion of the minister; and it was therefore resolved with the consent of the Chief of Kotah to dismember the State and to create the new principality of Jhallawur as a separate provision for the descendants of Zalim Sing. Seventeen pergunnahs, yielding a revenue of twelve lakhs of Rupees, were made over to Muddun Sing; this arrangement formed the basis of a new Treaty (No. XXV.) with Kotah. The Maha Rao's tribute was reduced to Rupees 80,000, which sum was to be paid by Jhallawur, and he agreed to maintain an auxiliary force at a cost of not more than three lakhs of Rupees. It was with much reluctance that the Maha Rao agreed to the formation of this force; and in consequence of his repeated remonstrances the payment for it was reduced to two lakhs in 1844, and it was agreed that if this sum should prove insufficient, the difference would be paid from the Kotah tribute. At the same time the Chief was warned that if he failed to make his payments punctually, a territorial security would be required both for the tribute and the payments for the auxiliary force.

The auxiliary force was known as the Kotah Contingent: these troops mutinied in 1857 and murdered the Political Agent and his two sons. The Maha Rao made no attempt to offer assistance to the Political Agent, and as a mark of the displeasure of Government his salute was reduced from seventeen to thirteen guns. The Kotah Contingent is now represented by the Deolee Irregular Force.

The troops which the Maha Rao is allowed to entertain are limited to 15,000 men of all descriptions; the State revenue from all sources is about Rupees 25,00,000; the area of Kotah is about 5,000 square miles; and the population 433,000. The tribute payable to the British Government is Rupees 1,84,720 in addition to the two lakhs of Rupees for the Deolee Irregular Force. The Maha Rao has been guaranteed (No. III.) the right of adoption.

In 1817 Rawut Doorjun Sing was guaranteed in the possession of the village of Seedra which had been held by his family in jaghire from time immemorial, and in place of a horse which the Rawut was required annually to present to the Maha Rao, it was stipulated that he should pay a yearly tribute of Rupees 100.

The above claims will be individually satisfied by the Maha Rao after due enquiry agreeably to the circumstances of each. The Maha Rao will also settle any other just debts, should they exist, that may, on enquiry, prove to be justly chargeable to the Kotah State.

THE existence of Jhallawar as a separate dependency dates only 1838, when the Kotah principality was dismembered.* On the appointment of Raj Rana Mudun Sing in Jhallawar a Treaty (No. 1) was concluded on the 8th April 1838, by which he acknowledged British supremacy, engaged not to negotiate with any other power without the sanction and knowledge of that Government, agreed to maintain troops according to his means, and to pay an annual tribute of Rs. 80,000. Agreeably to the 3rd Article of the above Treaty, Mudun Sing, on assuming charge of his new principality, was vested with the title of Maharaj Rana. He was to be placed exactly on the same footing as all the other rulers in Rajpootana, and to receive the right of succession if that right should be conceded to other rulers; but the succession was to be limited to the descendants of Zalim Sing.

In 1845, Mudun Sing died, and was succeeded by Pirthee Sing, the present ruler. During the mutinies of 1857-58, this Chief rendered valuable service by conveying to places of safety several Europeans who had taken refuge in his districts. He has been guaranteed (No. III.) the privilege of adoption. He receives a salute of fifteen guns.

The estimated average amount of revenue of this State is between ten and fifteen lakhs of Rupees. It pays Rupees 80,000 a year to the British Government as tribute; no local corps or contingents are raised from the resources of Jhallawar; the area of the State is 1,200 square miles; and the population 2,20,000. The entire military force of the State is about 500 Horse and 3,500 Infantry.

TONK.

THE present Nawab is the son of the famous predatory leader Ameer Khan, the companion in arms of Jeswunt Rao Holkar, who played a most conspicuous part in all the distractions which preceded the British settlement of Malwa. Ameer Khan was by connection, habit, and disposition essentially a Pindaree. On the entrance of the British into Malwa he made overtures to be admitted to protection, but the conditions he proposed were too extravagant to be acceded to. He was however offered a guarantee of all the lands he held under grants from Holkar and the protection of the British Government, on condition of his abandoning the predatory system, dismissing his army, surrendering his artillery, with exception of forty guns, to the British at a valuation, and furnishing a body of troops to co-operate with the British force. It was deemed both just and expedient that the price of reclaiming Ameer Khan from his predatory habits of life should be paid by the Holkar State, whose weak and dishonest course of policy had raised him to his actual power. The request of Ameer Khan to be confirmed in lands similarly obtained from different Rajpoot States under every circumstance of violence and extortion was positively rejected. To the terms offered him Ameer Khan agreed, and they were embodied in a Treaty (No. XXVII.) in November 1817. To the territories thus guaranteed, the fort and district of Rampoorra were added by the British Government as a free gift; and a loan of three lakhs of Rupees, afterwards converted into a gift, was made to him. The district of Pulwul was also conferred on his son in jaghire for life. In lieu of the revenue of this district, which it was found inconvenient to make

The State pays no tribute to the British Government nor are any local corps or contingents maintained from its resources. The regular military establishment consists only of about 500 or 600 horse. The Nawab receives a salute of seventeen guns; he has received sunnud (No. XXVIII.) guaranteeing the succession to his family according to Mahomedan law in the event of the failure of natural heirs.

THIS petty State paid a tribute of Rupees 25,000 to the Peishwa, which was ceded to the British Government by the 14th Article of the Treaty of Poona in 1817. The Maharajah had made over the village of Machulpore and its dependencies to the management of the Peishwa in lieu of the tribute; but as it was inconvenient for the British Government to take possession of such isolated villages, the tribute was relinquished at the time of the conclusion of the Treaty (No. XXIX.) by which the State of Kerowlee was taken under the protection of the British Government. In consideration of the relinquishment of the tribute, the Maharajah was bound by the 5th Article of the Treaty to furnish troops at the requisition of the British Government according to his means. At the time of the conclusion of the Treaty, the Maharajah wished for a guarantee that some of his old possessions south of the Chumbul then under the Government of Sindia, should be restored to him, subject to an annual tribute if they should ever come into the possession of the British Government; this was refused. In 1825, when Bulwunt Sing, the legitimate heir to the State of Bhurtpore, was rebelled against by his cousin Doorjun Sal, the rebel was supported by the Maharajah of Kerowlee. After the fall of Bhurtpore, however, the Maharajah made humble professions of submission, and it was not thought necessary to take serious notice of his conduct.

Beyond the adjustment of some boundary disputes between Kerowlee and Jeypore no communications of any importance took place with Kerowlee till the death of Hurbuksh Pal, in 1838. He was succeeded by his adopted son Pertab Pal, who died in 1848, leaving no son and no near male relative. In consequence of the factious which prevailed during the government of Pertab Pal, a British Officer was on four occasions deputed to Kerowlee to mediate between the parties, but without much success. Nursing Pal, a minor, was adopted by the family as the successor of Pertab Pal. Although there were many disputes regarding the guardianship of the boy, there were none regarding his selection. The Kerowlee State was at this time in debt to the British Government, and the recognition of the adoption of Nursing Pal was withheld till the first instalment should be paid. This debt was originally incurred by the Maharajah of Kerowlee to the State of Bhurtpore, which was indebted to the British Government. In arranging for the liquidation of the Bhurtpore debts, Government gave credit for the amount due from Kerowlee, and took upon itself to recover it from that State. In 1844 the Kerowlee debt amounted to Rupees 1,54,312. Very advantageous terms were given to the Maharajah: he was allowed twelve years to pay it off by instalments, and no interest was to be charged except on instalments remaining unpaid. Up to 1847, however, nothing was paid, and a further period of a year and a half was allowed before the first instalment should be demanded. After some delay the young Chief offered payment of the first instalment; but as it was not made unconditionally, and was advanced by a speculator for employment in Kerowlee, the money was not accepted. The factions at Kerowlee, however, were daily gaining strength, and therefore Government deemed it expedient to recognize the succession of Nursing Pal, warning him, however, that payment of the debt would be exacted; and as mediation between the factions had hitherto been unsuccessful, it was at the same time determined to send an Agent of the British Government to Kerowlee to control all parties and exercise the direct management of affairs.

Nursing Pal died on 10th July 1852, having adopted the day before his death a distant kinsman, named Bhurt Pal. The Government of India proposed to treat the State as a lapse, but the adoption of Bhurt Pal was recognized by the Home Government. In the meantime a strong party was formed in favour of Muddun Pal, a nearer relative, whose claim was supported by the opinions of the Chiefs of Bhurtpore, Dholepore, Ulwur, and Jeypore. Inquiry was ordered, by which it was ascertained that the adoption of Bhurt Pal was informal by reason of the minority of Nursing Pal and the omission of certain necessary ceremonies. As Muddun Pal was nearer of kin than Bhurt Pal and was accepted by the Rances, by nine of the most influential Thakoors, by three-fourths of the lesser feudal Chiefs of the State, and by the general feeling of the country, he was recognized as successor to the Kerowlee Chiefship in 1854. The direct interference of the Political Agent in the internal administration was withdrawn, and the Agency was finally abolished in 1855; but Muddun Pal was warned that, in the event of his failing in the regular payment of the annual instalment of the debt, then reduced to Rupees 94,312, one or more of his districts would be taken possession of for a time by the British Government till the whole of the debt should be liquidated.

Maharajah Muddun Pal rendered good service in the mutinies, in consideration of which the sum of Rupees 1,17,000 due by him to the British Government was remitted, a dress of honor was conferred on him, and his salute was raised from fifteen to seventeen guns. In 1859, in consequence of the pecuniary embarrassments of the State, a Political Agent was deputed to assist the Maharajah in the adjustment of his debts. The Agent was instructed to put himself in the position of a friend and adviser to the Maharajah, and not in that of an authoritative controller of affairs. The Agent was withdrawn in 1861.

The Maharajah of Kerowlee has received the right of adoption (No. III.). The area of his State is 1,878 square miles, and the population about 188,000. The revenue from all sources is only about Rupees 3,00,000. The whole military force of the State is about 2,000 men.

KISHENGURH.

THE Kishengurh family is an offshoot from Jodhpore. A Treaty (No. XXX.) was formed with Maharajah Kullian Sing in 1818, which contains the usual conditions of protection on the part of the British Government, and subordinate co-operation and abstinence from political correspondence on the part of the Chief. Kullian Sing, who was supposed to be insane, became at an early date involved in disputes with his nobles. The principal causes of quarrel were his desire to crush the Thakoor of Futtehgurh, who had set up claims to independence, but had been declared by the British Government to be a feudatory of Kishengurh, and an attempt to commute the personal services of his feudatories to a money payment. The Maharajah fled to Delhi, where he busied himself in buying honorary privileges from the King, such as the right to wear stockings in the royal presence; meanwhile the disputes at Kishengurh grew more serious, the insurgents seeking aid from Kotah, and the Maharajah from Boondee. In these disputes the British territory was more than once violated by both parties. The disputants were, therefore, called on to desist from hostilities and to refer their quarrel to the mediation of Government, and the Maharajah was warned that if he did not at once return to Kishengurh and interest himself in the affairs of his State, the Treaty with him would be abrogated, and engagements would be formed with the insurgent Thakoors. In consequence of this threat the Chief returned to Kishengurh, but finding himself quite incapable of managing the State, he offered to farm it to the British Government and retire to Delhi. Government refused to accept the lease of Kishengurh, but made no objection to the retirement of the Chief to Delhi and the farm-absence. Mediation between the Chief and the Thakoors was also authorized, but the terms agreed upon were not to be guaranteed. The Maharajah meanwhile took up his residence at Ajmere whither he was followed by his Chiefs, who agreed to leave the dispute to the arbitration of the Maharajah of Jodhpore, provided the decision received the guarantee of the British Government; but this guarantee was refused. The Chiefs then proclaimed the heir apparent as Maharajah, laid siege to the town of Kishengurh, and were on the point of capturing it, when the Maharajah accepted the mediation of the Political Agent through whom terms with the nobles were adjusted. The reconciliation with the nobles, however, was not sincere, and shortly afterwards Kullian Sing retired from Kishengurh and abdicated in favor of his son.

The present Chief Pirthee Sing succeeded in 1840; he has received the right of adoption (No. III.). He receives a salute of fifteen guns. His territories cover an area of 720 square miles and contain a population of 70,000 souls. The revenues are about Rupees 600,000. The State pays no tribute and contributes nothing to any local corps or contingents. The army consists of 250 cavalry, 300 infantry, and 30 guns.

DHOLEPORE.

LUKINDAR SING, better known as the Rana of Gohud, was the first Chief of Dholepore with whom the British Government formed political relations. The family belong to the Jat tribe, and first rose to notice under the Peishwa Bajee Rao. After the overthrow of the Mahrattas at Paniput, the uncle of Lukindar Sing rebelled and possessed himself of the fort of Gwalior. During the Mahratta war which ended in the peace of Salbye,* the British Government formed a Treaty (No. XXXI.) with Lukindar Sing in 1799, both as a barrier against invasion of the British territories and as a basis for creating a diversion in favor of the military operations from Bombay. By this Treaty Government agreed to furnish the Maharana with a force for the defence of his dominions or for their enlargement by conquest from the Mahrattas, to share with him their joint conquests, except the territories constituting his jaghire and then in possession of the Mahrattas, and to embrace the Maharana in any peace concluded with the Mahrattas. Accordingly in the fourth Article of the Treaty with Sindia of 13th October 1781, it is stipulated that Sindia shall not interfere with the territories of Maharana Lukindar Sing so long as the Maharana observes his Treaty with the English. After the peace of Salbye, however, the Maharana was abandoned on the ground that he had been guilty of treachery, and Sindia re-possessed himself of Gohud and Gwalior.

Ambajee Ingliah, who was Governor of Gohud, seeing the rapid success of the British arms in 1803, threw off his allegiance to Sindia and joined the forces of the British Government, who concluded a Treaty (No. XXXII.) by which he agreed to surrender the fort of Gwalior and certain districts which the Government intended to confer on the Rana of Gohud, and was guaranteed in his remaining possessions free of tribute. The districts ceded by Ambajee Ingliah under the 2nd Article of his Treaty were made over to Rana Keerut Sing by Treaty (No. XXXIII.) on 17th January 1804, with exception of the fort and city of Gwalior, which were permanently ceded to the British Government. Ambajee Ingliah was from the first insincere in his Treaty, and was active in endeavouring to excite Sindia to unite with Holkar; the Treaty with him therefore became null and void. By the 9th Article of the Treaty of Surjee Angengaom, Sindia agreed to renounce all claims on his feudatories with whom the British Government had made Treaties "provided that none of the territories belonging to the Maharajah situated to the southward of those of the Rajahs of Jeypore and Jodhpore and the Rana of Gohud, of which the revenues have been collected by him or his Amildars, or have been applicable as Serinjamee to the payment of his troops, are granted away by such Treaties." This clause gave rise to a dispute which threatened for some time a breach of the peace established with Sindia. Sindia argued that the Treaties he was bound to respect could not embrace the Rana of Gohud, inasmuch as the pretensions of that family had been extinct and their territories had been in Sindia's possession for thirty years. The right, however, was clearly with the British Government both by the Treaty with Ambajee Ingliah and by conquest, and the discussions did not prevent Sindia from concluding the Treaty of defensive alliance with the British Government on 27th February 1804, although he shortly afterwards again hazarded this alliance by attacking and plundering the camp of the British Resident and detaining the Resident a prisoner.

One of the obstacles to the establishment of the peaceful policy adopted by Lord Cornwallis in 1805 was the retention of Gwalior and Gohud from Sindia. The Governor General deemed it expedient to abandon the connection with the Rana independently of any reference to the settlement of differences with Sindia, and had no hesitation in resolving to transfer to Dowlut Rao Sindia the possession of Gwalior and Gohud. On this basis the Treaty with Sindia, dated 23rd November 1805, was concluded, and by a separate Treaty (No. XXXIV.) the pergunnahs of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajkerah were assigned to the Rana of Dholepore. The river Chumbul thus became the boundary between Sindia's territories and Dholepore.

Maharana Keerut Sing lived to a great age. He died in 1836, and was succeeded by the present Chief Bhugwunt Sing. This Chief rendered assistance to the fugitives from Gwalior in 1857; but his Minister Deo Huns incurred the displeasure of Government by plundering villages in the Agra district. In 1862, in consequence of the intrigues of Deo Huns and his attempts to subvert the authority of his Chief, it was found necessary to remove him to Benares, where he has been placed under surveillance.

Bhugwunt Sing has received the right of adoption (No. III.) He is entitled to a salute of fifteen guns. His territory covers an area of 1,626 square miles, contains a population of 500,000, and yields a revenue of Rupees 6,00,000. The military force of the State consists of about 2,000 men.

The above Treaty, comprised in four Articles, framed in conformity to the Articles agreed upon by the contracting parties at Gwalior, on the 19th December 1805, corresponding with the 28th of Ramzaun, 1220 Hegira, and with the 14th of Poos, 1862 Summut, has been duly concluded, under the seals and signatures of Mr. Græme Mercer and of Maharajah Ranah Kerrut Sing, in the vicinity of Agra, on the 10th day of January 1806, corresponding with 19th of Sowall, 1220 Hegira, and with the 6th of Maug, 1862 Summut, and delivered to the parties respectively.

When a Treaty, containing the above four Articles, shall be delivered to Maharajah Ranah Kerrut Sing, under the seal and signature of the Honourable the Governor General in Council, the present Treaty, under the seal and signature of Mr. Græme Mercer, shall be returned.

B H U R T P O R E.

THIS Jat principality was founded by a freebooter named Birj, who held the village of Sinsunnee in the pergunnah of Deeg ; but the power of the State was chiefly extended during the decline of the Mogul Empire by his great-grandson Sooruj Mull, who was killed in 1763. Sooruj Mull left five sons, three of whom administered the State of Bhurtpore in succession. During the rule of the third son Namul Sing, the fourth son Runjeet Sing rebelled and called in the aid of Nujjuf Khan, who stripped the family of all their possessions except the fort of Bhurtpore, which was held by Runjeet Sing. At the intercession of the widow of Sooruj Mull, however, he restored to the family lands yielding nine lakhs of Rupees. On the death of Nujjuf Khan, Sindia possessed himself of all his territories including Bhurtpore, but again at the intercession of the widow of Sooruj Mull, he gave to Runjeet Sing eleven pergunnahs yielding ten lakhs of Rupees, to which three pergunnahs yielding four lakhs were subsequently added as a reward for services rendered to General Perron. These fourteen pergunnahs now constitute the State of Bhurtpore.

At the commencement of the Mahratta war in 1803 the British Government concluded a Treaty (No. XXXV.) with Runjeet Sing, and in October 1803 conferred upon him the districts of Kishengurh, Kuthower, Rewaree, Gokul, and Saher. After the battle of Deeg, Holkar took refuge in the fort of Bhurtpore whither he was pursued by Lord Lake. His surrender was demanded, but Runjeet Sing refused to give him up. The fort was besieged. Runjeet Sing made a memorable defence and repelled four assaults with a loss to the besiegers of 3,000 men. Fearing eventual defeat, however, and being unable from the exhaustion of his resources to continue the war, Runjeet Sing surrendered the fort, and agreed to expel Holkar from his territories. A new

RAJPOOT-ANA.
Burtpore. Treaty (No. XXXVI.) was concluded with him, by which he agreed to pay an indemnity of twenty lakhs of Rupees, seven of which were subsequently remitted, and was guaranteed in the territories which he held previously to the accession of the British Government. The pergunnahs which had been granted to him in 1803 were resumed. Notwithstanding the leniency with which he had been treated, and the protection secured to him by this alliance from the rapacity of the Mahrattas, neither Runjeet Sing nor his successor ever showed any attachment to the British Government.

Maharajah Runjeet Sing died in 1805, leaving four sons; he was succeeded by the eldest, Rundheer Sing, who died in 1823 and was succeeded by his brother Buldeo Sing. After a rule of about eighteen months, Buldeo Sing died, leaving a son Bulwunt Sing, then six years of age, whose succession was recognized by the British Government; he was opposed and cast into prison by his cousin Doorjun Sal, who had laid claims to the succession on Rundheer Sing's death. The Resident at Delhi moved out a force for the support of the rightful heir, but their march was stopped by Government, who did not consider that the recognition of the heir apparent during the life of his father imposed on it any obligation to maintain him in opposition to the wishes of the Chiefs and people. While Doorjun Sal professed to leave the decision of his claims to the British Government, he made vast preparations to maintain them by force; he was secretly supported by the neighbouring Rajpoot and Mahratta States. The excitement threatened to end in a protracted war, and accordingly, with a view to the preservation of the public peace, Government determined to depose the usurper and place Bulwunt Sing in power. The fort of Bhurtpore was stormed on 18th January 1826 and dismantled, Doorjun Sal was carried a prisoner to Allahabad, and the young Maharajah was established in the succession under the regency of his mother and the superintendence of a Political Agent. The Ranee was removed in 1826 and the Ministers of the State were formed into a Council of Regency.

In 1835 Bulwunt Sing was put in charge of the administration; he died in 1853 and was succeeded by his only son Juswunt Sing, the present Maharajah, a minor. The administration is at present conducted by a council consisting of five Sirdars under the superintendence of a Political Agent. The Maharajah has received a Sunnud (No. III.) conferring on him the right of adoption; he is entitled to a salute of seventeen guns.

The area of Bhurtpore is 1,974 square miles, the population 650,000, and the revenue Rupees 21,00,000. Bhurtpore pays no tribute and no contribution to any local corps or contingent. The army consists of 3,368 infantry, 2,214 cavalry, and 313 artillery.

ULWUR.

THE Ulwur State is composed of petty Chiefships which till the middle of last century owed allegiance to Jeypore and Bhurtpore. The southern portion was usurped during the minority of the Maharajah of Jeypore by Pertab Sing, of the clan of Murookha Rajpoots, about 1780. Macherry was conquered from Bhurtpore. Pertab Sing was succeeded by his adopted son Buktawur Sing, with whom the first relations of the British Government were formed. Ahmud Buksh Khan,* the Ulwur Vakeel, joined Lord Lake at the commencement of the war with the Mahrattas, and received the grant of Loharoo from Ulwur and of Ferozepore from Lord Lake as a reward for his services. The Maha Rao Rajah accepted the protection of the British Government in 1803, and a Treaty (No. XXXVII.) of offensive and defensive alliance was concluded; Ulwur was to pay no tribute, but its troops were to co-operate with those of the British Government. As a reward for the assistance which Ulwur rendered in the campaign, the districts which had been granted to Bhurtpore and afterwards resumed were conferred on the Maha Rao Rajah by a Sunnud (No. XXXVIII.) from Lord Lake. In 1805 an exchange of territories was effected (No. XXXIX.) with Ulwur for mutual convenience.

It was discovered in 1811 that the Chief of Ulwur had interfered in the affairs of Jeypore and engaged to be security for the payment subsisting between the two governments, it was not inferrible from the abstract stipulations of the Treaty, which approached too nearly to the stipulations of an equal alliance. A fresh engagement (No. XL.) was therefore made with the Maha Rao Rajah, expressly prohibiting political intercourse with other States. In 1812 Buktawur Sing took possession of the forts of Dhobee and Sikrawa and adjoining territory belonging to Jeypore, and refused to restore them at the remonstrance of the Resident at Delhi. As this was a direct violation of his engagements, it became a question whether to dissolve the alliance with him. To this course there were many objections, and chiefly that the Ulwur State would have been left exposed to the invasion of Pindaree leaders; it was therefore resolved to compel the Maha Rao Rajah to restore the forts and territory to Jeypore. A force was moved against him, and when the troops were within one march of his capital, Buktawur Sing yielded, restored the usurped territory, and paid three lakhs of Rupees as the expenses of the British expedition. It was the intention of Government, had actual hostilities taken place, to have punished the Chief by resuming the districts conferred on him by Lord Lake, and even annexing his entire territories had his conduct justified such a measure.

Buktawur Sing died in 1815, and the question was raised whether the lands granted in 1803 should not lapse; Government however decided not to interfere with them. On Buktawur Sing's death a dispute arose as to the succession. Bunnee Sing, the nephew and adopted son of the late Maha Rao, was supported by the Rajpoot nobles, while Bulwunt Sing, an illegitimate son, was supported by a Mahomedan faction headed by Ahmud Buksh Khan. A compromise was effected, and it was agreed that the nephew should enjoy the title while the illegitimate son should exercise the power of the State: this arrangement was sanctioned by the British Government. Both parties were minors at the time of this agreement, and when they grew up, Maha Rao Bunnee Sing seized the power and made his cousin a prisoner, and an attempt was made on the life of Ahmud Buksh Khan while he was a guest of the Resident at Delhi. The crime was traced to the instigation of persons at the court of Ulwur, and the Chief was required to surrender them, but it was not till 1826, after the fall of Bhurtapore and the advance of a British force on Ulwur, that the Chief complied.

The Maha Rao Rajah was required to agree (No. XLI.) to make a provision, half in land and half in money, for Bulwunt Sing and the lawful heirs of his body. The lands reverted to Ulwur on the death of Bulwunt Sing without issue.

In 1831 a negociation was discovered between Ulwur and Jeypore, originating in the desire of the Chief of Ulwur to do fealty to Jeypore and receive a khillut of investiture. This correspondence was considered to be a breach of Treaty engagements, but not to be in itself of much importance.

Bunnee Sing died in 1857 after the outbreak of the mutinies. After the death of Bunnee Sing the Mahomedan ministers acquired an ascendancy over his son Seodan Sing, then thirteen years of age, which was obnoxious to the Rajpoot nobles who rose and expelled them. The ministers were compelled to reside at Benares under surveillance, and a Political Agent was appointed to Ulwur to advise and assist the Council of Regency which was formed to conduct the administration during the young Chief's minority. Seodan Sing attained his majority in September 1863, and was put in charge of the administration, but it was resolved to continue the Political Agent at Ulwur for a further period of two years.

The area of Ulwur is about 3,300 square miles, and the population about 1,000,000 souls. The revenue from all sources is about sixteen lakhs of Rupees. The State pays no tribute or contribution to local corps or contingents; it maintains an army of 2,000 infantry and 1,500 cavalry. The Chief has received the right of adoption (No. III.) He is entitled to a salute of fifteen guns.

Among the lands granted to Ulwur by Lord Lake in 1803 was the district of Neemrana. The Chief of this district for many years urged a claim to independence of Ulwur which was frequently rejected; the claim was brought forward again in 1860. A full investigation was made, and it was clearly proved that the Ulwur Chief had conferred the district on Chunderbhan, Rajah of Neemrana, subject to a payment of Rupees 8,648, being the amount of tribute levied by the Mahrattas on Neemrana; that, in consequence of Chunderbhan's rebellion, the lands were afterwards resumed by Ulwur with consent of the British Government, and held till 1815 when a portion of them was restored; and that when the Neemrana Chief claimed the restoration of the remainder, the British Government declined to interfere. It was therefore finally decided in 1862 that Neemrana is a fief of Ulwur.

BIKANEER.

BIKANEER was originally inhabited by various small tribes of Jats and others, the quarrels among which led to the conquest of the country by Bika Sing, a son of Rajah Jodh Sing of Jodhpore. After consolidating his power he conquered Bagore from the Bhuttees of Jessulmere and founded the city of Bikaner; he died in A. D. 1505. Rai Sing, the fourth in descent from Bika Sing, succeeded to power in 1573, and in his time began the connection of Bikaner with the Delhi Emperors. Rai Sing became a leader of horse in Akbar's service and received a grant of fifty-two pergunahs including Hansi and Hissar.

The first Treaty (No. XLII.) of the British Government with Bikaner was concluded with Soorut Sing who had succeeded to power in 1801. This chief had applied for the protection of the British Government in 1808 when his territories were invaded by a force from Jodhpore and other States, but interference on the part of the British Government was contrary to the policy which then prevailed of withdrawing from all connection with the Chiefs to the west of the Jumna. Bikaner, however, was embraced in the general scheme of alliances formed at the beginning of the Pindaree war. The Maharajah was bound to subordinate co-operation, and the British Government engaged to protect his territories and to reduce his rebellious subjects to obedience. No tribute was exacted; the Bikaner State had paid none to the Mahrattas.

Soorut Sing died in 1828 and was succeeded by his son Ruttun Sing. The chief discussions with Bikaner have been regarding disputed boundaries; but in 1829 the Maharajah, in violation of his Treaty engagements, invaded Jessulmere to revenge some injuries committed by subjects of the latter. Jessulmere prepared an army to resent the invasion.

Maharana of Oudeypore the dispute was settled, both parties making reparation for the injuries done. In 1830 also preparations were made by the Resident at Delhi to send a force to Bikaner to assist the Chief in reducing some rebellious nobles. The Resident acted under a misapprehension of the tenor of the 6th and 7th Articles of the Treaty of 1818. These Articles referred to temporary circumstances and were carried out at the time. They gave the Chief of Bikaner no right to call on the British Government for military aid against his disaffected subjects at any future period. Government was of opinion that the case was not one in which they were called on to interfere, and reminded the Resident that military aid should never be given to Native States for the suppression of internal disturbances except under the specific authority of government.

Bikaner

In 1844 the Bikaner State agreed to a scale of duties on goods passing by the route of Sirsa and Bhawalpore through Bikaner. The transit trade of Bikaner was at one time considerable. The principal route from Cabool to India lay through Bikaner, and one of the chief advantages secured by the Treaty of 1818 was the protection of trade on that route.

The present Chief, Sirdar Sing, succeeded to power in 1852. He receives a salute of seventeen guns. He has received the right of adoption (No. III.). He did good service during the mutinies both by sheltering European fugitives and by co-operating against the rebels in the districts of Hansi and Hissar. As a reward for these services he received a grant (No. XLIII.) of forty-one villages which some years before had been declared to belong to the Sirsa district. In consequence of outrages committed from Bikaner on subjects of Jodhpore, the Chief of Bikaner was in 1861 reminded of his Treaty obligations.

The area of Bikaner is 17,676 square miles, and the population about 539,000; the revenue is about six lakhs of Rupees. Bikaner contributes to no local corps or contingents; it maintains a force of 2,100 cavalry, and about 1,000 infantry and 30 guns.

JESSULMERE.

OWING to its isolated situation this State escaped the ravages of the Mahrattas. The first Chief with whom the British Government entered into political relations was Maha Rawul Moolraj, who succeeded to power in 1762. He would gladly have accepted the British protection in 1808, but the policy which limited the British ascendancy to the territories east of the Jumna prevented the formation of an alliance with him. In 1818, however, a Treaty (No. XLIV.) was concluded with Moolraj by which the State was guaranteed to his posterity, the Chief was to be protected from serious invasions and dangers to his State, provided the cause of quarrel was not ascribable to him, and was to act in subordinate co-operation to the British Government. No tribute was demanded from him. Up to 1823 the Bikaner State continued to urge its claims to territories in the possession of other Chiefs, but these claims were rejected, as the investigation of them was inconsistent with the engagements subsisting between the British Government and other States.

During the lifetime of Moolraj, who died in 1820, the State was virtually governed by his Minister, Salim Sing, who committed the most awful atrocities. He put to death nearly all the relatives of the Chief. The town of Jessulmere was depopulated by his cruelty, the trade of the country was interrupted, and the relatives of the Maha Rawul who escaped death fled from the country.

Moolraj was succeeded by his grandson, Guj Sing. At the time of the conclusion of the Treaty of 1818 the Minister, Salim Sing, had endeavoured to obtain a guarantee, such as was given to the Minister of the Kotah State, that the office of Minister would be hereditary in his family, and on his death in 1824 the Chiefs of the State appeared disposed to support the cause of his eldest son, who after a ministry of a few months had been imprisoned by the Maha Rawul; but on the British Government declaring that it did not intend to interfere with the just authority of the Maha Rawul in the appointment or punishment of his Minister, all parties returned to their allegiance.

In 1844, after the conquest of Sind, the forts of Shagur, Gurseea, and Guttoora, which had been wrested from Jessulmere, were restored to that State. The forts were given over by Meer Ali Morad by order of the British Government, but no Sunnud appears to have been given to the Chief of Jessulmere on this occasion.

Guj Sing died in 1846, and his widow adopted Runjeet Sing, the present Chief, who, in 1862, received a formal Sunnud (No. III.) guaranteeing the right of adoption; he receives a salute of fifteen guns.

The area of Jessulmere is 12,252 square miles, the population about 73,700, and the revenues Rupees 5,00,000. The military force of the State does not exceed 1,000 men.

SEROHI.

RAO SHEO SING, with whom the British Government concluded a Treaty (No. XLV.) in 1823, was called to power in 1818 by the unanimous voice of the Chiefs of Serohi who had deposed his elder brother Oudeybhanjee for tyranny and oppression and placed him in confinement. Maharajah Man Sing of Jodhpore, who laid claim to supremacy over Serohi, sent a force in 1819 to liberate Oudeybhanjee, but he failed ; and Oudeybhanjee continued in confinement till his death in 1847. It was during the disturbances incident on the Jodhpore invasion that Rao Sheo Sing craved the protection of the British Government. The Treaty of 1823 bound the Rao to acknowledge the British supremacy, to abstain from political intercourse with other Chiefs, to govern in accordance with the advice of the British Agent, to introduce an efficient administration, and to pay a tribute not exceeding three-eighths of the revenues ; and the British Government extended its protection to the State, guaranteed the succession to the heirs of Oudeybhanjee, should there be any such on the death of Sheo Sing, and reserved to itself the right to regulate transit duties in Serohi. On the death of Oudeybhanjee without children, Sheo Sing, whose position under the Treaty had been that of Regent only, was acknowledged as successor to the State, and his son as heir apparent.

The weakness of the Serohi State rendered it necessary for the British Agent to exercise at first an unusual interference in its internal affairs. Many of the Thakoors were in rebellion supported by the wild Meenas of the hills. To enable the Rao to keep up a force to be employed in preserving order, a loan of half a lakh of Rupees without interest was made to him, for the repayment of which he mortgaged (No. XLVI.) three-fourths of his customs duties. One of the most refractory of the nobles was the Thakoor of Neembuje, with whom, after the Meenas had been reduced by a British force, an engagement (No. XLVII.) was mediated by the Political Agent, guaranteeing to him his lands on condition of feudal service and payment of three-eighths of his revenues to the Rao. Others of the Thakoors, particularly those of Butana, Gurwul, Momul, Mudar, Patwora, and Sheelwara, had transferred their allegiance to Pahlunpore, a State under the Bombay Government. The Rao of Serohi claimed their restoration, but it was decided that all should remain under Pahlunpore, except the Thakoors of Mudar and Sheelwara, whose allegiance had not been transferred to Pahlunpore till after the year A. D. 1817.

The Rao made over to the British Government in 1845 some lands on Mount Aboo for the establishment of a sanitarium. The grant was fettered by several conditions (No. XLVIII.), one of which was that no kine should be killed. The Rao has on several occasions been requested to cancel this condition, but has always refused.

In 1854, at the earnest request of the Rao (No. XLIX.), with a view to the liquidation of his debts then amounting to about two lakhs of Rupees, the State was taken under the direct management of the British Government for a period of eight years or such longer time as might be necessary. In consequence of the incapacity of the Rao, the general control of affairs was in 1861 made over to his son Omeid Sing, the old Rao retaining the dignities and honors of office. He died shortly after, and was succeeded by Omeid Sing. The three brothers of the young Rao declined the provision which was made for them before their father's death and went into rebellion; they have since tendered their submission and accepted a provision in land.

The late Rao did good service in the mutinies, in consideration of which he received a remission of half his tribute which had been fixed at Rupees 15,000. The Serohi tribute is therefore now only Rupees 7,500. The Rao has also received the right of adoption (No. III.). He is entitled to a salute of fifteen guns.

Serohi contains an area of 3,000 square miles, and a population of 55,000. The revenues amount to only Rupees 80,900. The only military force consists of 69 horse and 218 foot. The State pays for no local corps or contingents.

TREATY between the HONOURABLE THE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and RAO SHEO SING, Regent of Serohi, concluded by CAPTAIN ALEXANDER SPEIRS, Agent at Serohi, on the part of the Honourable Company, by order of MAJOR GENERAL SIR DAVID OCHTERLONY, Baronet and G. C. B., Resident at Malwa and Rajpootana, in virtue of full powers granted by the RIGHT HONOURABLE WILLIAM PITT, LORD AMHERST, Governor General in Council, and on his own part by RAO SHEO SING, Regent of Serohi.

Whereas at this time Rao Sheo Sing, the Regent of Serohi and representative of the rulers of that principality, has solicited that the protection of the British Government may be extended to his country, and the British Government has satisfied itself that the State of Serohi is not politically dependent on any of the other Princes or Chiefs of Rajpootana, the request of the Rao has been complied with, and the following Articles have been agreed upon as a lasting engagement to define the relations between the parties, and to determine the terms and conditions of the alliance which will be adhered to by both governments as long as the sun and the moon shall endure.

ARTICLE 1.

The British Government consents to take under its protection, and to receive amongst the number of its dependant and tributary States, the chiefship and territory of Serohi.

ARTICLE 2.

The Regent Rao Sheo Sing on his own behalf, and in the name of the Rao, his heirs and successors, hereby acknowledges the supremacy of the British Government, and engages to discharge with fidelity the duties of allegiance, and to observe punctually the other conditions detailed in this engagement.

ARTICLE 3.

The Rao of Serohi will not form or maintain connections with any other States or Chiefs. He will not commit aggression on any one. If by accident disputes arise with a neighbour, they shall be submitted to the arbitration and decision of the British Government. That government undertakes also to arbitrate and adjust any claims which may be possessed or advanced by other States upon Serohi or vice versa, whether for lands, service, money, contributions, or otherwise.

ARTICLE 4.

The jurisdiction of the British Government shall not be introduced into the territories of Serohi, but the rulers thereof shall at all times attend to the advice of the Officer of the British Government in the administration of their affairs, and act in conformity thereto.

ARTICLE 5.

The territory of Serohi having at this time become a perfect desert, in consequence of intestine divisions, the disorderly conduct of the evil-disposed portion of its inhabitants, and the incursions of predatory tribes, the Regent hereby expressly and specially engages to follow the counsel of the British authority in all his proceedings for the restoration of the prosperity of the country and the introduction of good order and regularity. The Regent likewise promises that he will use his most strenuous exertions, both now and hereafter, for the improvement of the country, the suppression of robbery and theft, and the due and efficient administration of justice to all his subjects.

ARTICLE 6.

If any of the sirdars and thakoors of Serohi shall commit offences or be guilty of disobedience, the same shall be punished by fine or confiscation of lands, or such other infliction as may be in each case determined on, in concert and concurrence with the Officers of the British Government.

ARTICLE 7.

All classes in Serohi, nobles and peasants, having with one voice declared that Rao Oodebaun, the former ruler, was justly deposed and thrown into confinement, with the approbation of all the sirdars and thakoors, on account of his tyranny and oppression to his subjects, and the Rao Sheo Sing being by all parties admitted to be the proper

ARTICLE 8.

The State of Serohi shall pay such tribute to the British Government to defray the expenses incurred by undertaking its protection may be determined on, at the expiration of three years from the date of this engagement, provided, however, that the amount thereof shall not exceed three-eighths or 6 annas of the annual revenues of the country.

ARTICLE 9.

With the view to the encouragement of trade and the promotion of the general welfare of the community, it shall be competent to the Government of the British Government to recommend such rates of transit duties and regulations for the collection of customs within the limits of the territory as may on further experience be judged expedient, and shall not interfere from time to time to enforce or amend the same.

ARTICLE 10.

When any detachment of British troops shall be employed near Serohi, the Rao will, in the due discharge of his duty to the Government, provide the same with all the needful supplies without charging any duty thereon. The Commanding Officer of such detachment will, on his part, use his best endeavours for the protection from the Rao of the crops and corn fields; and should it meet the views of the British Government to canton a force in Serohi, it shall be optional on the part of the Rao to do so, and no dissatisfaction with the arrangement will be on the part of the Rao. So also should it be found necessary for the Rao to raise for the service of the State of Serohi a corps, to be officered and disciplined by Europeans, the Rao engages to adopt that measure to the extent of his means on the recommendation of the British Government: a liberal regard being had to the amount paid by him as

The militia actually entertained by the Rao will be at all times ready to act in subordinate co-operation with the Officers of the British Government.

DOONGURPORE.

THIS family is an offshoot of the House of Oudeypore. On the fall of the Mogul Empire, Doongurpore, like other Rajpoot States, became tributary to the Mahrattas. It was at first arranged to divide the tribute of Rupees 35,000 levied from it between Sindia, Holkar, and Dhar, but Dhar ultimately succeeded in establishing its exclusive right. Its tributary claim was transferred to the British Government by the Treaty of 1818 (No. L.) with Juswunt Sing in return for its protection.

By a separate Agreement (No. LI.) a sum of Rupees 35,000 was paid in lieu of all arrears, and for the first three years the tribute was fixed progressively at Rupees 17,000, Rupees 20,000, and Rupees 30,000. The tribute now paid is Salim Sahee Rupees 35,000.* In January 1824 the Chief agreed (No. LII.) to pay, in addition to the tribute subsidy, the sum of Rupees 8,400 a year for the maintenance of a small force. But this engagement was never acted on, and was subsequently declared to be obsolete.

As in other States inhabited by wild hill tribes, it became necessary in an early period of the British supremacy to employ a military force to coerce the Bheels who had been excited to rebellion by some of the disaffected nobles. The Bheel Chiefs, however, submitted to terms (No. LIII.) before actual hostilities commenced.

The Rawul, Juswunt Sing, was incompetent as a ruler, and addicted to the lowest and most degrading vices. For his incompetency and disturbances of the peace which he created he was deposed (No. IV.) in 1825, and his adopted son, Dulput Sing, grandson of Sawunt Sing, Chief of Pertabgurh, was made Regent. In 1844 the succession

 ANA. raised whether to unite Doongurpore and Pertabgurh in one State, or
 No. L. whether a fresh adoption should be made by the Rawul of Doongurpore, Doongurpore. or whether Pertabgurh should escheat to the British Government. Dulput Sing was at last permitted to adopt as his successor in Doongurpore Oudey Sing, the infant son of the Thakoor of Sablee, and, while ruler of Pertabgurh, to continue to be Regent of Doongurpore during the boy's minority. On this occasion Juswunt Sing made an attempt to recover his authority and to adopt as his successor Hunwunt Sing, son of the Thakoor of Mungla; but he was unsuccessful, and the attempt resulted in Juswunt Sing's removal to Muttra, where he was kept under watch on an allowance of Rupees 1,200 a year.

Maladministration was the necessary result of the arrangement by which the regency was left in the hands of Dulput Sing, who resided at Pertabgurh; and therefore, in 1852, he was removed from all authority in Doongurpore, and the State was put under a Native Agent appointed by the British Government during the remaining years of the minority.

The Chief of Doongurpore has received a Sunnud (No. III.) guaranteeing to him the right of adoption. He is entitled to a salute of fifteen guns. The area of his State is about 1,000 square miles, with a population of about 100,000. The revenue, after deducting the tribute and the stipends of feudatories, is about Rupees 75,000. No local corps or contingents are kept up at the expense of the State. The Chief's military force consists of about 125 cavalry and 200 infantry.

TRANSLATION of an AGREEMENT concluded by JUSWUNT SING, Rawul of Doongurpore, and the HONOURABLE COMPANY, through CAPTAIN MACDONALD, dated Neemuch, 2nd May 1825.

1. To whatever minister may be appointed by the British Government I will give my consent, entrust him with the administration of affairs, and not interfere in any way.

2. I will be satisfied with whatever may be allotted by the British Government for my maintenance, and will reside in whatever place in the Doongurpore territories may be selected for my residence.

BANSWARRA.

BANSWARRA was originally part of Meywar, but became independent prior to the establishment of the supremacy of the British Government, who recognized it as a separate power. In 1812 the Chief of Banswarra offered to become tributary to the British Government on condition of the expulsion of the Mahrattas; but no definite relations were established with him till September 1818, when a Treaty (No. LV.) was concluded, by which, in consideration of the protection of the British Government, the Rawul agreed to act in subordinate co-operation and his affairs in accordance with the advice of the British Government, abstain from disputes and political correspondence with other Chiefs, pay a tribute equal to three-eighths of his revenues, and to furnish arms when required. The Rawul denied his obligation to be bound by this Treaty which was negotiated by his accredited Agent, and although it was declared to be binding on him, it was thought best, especially as the Dhar State had in the meantime ceded to the British Government its tribute claims on Doongurpore and Banswarra, to conclude a new Treaty (No. LVI.), which was done on 25th November 1818. The chief modifications made by this Treaty were, that the Rawul was to pay to the British Government all arrears of tribute due to Dhar and other States, and annually whatever tribute the British Government might deem adequate to cover the expense of protection, provided it not exceed three-eighths of the revenues; and that the British Government was to assist in bringing under control any relatives or connections of the Chief, his heirs and successors, who might prove rebellious.

By a subsequent Agreement (No. LVII.) the same arrangements were made in regard to the payment of tribute as in the case of Doongurpore. The arrears were limited to Rupees 35,000 and the tribute for subsequent years was fixed progressively at Rupees 17,000, Rupees 20,000, and

Rupees 25,000. The tribute now paid is Salim Sahee Rupees 35,000. In 1824 also an engagement was made with Banswarra precisely the same as that made with Doongurpore (No. LII.) by which the Chief agreed to pay, in addition to the subsidy, the sum of Rupees 8,400 a year for the maintenance of a local force. The engagement, however, was never acted on, and was subsequently declared to be obsolete.

The present Rawul, Luchmun Sing, was adopted by the previous Chief Bahadoor Sing, who also was adopted by the previous ruler Bhowanee Sing, son and successor of Omed Sing, with whom the Treaty of 1818 was made. The succession of Luchmun Sing was disputed by Maun Sing, Thakoor of Khandoo, who conceived that a son of his own had preferable claims; but he eventually withdrew his opposition on receiving a remission of Rupees 1,300 a year in the tribute which he paid to the Banswarra State.

The area of Banswarra is 1,500 square miles, the population 150,000, and the revenue Rupees 300,000, of which the feudatories, thirty-three in number, receive Rupees 1,10,000. The Chief has received the right of adoption (No. III.). He is entitled to a salute of fifteen guns.

THE Rajah of this small Chiefship is descended from a junior branch of the Oudeypore House. From the time of the establishment of the Mahratta power in Malwa the Rajah of Pertabgurh paid tribute to Holkar. The first connection of the British Government with this State was formed in 1804 (No. LVIII.) ; but this alliance was dissolved under the policy introduced by Lord Cornwallis of withdrawing from connection with the Western Rajpoot States. Pertabgurh, however, was again taken under protection by the Treaty of October 1818 (No. LIX.) In lieu of the local force of fifty horse and two hundred foot, stipulated for in Article 4 of the Treaty, the Rajah engaged (No. LX.) in 1823 to pay an annual subsidy of Rupees 1,200 till the year 1826, after which the subsidy was to be doubled. But this engagement was never acted on, and in 1841 it was abrogated and the original obligation of the 4th Article of the Treaty of 1818 was declared to be still in force.

Under the 4th Article of the Treaty of Mundisore, the British Government acquired a right to the tribute levied by Holkar in Pertabgurh. In consideration, however, of the political influence lost by Holkar under the Treaty of Mundisore, it was resolved to account to him annually for the amount of the tribute, which is therefore paid to him from the British treasury. The present tribute is Salim Sahee Rupees 72,000.*

The present Rajah Dulput Sing succeeded to the State in 1844. Dulput Sing was grandson of the Chief of Pertabgurh, and had succeeded to the State of Doongurpore on the deposition of Juswunt Sing by whom he had been adopted. On his succession to Pertabgurh

APPOINTEMENT. he relinquished Doongurpore to Oodey Sing, son of the Thakoor of ANA. Sablee. He has been guaranteed (No. III.) the right of adoption.

LVIII. The area of the State is 1,460 square miles; the population 150,000; rtabgurn. the revenue, after deducting the tribute paid to the British Government and about two lakhs of Rupees enjoyed by feudatories of the State, is in British money about Rupees 2,62,400. No local corps or contingents are maintained at the expense of this State. The Chief receives a salute of fifteen guns.

PART II.

STATES IN CENTRAL INDIA AND MALWA.

THE principal States in Central India are six in number,—Gwalior, Indore, Bhopal, Dhar, Dewas, and Jowra, of which two, Bhopal and Jowra, are Mahomedan and the rest Mahratta. Besides these there is a multitude of petty States* held under the immediate guarantee of the British Government but having feudal relations with one or other of the larger States and occasionally with more than one. The multiplicity of petty Chiefs and the peculiarity of the tenures on which they held their States, founded as they are on the measures adopted for the pacification of the country after the Pindaree war, necessitate on the part of the British Government in Central India and Malwa a more minute interference in the affairs of the Chiefs than it is usual or expedient to exercise in the States of Rajpootana. Under the Mahrattas, as had previously been the case under the Mahomedan Governors, the petty Chiefs in Central India exercised but limited powers within their respective States; and on the establishment of British supremacy in these provinces the Officers of the British Government naturally assumed the position of arbiters of all differences by which the public peace could within the jurisdiction of the larger States which had vitality enough to preserve peace within their limits. In the case of substantive States, it is only when the offender belongs to one State and the plaintiff to another that the representative of the British Government adjudicates the case. In so far the Political Agents in Central India discharge the duties which are sometimes performed by the Court of Vakeels in Rajpootana. But the minor Chiefs refer all serious cases, more especially those involving capital punishment, whether interjurisdictional or not, to the Political Agents.

Jurisdiction, moreover, always rests with the Political Agents both in Central India and Rajpootana, and with respect to the larger as well as the minor States, where British subjects, Native or European, are either plaintiffs or defendants, except in cases provided for by Acts I. of 1849 and VII. of 1854. In 1863 the Begum of Bhopal appealed against the exercise of such powers by the Political Agent at her Court as a violation of the 9th Article of the Bhopal Treaty of 1818 and claimed the right, under certain arrangements* made with the Political Agent in 1847, to try in her own Courts British subjects guilty of offences within her territories and the surrender of

* 1st.—If offenders against the British Government, in old and heinous cases, fly to, and conceal themselves within the limits of, the Bhopal State, or if similar offenders against the Bhopal State take refuge within the limits of the British Districts, such as Nursingpoor, Hoshungabad, &c.; in the first instance, on the receipt of information of the place of concealment of a criminal, the Thannahdar or Police of the British Government, with a perwannah from the British District Officer to the address of the Thannahdar and Police of the Bhopal State, will proceed to the spot, arrest the offender, and make him over to the nearest Thannahdar of the said State. In the second instance, the Thannahdars or Police of the Bhopal State will have to follow a like course with regard to the arrest and delivery of offenders against their State, traced to any place within the limits of the British Districts.

2nd.—In new and recent cases when offenders, after the perpetration of a crime, fly to the Bhopal territory, and the Thannahdars or Police of the British Government get correct information of their having done so, they will follow the offenders into the Bhopal territory and apprehend and deliver them to the Bhopal Local Thannahdar; they will not in such cases be at liberty to arrest and bring away offenders without the knowledge of the Officials of the Bhopal State; but if the British Officials in the pursuit of such offenders happen to reach a place within the Bhopal State, where, owing to there being no Thannah, or being wild and uninhabited, no assistance can be obtained, then they may arrest the offender and take him with them, giving, however, due notice of their proceedings to the nearest Thannah of the Bhopal State. The Officials of the Bhopal State in similar cases can in like manner enter the British territories and act similarly.

British subjects guilty of such offences when apprehended in British territories. Her right however was not admitted; she was told that the principle which underlies the Treaty of 1818 is contained in Article 3, which declares that the Bhopal Government will act in subordinate co-operation with the British Government and acknowledge its supremacy; that the 9th Article refers to the authority of the Nawab of Bhopal over his own subjects within his own territory and not to British subjects; that this is apparent 1st from the correspondence which took place when the Treaty was concluded and which shows that the object of the clause was to guarantee to the Nawab that the British Courts of Adawlut would not be introduced into his territories, and 2nd by the omission of all reference to European offenders who had a right to be tried in a certain form and under certain conditions which the East India Company had no authority to compromise or surrender; that the arrangement of 1847 was never sanctioned by the Government of India, and contained a stipulation which is entirely inadmissible, viz., that British subjects charged with offences in Bhopal, if arrested in British territory, shall be handed over to the Bhopal authorities for trial and punishment; but that the British Government would not be unwilling to act upon that arrangement in so far as it is consistent with Act VII. of 1854 in the case of escaped offenders who are subjects of Bhopal.

Criminals in heinous cases only will be delivered up by the two Governments. The above Rule applies only to such offenders.

3rd.—The crimes which are considered heinous by Colonel Sleeman and the Resident Indore, are the following :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| No. 1. Wilful Murder. | No. 9. Robbery of a child, male or female. |
| " 2. Wounding with the intent of Murder. | " 10. Robbery of Government property. |
| " 3. Cutting and Wounding wilfully. | " 11. Giving poison with the intent to murder. |
| " 4. Entering a house, or boat, or tent, with the intention of theft and plunder, accompanied by wounding. | " 12. Thuggee. |
| " 5. Highway Robbery. | " 13. Cattle-lifting. |
| " 6. Dacoity. | " 14. Aiding and abetting in Suttee. |
| " 7. Setting fire to one's house. | " 15. Geeras. |
| " 8. Forcible possession of a woman's body with or without adultery. | " 16. Paraneh (Incendiarism). |
| | " 17. Breaking Jail. |

4th.—In cases of less importance the authorities of the district where the offender conceals himself will cause his arrest, as in heinous cases, on the information furnished to them by the plaintiff, and the case will be disposed of by the Court of the district in which the offender was apprehended; he will not in such cases be made over for trial to the authorities of the district in which the offence was committed.

SINDIA.

From Malcolm's Central India and Reports by successive Agents to the Governor General.

RANAJEE, the first member of the Sindia family of note, commenced his career as the carrier of the slippers of Balajee Rao, Peishwa. His care in the performance of this menial duty attracted his master's attention, who appointed him to a command in the Pagah or stable horse. From this his rise to the first rank of Mahratta Chiefs was rapid. He died in Malwa where he had acquired some possessions, and was succeeded in the headship of the family by Madhojee Sindia, his second son.

Madhojee Sindia was present at the battle of Paniput, in which he was severely wounded. After the disastrous flight of the Mahrattas, Sindia's family, like other Mahratta Chiefs, lost their possessions in Malwa. On the return of the Mahrattas to Hindostan in 1764, the most active of the predatory leaders was Sindia, whose formidable army, organized under French Officers, made him in reality the ruler of Hindostan, though nominally the servant of the Peishwa.

Madhojee Sindia played a most important part in the struggle which took place for the Peishwaship after the death of Madho Rao Bullal.* He was the chief support of the party of Nana Furnavese. It was the policy of the British Government to secure peace by concluding a separate Treaty with Sindia, and then using him as a mediator with the other parties; but Sindia's ambition and his insisting on some of the inadmissible conditions of the convention of Wargaon,† defeated the negotiations which had more than once been commenced. The reverses, however, which he met with from a force which had

INDIA.
Sindia. invaded his territories from Bengal, for the purpose of creating a powerful diversion, brought him to terms, and a Treaty (No. LXI.) was concluded with him by Colonel Muir on 13th October 1781, by which the respective forces of Colonel Muir and Sindia were withdrawn, and Sindia agreed to use his good offices to effect a peace, and failing that, to remain neutral. Peace was concluded with the Mahrattas by the Treaty of Salbye,* Sindia being the mutual guarantee of both powers for its observance. Under the 3rd Article of this Treaty, the right of the British Government to the pergunnah and town of Baroach was recognised. Government conferred these on Sindia (No. LXII.) in consideration of his services, on condition of trade remaining unmolested. A separate Treaty was concluded on 30th September 1785 (No. LXIII.) for the regulation of the trade and duties to be levied at Baroach.

By the Treaty of Salbye the independent power of Madhojee Sindia, in his relation to the British Government, was first recognised, but in all other respects he continued ostentatiously to profess subjection to the Peishwa. The system of neutrality which Government then pursued left Sindia at peace to establish his power over the northern parts of Hindostan and to possess himself of the person of the Emperor of Delhi. Sindia made overtures to share in the alliance against Tippoo in 1790, but the conditions he proposed, that Government should defend his possessions in Hindostan and aid him in his wars with the Rajpoot States, were inadmissible. After the peace of 1792, the feelings of Sindia, who was probably jealous of the increasing ascendancy of the British Government, were more hostile than friendly. It was partly through his influence that the proposals made by Lord Cornwallis to the Nizam and the Peishwa for a definite Treaty of guarantee against Tippoo were defeated.

Madhojee Sindia died in 1794 and was succeeded by his grand-nephew Dowlut Rao Sindia, who was too young to carry out any dangerous designs which Madhojee Sindia might have entertained. During the distractions which followed the death of Madho Rao Narain Peishwa, Sindia gained an ascendancy which enabled him to place Bajee Rao in power, to usurp most of the possessions of Holkar, and to secure to himself the fortress of Ahmednuggur which gave him the key to the entrance into the territories of the Peishwa and the Nizam. The power of Sindia, CENTI whose army was commanded by French Officers, was at this time most INDI dangerous to the British Government. When by the Treaty of Bassein* Sial.

 the British Government had recovered its influence at Poona and established a subsidiary force there, Dowlut Rao Sindia entered into a league with the Rajah of Berar to defeat the objects of the Treaty. The deceit and evasion with which Sindia met the overtures of General Wellesley for an amicable adjustment of their differences, rendered war inevitable. In the campaign which followed, the power of Sindia was completely broken, both in Upper and Central India, and he was compelled to sue for peace, and to sign the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum (No. LXIV.) in 1803 by which he was stripped of his territories in Hindostan and south of the Ajunttee Hills, with exception of some hereditary villages, and resigned his claims on his former feudatory Rajahs with whom the British Government had made Treaties.

The 15th Article of the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum left to Sindia the option of becoming a party to the defensive alliance concluded by the British Government with the Peishwa and the Nizam, and bound the British Government, in the event of his so doing, to maintain a subsidiary force of six battalions to be paid for out of the territories ceded by that Treaty. Sindia agreed to the alliance, and by a separate Treaty (No. LXV.) concluded on 27th February 1804, arrangements were made for the subsidiary force to be stationed near Sindia's boundary but within British territory.

The discontent which Sindia felt at the determination to deprive him of Gohud and Gwalior, under the 9th Article of the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, induced him to enter into a correspondence with Holkar, which nearly led to an open rupture. Among other acts of hostility, he attacked and plundered the Resident's camp and detained the Resident a prisoner. As Sindia refused to release the Resident, he was informed that his conduct had annulled the Treaties with him; that Government were at liberty to deal with him as they might think fit; and that the surrender of the Resident must precede any friendly intercourse. The change, however, in the policy of Government on the arrival of Lord Cornwallis, who, independently of any reference to the settlement of differences with Sindia, deemed it inexpedient to retain possession of Gohud and Gwalior, led to the renewal of negotiations on the basis of restoring these territories. A Treaty (No. LXVI.) was accordingly concluded on 23rd November 1805 which confirmed the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, except what might be altered by this Treaty, ceded Gwalior and Gohud to Sindia, abolished the pensions of fifteen lakhs a year paid by Government to Sindia's Officers, constituted the Chumbul the northern boundary of Sindia's territory, deprived Sindia of all claim to tribute from Boondée or any State north of the Chumbul and east of Kotah, bound the British Government not to make Treaties with Oudeypore, Jodhpore, Kotah, or other Chiefs tributary to Sindia in Malwa, Meywar or Marwar, or to interfere with the arrangements which Sindia might make in regard to them, and granted a pension of four lakhs a year to Sindia and jaghires of two lakhs to his wife Baiza Bai and one lakh to his daughter Chumna Bai.

ENTRAL
INDIA.

Sindia.

In the Pindaree war the plundering Chiefs looked for support to Dowlut Rao Sindia as the most powerful of the Mahratta Princes, and one whose whole habits and feelings were those of marked hostility to the British Government. He was also subjected to strong solicitations from the Peishwa who was endeavoring to bind up again the broken Mahratta confederacy. Sindia made no movement indicative of a design to aid the Peishwa, although he was no doubt balancing as to the line he would take. When the resolution was formed to commence a system of political alliances against the Pindarees, negotiations were early opened with him, and the disposition of troops was so made as to compel him either to enter into the views of the British Government or range himself on the side of the Pindarees at the very outset. The points to be carried were his co-operation against the Pindarees and the abrogation of the 8th Article of the Treaty of 1805, which restrained the British Government from forming engagements with the Rajpoot States. This Treaty indeed had been regarded as substantially abrogated in consequence of Sindia's repeated infractions of it by his secret intercourse with the Pindaree leaders. Still Government was willing, if Sindia cordially entered into its measures, to leave him in all other respects the full benefit of former Treaties and to guarantee him the tribute of those States. To secure his co-operation he was to surrender the tribute for three years, to put his troops in fixed positions whence they were not to move without the consent of the British Government, and to give up the forts of Asceurgurh and Hindia both as security for the lines of communication and as a guarantee for the performance of his engagements. These objects were secured by the Treaty of 5th November 1817 (No. LXVII.).

CENTR.
INDIA
Sindia

The open defection of the Peishwa and the Rajah of Berar shook the steadfastness of Sindia to his engagements. The strong fortress of Asceurgurh was not surrendered as stipulated by the Treaty, and it therefore became necessary to reduce it by force. In the captured fort a letter was found in which Sindia directed the Governor to obey all orders of the Peishwa, who, by attacking the Residency at Poonah, had declared war with the British Government. In consequence of this want of good faith Sindia was required permanently to cede the fort of Asceurgurh.

In the following year a Treaty (No. LXVIII.) was made with Sindia for the adjustment of boundaries, the British Government receiving Ajmere and other districts, and ceding lands of equal value.

Dowlut Rao Sindia died in March 1827. He left no son, and had repeatedly evaded the advice of the Resident to adopt a successor, leaving it to the British Government to do what they might think proper. In accordance, however, with what was believed to be the last wishes of Dowlut Rao, a youth of eleven years named Moogut Rao, of an obscure branch of the family, but declared to be the nearest relation of Dowlut Rao, was adopted, married to the granddaughter of Dowlut Rao by Baiza Bai and placed in power with the title of Ali Jah Jankojee Rao Sindia under the Regency of Baiza Bai. The Baiza Bai acknowledged this succession most reluctantly, and maintained that it was her late husband's intention that she should hold the Regency during her life. She even pressed on the British Government the conclusion of a new Treaty in order that she might obtain the formal recognition of her right to exercise the powers of Regent during her life. But although Government did not enter into this Treaty, and although in 1830 they insisted on the Bai using the young Maharajah's seal in all official communications, she still clung to the hope of keeping the government in her own hands, and took no steps to train the young Chief for the future exercise of power. The restraints under which the youth was held by the Regent became at last intolerable to him and he fled from the Palace and took refuge with the Resident. A reconciliation was with difficulty effected, but as Government gave no definite decision on the rights of the parties, the seeds of dissension remained and the quarrel finally came to a crisis in 1833.

The Baiza Bai's rule had become most unpopular and the cause of the young Maharajah was espoused by a large portion of the army; the Bai was compelled to retire from the Gwalior territory and the Maharajah was acknowledged by the British Government. To such a length was the principle of absolute neutrality carried at this time, that Government declared it was matter of indifference whether the Maharajah or the Bai was at the head of the Gwalior State, and that the only object of Government was to preserve the general tranquillity and its own reputation, recognising such ruler as might be placed by the popular voice at the head of the administration. The Bai was prohibited from using her asylum in British territory or any dependent State as a focus for organising an invasion of Gwalior, but she was left at liberty to return to Gwalior and rely on the support of her own subjects. The Resident was even censured for having called in the Contingent in support of the Maharajah's authority, and it was ruled that the legitimate purpose for which the Contingent was formed was the suppression of plunderers, and the repulsion of external enemies.

By the Treaty of 1817 Dowlut Rao Sindia had engaged to furnish a Contingent* of 5,000 horse and assigned for its support the annual payments made to him by the British Government and also the tribute from the States of Jodhpore, Boondee, and Kotah. After the close of the war the Contingent was reduced to 2,000 horse, at a monthly cost of Rupees 1,20,000, which however was in excess of the funds allotted for its support. It was therefore agreed (No. LXIX.) in February 1820 to reduce the force so as to bring the cost within the sum originally assigned for its payment, and that for the debt due on account of it by Sindia certain districts should be temporarily transferred to the British

* This account of the early history of the Contingent up to the year 1833 is taken from Sutherland's Sketches, pp. 152, 153, and 160.

Government. On the death of Dowlut Rao his annual pension of four lakhs which he had assigned in part payment for the Contingent ceased, and some other arrangement became necessary. A loan of eighty lakhs of Rupees at 5 per cent. was taken from the Baiza Bai, but as this arrangement proved inconvenient, the loan was paid off, and in 1830 the funds allotted for the payment of the Contingent stood as follows :—

Pension of Baiza Bai from British Government	...	Rs.	2,00,000
Kotah tribute	1,06,118
Kotreos „	10,998
Jodhpore „	1,04,004
Rutlam and Sillanah tribute	1,21,380
Révenues of Gurra Kotah	35,000
Do. of Maltoun in Sangor	20,000
Do. of Yawul, Chupra, &c., in Kandeish	90,000
Total, Rupees			6,77,560

This amount was still under the cost of the Contingent, which was Rupees 7,09,224. When the Baiza Bai fled from Gwalior the revenues of her jaghire were no longer available for the payment of the Contingent, and a corresponding reduction of the force became necessary. But this was no sooner resolved on than the Durbar demanded that the revenues of the Kandeish and Saugor districts, which had formed part of the territories restored to Sindia under the 6th Article of the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, should be given back, and that only the tributes from the Rajpoot States, amounting to Rupees 3,42,500 should be retained, and that the Contingent should be still further reduced to correspond with this diminution of the funds. By the Treaty of 1820 it was optional with the British Government on the extinction of the debt either to restore these districts or to pay rent for them, or to give other lands in exchange. It was finally arranged, that besides receiving the Rajpoot tributes the British Government should retain the management of the districts of Gurra Kotah and Maltoun in Saugor yielding Rupees 75,000, that the Kandeish districts should be restored to Sindia, and that in lieu of them Sindia should pay a sum of Rupees 66,926-8 a year which was equivalent to their nett revenues. No written engagement was concluded, but the Contingent was re-organized in accordance with the above arrangement, and Sindia promised to take measures for the proper management of the country and to respect the settlements which the British Government had made with the Bheels. The Court of Directors however were of opinion that the restoration of the districts was not required by the terms of the engagement of 1820, that Sindia was not likely to respect the Bheel settlements, and that there was danger of the country relapsing into anarchy by its transfer to Sindia's government. They therefore desired that measures should be taken for obtaining the retrocession of the districts to the British Government. But the Durbar were unwilling to part with them, and Government at last resolved not to press the matter. The Durbar, however, were emphatically told that Government would not permit these districts to become haunts of oppression and disorder dangerous to neighboring territories, and that if mismanagement should occur of a nature to endanger the security of the surrounding districts, the pergunnahs would be at once taken possession of by the British Government and not again restored.

In 1823 the districts of Kundwai, Burwai, Poonassa, Sellani, and the village of Dhungaon, and in the following year the districts of Asseer with exception of three towns, Bangurh, Moode, Belora, Altode, Deore, and Peeplode, were made over (No. LXX.) by Sindia to the management of the British Government. Deore was subsequently ceded permanently to the British Government in exchange for Shujawulpore, but the tenure of the other eleven districts remained unchanged. The measure was in a manner forced on the Durbar who long ceased not to urge their right to the restoration of the districts. But in 1837 it was decided that the transfer of these districts to the administration of the British Government was an arrangement not revocable at the will of the Gwalior Durbar, and that the districts could not be relinquished without disappointing the expectations of the people and danger to the general tranquillity and the freedom of commercial intercourse with Bombay. Under the Treaty of 1860 no questions can now arise regarding these districts.

In 1831 the exchange of the pergunnah of Eastern Shujawulpore for Sindia's districts of Deore, Gourjhawur, Chawurpatha, Jhindookhera, and Nahirmow, was negotiated. The revenues of Shujawulpore were about Rupees 90,939, and those of Sindia's districts Rupees 87,305. A money payment of Rupees 3,634 was therefore to be made to the British Government by the Gwalior Durbar. The Court of Directors disapproved of this exchange of territory, but as the arrangement was convenient for both governments and its cancelment was very unpalatable to the Gwalior Durbar, government finally resolved not to disturb it. The Resident however was required, without inviting complaints, to use his influence to avert any evil to the inhabitants. Guarantees were given for life to four persons who had received jaghires in Shujawulpore from the British Government. Rajun Khan, a Pindaree leader, brother of the notorious Cheetoo, had also received a life grant* of lands in Shujawulpore. He died during the negotiations for the exchange, and the lands, the value of which had been excluded from the estimated value of Shujawulpore, were continued to his family, and Sindia was required to abstain from any arbitrary measure of resumption. Questions of succession to this jaghire are usually decided by the British Government and the decision is communicated to Sindia.

The rule of Maharajah Jankojee Sindia was very weak. Although the Baiza† Bai had no strong party within Gwalior territories she did not cease to intrigue and to use freely for this purpose a sum of Rs. 37,00,000

 Translation of the Sunnud granted to Rajun Khan.*

He will accordingly possess the undermentioned villages without molestation. deposited in the Benares Treasury, which, by the arbitration of the British Government acquiesced in by Sindia, was declared to be her private property. The Mama Sahib, the Maharajah's maternal uncle, occupied the post of Minister during the greater part of his rule. But the Court was one constant scene of feuds and struggles for power among the nobles; the army was in a chronic state of mutiny. This weakness of the internal Government prepared the way for the hostilities with the British Government which broke out shortly after the Maharajah's death, and resulted in an entire change of the British policy towards the Gwalior State.

Jankojee Sindia died on 7th February 1843. He had no children and had expressed no wish regarding the succession although repeatedly and earnestly urged by the Resident to do so. Tara Ranee, however, the Maharajah's widow, a young girl of twelve years of age, with the concurrence of the Chiefs of the State and the army, adopted Bugeerut Rao, son of Hunwunt Rao, usually called Babajee Sindia, the nearest though a very distant relative of the late Maharajah, and the adoption was recognized by the British Government. The boy was then about eight years of age. On his accession he assumed the title of Alijah Jyajee Rao Sindia. The adoption of a boy too young to administer the government rendered necessary the appointment of a Regent. The Mama Sahib, who appeared to possess the greatest influence and was attached to British interests, was chosen by the Chiefs as Regent. His selection was reported to give universal satisfaction to the troops and people. He was therefore recognized by the British Government as the responsible head of the State during the minority and was assured of support. For three months affairs went on smoothly. Intrigues however were carried on against him in the palace by a party at the head of which was Dada Khasjeeewalla who gained over a portion of the army to his cause. The commencement of the intrigue is attributed to apprehensions instilled into the mind of the young Maharanee that the Mama Sahib, whose daughter was married to the Maharajah, would supersede her authority, and it ended in the expulsion of the Mama Sahib from Gwalior and the establishment of the influence of Dada Khasjeeewalla, notwithstanding the remonstrances of the Resident and the British Government.

The acts of Dada Khasjeewalla showed him to be hostile to the rests of the British Government. Offices were taken from those who supposed to be favorable to the maintenance of friendly relations, and those who, at the request of the Resident, had been expelled from Gwalior by the late Maharajah, were recalled and restored to office. Such proceedings could not be viewed otherwise than as an affront to the British Government, and as they were accompanied by the assemblage of the bodies of mutinous troops at Gwalior, by a threatened attack on Gwalior in the territories of the Nawab of Tonk, where the Mama Sahib had taken refuge, and by disorders on the frontier at a time when war on the part of Sutlej was impending and it was necessary to secure the communications of the British army by the re-establishment of a friendly Government at Gwalior, the direct interference of the British Government was demanded not only in the interests of the Gwalior State but by the respect for its own dignity and the safety of its own possessions.

Accordingly the representative of the British Government was withdrawn from Gwalior and forbidden to return until either a settled government should be established at Gwalior or his intervention should be requested by the Maharanee and the Chiefs for the restoration of order. Before ulterior measures were taken the Resident wrote to the Maharanee, in reply to a letter in which she had invited his return, stating the conditions under which friendly relations could be re-established, including the banishment of Dada Khasjeewalla, whose presence was the only obstacle to the restoration of friendship. This letter was accepted by Dada Khasjeewalla, whose right to interfere in the affairs of the State had never been admitted by the British Government, and its contents were concealed by him from the Maharanee. This act was considered to be a virtual assumption of the powers of government by Dada Khasjeewalla and a supersession of the authority of the Maharanee and the young Chief, whose person and authority the British Government were bound by Treaty to maintain. A demand was therefore made for his surrender as the preliminary condition of further friendly intercourse. The objects proposed by the British Government for reparation for the affront offered to it by the surrender of the son of Dada Khasjeewalla, security for the tranquillity of the frontier, and the reduction of the mutinous army, which possessed the real power in Gwalior and overawed the government of the State. Dada Khasjee-wallah was seized by the Chiefs who were favorable to the restoration of peace, but he was released by the portion of the army whose support he had bought. It was only on the advance of a British force towards Gwalior that he was surrendered. It remained now only to negotiate measures for the formation of an efficient government and the reduction of the army. For this purpose an interview was agreed upon between the Governor General and the Maharajah which was to take place at Hingooona on 26th December 1843. The day passed without the appearance of the Maharanee and her son, who were held in restraint by the mutinous troops. On the 29th December when the British army was taking up its advanced ground, it was fired on by the Gwalior troops. The battles of Maharajpore and Punniar were fought the same day and ended in the total defeat of the Gwalior army, and the conclusion of a Treaty (No. LXXI.) by which it was agreed that territory yielding eighteen lakhs a year should be ceded to the British Government for the maintenance of a contingent force, and other lands for the payment of the debts of the State to the British Government and the expenses of the war; that the army should be reduced to 6,000 cavalry, 3,000 infantry and 200 gunners with 32 guns; that the government during the minority should be conducted according to the advice of the British Resident; and that the just territorial rights of the Gwalior State should be maintained by the British Government.

From this time till the mutinies of 1857 there was little change in the relations of the British Government with the Gwalior State. By the mutiny of the Contingent in June 1857 the Political Agent was forced to quit Gwalior. The counsels of Dinkur Rao, however, the Maharajah's able Minister, who during the four preceding years of his tenure of office had entirely reformed the internal administration, were strongly in favor of British interests. In June 1858 the Maharajah was deserted by his troops on the approach of the rebels under Tantia Topee. He and his Minister were compelled to flee to Agra. On 19th June Gwalior was retaken by Sir Hugh Rose's force and the Maharajah was re-established in his palace. From that date the confidence of the Maharajah was entirely withdrawn from his Minister to whom he conceived an intense dislike. Dinkur Rao was at last removed from office in December 1859, and Balajee Chimnajee was appointed in his stead with the concurrence of the British Government. Since that time the Maharajah has himself superintended the whole of his affairs.

For his services during the mutinies Sindia received a Sunnud (No. LXXII.) conferring on him the right of adoption. He was also informed that lands yielding three lakhs of Rupees a year would be added to his territories; that permission would be given to him to raise his infantry from 3,000 to 5,000 men, and his artillery from 32 to 36 guns; that the arrears due to the British Government on account of the deficiency in the revenues of the districts assigned under the Treaty of 1844 would be remitted, and that no payments would in future be claimed should these revenues fall short of eighteen lakhs; and that the annual payment of Rupees 10,000 out of the revenues of Burwa Saugor in the Jhansi district would be hereditary. These modifications of the Treaty of 1844 were embodied in a new Treaty (No. LXXIII.) concluded on 12th December 1860. The basis of this Treaty was a proposal made in 1854, which had in the interval remained in abeyance, for the exchange of certain territories with Sindia. It provided for the restoration to Sindia of lands from the assigned districts yielding three lakhs of Rupees a year; for the cession of the town of Boorhanpore and district of Zeinabad in exchange for the town and part of the district of Jhansi; the exchange of Sindia's five districts in Guzerat, the pergunnah of Kunjeea, the annual payment from Burwa Saugor and all his territories south of the Nerbudda, with exception of seven hereditary villages, for lands of equal value on the Sindh and Betwa rivers; for the cession to the British Government, in full sovereignty, of all the districts, &c., assigned in 1844 which might remain after the above exchanges should be effected; and for the substitution of a subsidiary force costing not less than sixteen lakhs a year in the place of the extinct Contingent. In 1861 the Maharajah gave up the hereditary villages in the Deccan reserved to him under the 4th Article of the Treaty for an equivalent on the Pahooj. The value of the lands with which Sindia was credited under the Treaty of 1860 amounted to Rupees 7,30,535-6-5, while the value of the lands made over to him was only Rupees 7,15,952-1-1. The difference, Rupees 14,583-5-4, is annually paid to Sindia in cash by the British Government.

CENTRAL

Sindia.

The Rajah of Amjhera,* tributary to Sindia, paid annually to Gwalior State a tribute of Rupees 35,000 under an engagement mediated by the British Government. This tribute was part of the sums assigned in 1844 for the payment of the Contingent, and is now payable by Sindia to the British Government under the Treaty of 1860. Besides this the Maharajah contributes Halloway Rupees 20,000 towards the payment of the Malwa Bheel Corps. Formerly Sindia contributed 8,000 Rupees to this corps and the Rajah of Amjhera contributed 4,000. But when Amjhera was confiscated and made over to Sindia in consequence of the rebellion of the Rajah in 1857, it was made subject to a payment of Rupees 20,000, no further contribution being required on account of Gwalior. The only other payment which Sir James makes to the British Government is a subsidy of Rupees 50,000 for years from 1st November 1860 towards the construction of the Agra and Bombay road and thereafter an annual contribution of Rupees 12,000 for its repairs. No payments are made to Sindia by the British Government.

Including the cessions to Sindia under the Treaty of 1860, the territories of the Gwalior State are estimated to contain a population of about 2,500,000 souls and to yield a revenue of Rupees 93,09,102, of which Rupees 78,38,900 are derived from the land tax, Rupees 14,70,000 from customs, and the rest from the tributes of feudatories. The customs revenue is realized from transit duties on iron, tobacco, sugar, and all other articles being free, and from jaghire and other local taxes. No transit duties are taken on the portion of the Agra and Bombay road and its branches passing through Sindia's territories or on roads connecting Gwalior with Etawah and Furruckabad, Duttia, Jhansi, and Calpee.

The Maharajah has been created a Knight of the Star of India. He receives a salute of nineteen guns.

TREATY with MAHARAJAH MADHO RAO SINDIA, relative to the Honourable East India Company's Trade at Baroach, dated the 30th September 1785.

Sindia.

WHEREAS a Sunnud, bearing date the seventeenth day of Rubee-oos-sanee of the year one thousand one hundred and ninety-seven of the Hegira, corresponding with the twenty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three of the Christian era, was granted by Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia, declaring that the English should carry on trade as usual in the city and pergunnah of Baroach, and that no improper molestation should be offered to them, the said Sunnud specifying also that no European nation excepting the English should be permitted to trade in any shape in the said city and pergunnah; and whereas, in the said Sunnud, the particulars of the duties, &c., to be taken and the settlement of concerns of trade were omitted, and doubts have arisen on these subjects, which Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia is willing to remove: For this purpose, and to support the English trade in the city and pergunnah of Baroach, We, the Governor General and Council of Fort William in Bengal, appointed by the King and Parliament of Great Britain to direct and control all political affairs of the Honourable English East India Company in India, on the one part, and Maharajah Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor on the other part, agree to the following Treaty containing seven Articles, and bind ourselves and successors to the full and invariable observance of them.

ARTICLE 1.

Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor agrees that in every year in which the English Company carry on trade in the district of Baroach, the duties thereon shall be taken according to the Treaty with the Nawab of Baroach in the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four; that is to say, on the cotton which is purchased from Baroach, on every candy of Surat weight, one and a half Rupees and four felloos shall be paid, and the duty on other articles which are imported or exported by the Company shall be one Rupee eight annas for every hundred Rupees; and besides these established articles of the Company's trade, whatever other articles come from English individuals shall be subject to a duty of six Rupees in every hundred thereon, conformably to the usage which existed when the Company had possession of Baroach. The Governor General and Council agree that the English shall not unite any Hindostanee in their trade, and that in case of such partnership, such duties shall be paid thereon as are paid upon the commerce of the merchants wearing turbans. The Governor General and Council consent that the duties stipulated to be paid upon the Company's trade shall be paid by the Company's Resident at Baroach to the Amil of that district.

ARTICLE 2.

It has been the old established custom, on the wreck of any ship, vessel, or boats within any of the ports in the neighbourhood of Baroach, that the owner of the port should take possession of the goods; but as at this time a firm friendship exists between the government of the English Company and Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadour, the Governor General and Council have requested that the goods of the ships, vessels, and boats of the English that may be wrecked in the river of Baroach, may be released, and Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadour agrees, for the sake of friendship, that when any ship, vessel, or boat belonging to the English shall be wrecked in the river Nerbudda which belongs to the district of Baroach, and the Amil of Baroach may save any goods which bear the mark of the English, the Amil shall deliver all such goods to the Company's Resident at Baroach, who shall reimburse the amount expended in saving and keeping them.

ARTICLE 3.

Some disputes having arisen between the English and subjects of the Maharajah belonging to the fort of Baroach, in respect to the time of passing into the fort and out of it, it is now agreed, and the Maharajah has directed, that at the times when it is customary that the gate should remain open, the people belonging to the Amil of Baroach shall not prevent the going and coming of the English or their dependants, but that the gate shall be shut at the appointed hour, and none of the English or their dependants shall have any right to enter the fort, or go out of it, after that time. The English are not then to desire that the gate may be opened for them, not even to give intelligence of the arrival of any ship that may come into the port at night.

And when any crime committed, or supposed to have been committed, by any such persons, shall be discovered, the Amil of Baroach shall send notice to the Company's Resident, that he may examine and pass judgment upon such persons, or the Company's Resident shall send back such persons to the Amil, that whatever is proper in the case may be done by him; and the Governor General and Council agree that when any tradesmen, &c., working in the Company's factory, shall go into the town of Baroach, and work also with other merchants and townsmen, the Amil of Baroach shall take the duties for such tradesmen, &c., according to the practice now in use with respect to the persons not working for the English only. Whereas the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia has represented that his family have long held in enaum, as a gift from the Kings of Hindostan, the districts of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, which are situated to the northward of the countries of the Rajahs of Jeypore and Jodhpore, and of the Rana of Gohud, and that lands in Hindostan, ceded by the second Article of this Treaty to the Honourable Company and their allies, are held in jaghire by persons of the family of the late Madhajee Sindia, and others by principal Sirdars in his service, all of whom would suffer distress if deprived of the advantages they enjoy in those countries: it is agreed, that the Maharajah shall continue to hold and enjoy, in enaum, the lands of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, and that Bala Baye Sahib, and Munsoor Sahib, Moonshee Kavel Nyn, Boogajee Jamdah, Amrajee Jadhoo, and Wirdah Charie, shall continue to hold their lands in jaghire under the protection of the Honourable Company. And further, in order that no individual may incur loss or suffer distress in consequence of this arrangement, it is agreed that the Honourable Company shall either pay pensions or grant lands in jaghire, according to the option of the British Government, to certain other Sirdars and others, to be named by the Maharajah, provided that the total amount of the sums paid, or jaghires granted or held, does not exceed seventeen lakhs of Rupees per annum, including the annual value of the lands which it is agreed by this Article that Bala Baye Sahib, Munsoor Sahib, Moonsee Kavel Nyn, Boogajee Jamdah, Amrajee Jadhoo, and Wirdah Charie, are to continue to hold; and provided that no troops in the service of the Maharajah are to be introduced into Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, or the other lands held in jaghire, under the pretence of collecting the revenue, or any other pretence whatever.

TREATY of Alliance with DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, 1804.

No. LXV.

Sindia.

TREATY of alliance and mutual defence between the HONOURABLE THE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and the MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, settled by MAJOR JOHN MALCOLM, on the part of the Honourable Company, and by BAPOO EETUL PUNT and MOONSHEE KAVEL NYN, on the part of the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, after having communicated to each other their full powers, the said JOHN MALCOLM being deputed to the Court of Dowlut Rao Sindia by Major General the Honourable Arthur Wellesley; the Honourable Major General aforesaid being invested with full powers and authority from His EXCELLENCY THE MOST NOBLE RICHARD MARQUIS WELLESLEY, Knight of the Most Illustrious Order of Saint Patrick, one of his Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, appointed by the Honourable Court of Directors of the said Company to direct and control all their affairs in the East-Indies.

WHEREAS, by the blessing of God, the relations of friendship and union have been happily established between the government of the Honourable Company and that of the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor by a recent Treaty of Peace, the two governments aforesaid, adverting to the complexion of the times, have now determined, with a view to the preservation of peace and tranquillity, to enter into this Treaty of general defensive alliance, for the reciprocal protection of their respective territories, together with those of their several allies and dependants, against unprovoked aggression and encroachments of all or any enemies whatever.

ARTICLE 1.

The friendship and union established by the former Treaty between the two States shall be promoted and increased by this Treaty, and shall be perpetual: the friends and enemies of either State shall be the friends and enemies of both, and their mutual interests shall henceforward be inseparable.

ARTICLE 2.

If any person or State whatever shall commit any act of unprovoked hostility or aggression against either of the contracting parties, and, after due representation, shall refuse to enter into amicable explanation, or shall deny the just satisfaction or indemnity which the contracting parties shall have required, then the contracting parties will proceed to concert and prosecute such further measures as the case shall appear to demand. For the more distinct explanation of the true intent and effect of this Article, the Governor General in Council, in behalf of the Honourable Company, hereby declares that the British Government will never permit any power or State whatever to commit with impunity any act of unprovoked hostility or aggression against the rights and territories of the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, but will, at all times, in compliance with the requisition of the Maharajah, maintain and defend the same, when such requisition is made, in the like manner as the rights and territories of the Honourable Company are now maintained and defended.

CENTRAL
INDIA.

No. LXV.

ARTICLE 3.

With a view to fulfil this Treaty of mutual defence, the Maharajah agrees to receive, and the Honourable East-India Company to furnish, a subsidiary force of not less than six thousand regular infantry, with the usual proportion of artillery, and with the proper equipment of warlike stores and ammunition. This force is to be stationed at such place near the frontier of Dowlut Rao Sindia as may hereafter be deemed most eligible by the British Government, and it will be held in readiness at such station to proceed as soon as possible for the execution of any service on which it is liable to be employed by the condition of this Treaty.

ARTICLE 4.

And it is further agreed that in conformity to the stipulations of the fifteenth Article of the Treaty of Peace, concluded by Major-General Wellesley, on the part of the Honourable Company, and by Bapoo Eetul Moonshee Kavel Nyn, &c., on the part of Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, that all charges and expenses of the six battalions above-mentioned, and of their ordnance, artillery, military stores, and equipment, shall be defrayed by the Honourable Company out of the produce of the revenues of the territories ceded by the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia to the said Company, by the second, third, and fourth Articles of the aforementioned Treaty of Peace, which territories are specified in a statement annexed to that Treaty.

ARTICLE 5.

CENTRAL
INDIA.

No. LXV.

Sindia.

Grain and all other articles of consumption, and provisions, and all sorts of materials for wearing apparel, together with the necessary number of cattle, horses, and camels, required for the use of the subsidiary force, shall, whenever the aforesaid force is within the territories of the Maharajah, in consequence of his requisition, be entirely exempt from duties; and whenever any further force of the Honourable Company shall, in consequence of war with any other State, be in the dominions of the Maharajah, they shall, in like manner as the subsidiary force, be exempt from all duties upon the aforesaid articles of necessary use and consumption: and it is also agreed, that whenever any part of the army of the Maharajah is in the territories of the Honourable Company, for purposes connected with the fulfilment of this Treaty, that no duties on grain, camels, wearing apparel, &c., as stated above, which the party of the army of the said Maharajah may require, shall be collected: and it is further agreed, that the Officers of the respective Governments, while they are in the fulfilment of the Articles of this Treaty, either with the army or in the territories of the other, shall be treated with that respect and consideration which is due to their rank and station.

ARTICLE 6.

The subsidiary force will, at all times, be ready, on the requisition of the Maharajah, to execute services of importance, such as the care of the person of the Maharajah, his heirs and successors, the protection of the country from attack and invasion, the overawing and chastisement of rebels or excitors of disturbance in the Maharajah's dominions; but it is not to be employed on trifling occasions.

ARTICLE 7.

Whereas it is agreed in the thirteenth Article of the Treaty of Peace that the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia shall never take or retain in his service any Frenchman, or the subject of any other European or American power, the government of which may be at war with Great Britain, or any British subject whatever, European or native of India, without the consent of the British Government, the Maharajah now further engages that he will hereafter never employ in his service, or permit to reside in his dominions, any European or American whatever, without the consent and acquiescence of the British Government; the said British Government, on its part, engaging, that it never will employ, or permit to reside in its dominions, any person subject of the Maharajah or others, who shall hereafter be guilty of crimes or of hostility against the person or government of the aforesaid Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia.

ARTICLE 8.

As, by the present Treaty, the union and friendship of the two States is so firmly cemented, that they may be considered as one and the same, the Maharajah engages neither to commence nor to pursue in future any negociation with any principal States or powers, without giving previous notice and entering into mutual consultation with the Honourable East-India Company's government: and the Honourable Company's Government, on their part, declare, that they will have no manner of concern with any of the Maharajah's relations, dependants, military chiefs, or servants, with respect to whom the Maharajah is absolute: and that they will, on no occasion, ever afford encouragement, support, or protection, to any of the Maharajah's relations, dependants, chiefs, or servants, who may eventually act in opposition to the Maharajah's authority, but, on the contrary, at the requisition of the Maharajah, they will aid and assist to punish and reduce all such offenders to obedience: and it is further agreed that no officer of the Honourable Company shall ever interfere in the internal affairs of the Maharajah's government.

ARTICLE 9.

As the chief object and design of the present defensive alliance is the security and protection of the dominions of the contracting parties, and their allies and dependants, from all attack whatsoever, the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages never to commit any act of hostility or aggression against any State or Chief in alliance with the Honourable Company, or against any other principal State or power; and in the event of differences arising, whatever adjustment the Company's government, weighing matters in the scale of truth and justice, may determine, shall meet his full approbation and acquiescence.

ARTICLE 10.

CENTRAL
INDIA.

No. LXV.

Sindia.

The contracting parties will employ all practicable means of conciliation to prevent the calamity of war, and for that purpose will, at all times, be ready to enter into amicable explanations with other principal States or powers, and to cultivate and improve the general relations of peace and amity with all the principal powers of India, according to the true spirit and tenor of this Treaty; but if a war should unfortunately break out between the contracting parties and any other State or power whatever, then the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor engages that the English force, consisting of six battalions, with their guns, &c., joined by a detachment of his army, consisting of six thousand of the Maharajah's infantry, and ten thousand of his Pagah and Sillahdar cavalry, which force the Maharajah engages always to keep ready, shall be immediately put in motion for the purpose of opposing the enemy: and the Maharajah also engages to employ every further effort for the purpose of bringing into the field the whole force which he may be able to supply from his dominions, with a view to the effectual prosecution and speedy termination of the said war. The Honourable Company, in the same manner, engage, on their part (on such event occurring), to employ in active operations against the enemy as large a force as the service may require, over and above the said subsidiary force.

ARTICLE 11.

Whenever war shall appear probable the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages to collect as many Binjaries as possible, and to store as much grain as may be practicable in the frontier garrisons. The Company's government also, with a view to the effectual prosecution of the war, engages to adopt similar measures in their frontier garrisons.

ARTICLE 12.

The contracting parties entertain no views of conquests or extension of their respective dominions, nor any intention of proceeding to hostilities against any State or principal power, unless in the case of unjust and unprovoked aggression, and after the failure of their joint endeavours to obtain reasonable satisfaction, through the channel of pacific negotiation, according to the tenor of the preceding Treaty. If, contrary to the spirit and object of this defensive Treaty, war with any State should hereafter appear unavoidable (which God avert), the contracting parties will proceed to adjust the rule of partition of all such advantages and acquisitions as may eventually result from the success of their united arms. It is declared that in the event of war and of a consequent partition of conquests between the contracting parties, the shares of each government shall be equal, in the division of any territory which may be acquired by the successful exertions of their united arms, provided that each of the contracting parties shall have faithfully fulfilled all the stipulations of this Treaty.

ARTICLE 13.

The interests of the contracting parties being identified by this defensive alliance, it is agreed that the Honourable Company's government shall be at liberty to employ the whole or any part of the subsidiary force established by the Treaty in the quelling of any disturbances which may arise within their territories, or in the performance of any other service which may be required by the said Honourable Company's government, provided such service shall not interfere with any other duties on which the said subsidiary force is liable to be employed under the conditions of this Treaty. And if disturbances shall at any time break out in any part of the Maharajah's dominions which lays contiguous to the frontier of the Honourable Company, and to which it might be inconvenient to detach any proportion of the subsidiary force, the British Government, in like manner, if required by Dowlut Rao Sindia, shall direct such of the Company's troops as may be most conveniently stationed for the purpose, to assist in quelling the said disturbances within the Maharajah's dominions; and if disturbances shall at any time break out in any part of the dominions of the British Government which lay contiguous to the frontier of the Maharajah, the Maharajah, if required by the British Government, shall direct such of his troops as may be most conveniently stationed for the purpose, to assist in quelling the said disturbances within the dominions of the British Government.

ARTICLE 14.

In order to strengthen and confirm the friendship established between the two States, it is agreed that neither of the two contracting parties all enter into any alliance, or have any concern with the tributaries chiefs of the other : and, in order to support the independent authority both governments, it is agreed and declared, that hereafter neither the contracting parties will give protection or countenance to the rebellious tributaries and subjects of the other, but they will use their most endeavours for the apprehension of such rebels, in order that they may be brought to punishment.

DEFINITIVE TREATY of amity and alliance between the HONOURABLE ENGLISH EAST-INDIA COMPANY and the MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA BAHADUR, and his children, heirs and successors.

WHEREAS various doubts and misunderstandings have arisen respecting the clear meaning and interpretation of parts of the Treaty of Peace concluded between the British Government and Dowlut Rao Sindia, at Surjee Anjengaum, on the 30th December 1803, with a view of doing away all such doubts, and of preventing the recurrence in future of any misunderstanding, this definitive Treaty of amity and alliance is concluded between the two States, by Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, acting under the immediate direction and superintendence of the Right Honourable General Gerard Lake, Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's and the Honourable Company's Forces, &c. &c. &c., and vested with full powers and authority from the Honourable Sir George Hilario Barlow, Baronet, appointed by the Honourable Court of Directors of the said Company to control and direct all their affairs in the East-Indies, and Moonshee Kavel Nyn, vested with full powers and authority, on the part of the said Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia.

ARTICLE 1.

Every part of the Treaty of Peace concluded by General Sir Arthur Wellesley, K. B., at Surjee Anjengaum, except what may be altered by this engagement, is to remain binding upon the two States.

ARTICLE 2.

The Honourable Company can never acknowledge that Dowlut Rao Sindia has any claim or right, grounded on the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, to possess the fort of Gwalior or the territories of Gohud; but, from considerations of friendship, it agrees to cede to the Maharajah that fortress, and such parts of the territory of Gohud as are described in the accompanying Schedule.

ARTICLE 3.

As a compensation for this cession, and to remunerate the English Government for the annual expense incurred in supporting the Rana of Gohud, Dowlut Rao Sindia agrees, on his own part and that of his Sirdars, to relinquish, after the 1st of January 1806, all right and claim whatever to the pensions of fifteen lakhs of Rupees granted to several of the chief officers of his State, by the seventh Article of the aforesaid Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum.

ARTICLE 4.

The Honourable Company agree to pay to Dowlut Rao Sindia the arrears due upon the pensions granted by the seventh Article of the Treaty

CENTRAL INDIA. of Peace, as above mentioned, up to the 31st of December 1805, and also the balance due upon the revenues of Dholepore, Rajah-Kerrah, and Baree up to the same date, making deductions on the following heads :

- 1st. Pensions forfeited by Bappoo Sindia and Sudasheo Rao, by acts of hostility towards the British Government, to be stopped from the date of their hostility.
- 2nd. Plunder of the British Residency.
- 3rd. Cash advanced by Mr. Jenkins to parties of the Maharajah's troops.
- 4th. Charges of collection, &c. for the provinces of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah.

ARTICLE 5.

With a view of preventing any misunderstanding relating to their respective possessions on the quarter of Hindostan, it is agreed that the river Chumbul shall form the boundary between the two States, from the city of Kotah to the west to the limits of the territories of Gohud to the east, and within that extent of the course of the Chumbul, Dowlut Rao Sindia shall have no claim or right to any rule, tribute, revenue, or possessions, on its north bank; and the Honourable Company shall have no claim or right to any rule, tribute, revenues, or possessions on the south bank of that river. The talooks of Bhadek and Sooseperarah, which are on the banks of the Jumna, will, however, remain in possession of the Honourable Company.

ARTICLE 6.

By the fifth Article of this Tréaty, which makes the river Chumbul the boundary of the two States, from the city of Kotah to the west to the limits of the territories of Gohud to the east, the Maharajah resigns all pretensions and claims to any tribute from the Rajah of Boondee, or any other, on the north bank of the Chumbul, within the aforementioned limits; as also to the countries of Tank Ramporah, Bahraungaum, Zemeidah, &c., and to the districts of Dholepore, Rajah-Kerrah, and Baree, all which remain in the possession of the Honourable Company.

ARTICLE 7.

INDIA.

No. LXVI.

Sindia.

The Honourable Company, on consideration of the benefits derived from the Article which makes the Chumbul the boundary between the two States, and from friendship to the Maharajah, agree to grant him, personally and exclusively, the annual sum of four lakhs of Rupees, to be paid by quarterly instalments, through the Resident at the Durbar; and the Honourable Company also agree to assign, within their territories in Hindostan, a jaghire (to be holden on the same footing as that enjoyed by Balla Bai) amounting to a revenue of two lakhs of Rupees per annum, to Baiza Bai, the wife of Dowlut Rao Sindia, and a jaghire, amounting to the sum of one lakh of Rupees per annum, to Chumna Bai, the daughter of that Chief.

ARTICLE 8.

The Honourable Company engage to enter into no Treaty with the Rajahs of Oudeypore and Jodhpore and Kotah, or other chiefs, tributaries of Dowlut Rao Sindia, situated in Malwa, Meywar or Marwar, and in no shape whatever to interfere with the settlement which Sindia may make with those Chiefs.

ARTICLE 9.

The Honourable Company are now engaged in a war with Jeswunt Rao Holkar, and using every exertion for his reduction; but should they hereafter make a peace, or enter into any agreement with that Chief, they engage not to restore to him, or desire to be restored to him, any of the possessions of the family of Holkar in the province of Malwa, lying between the river Tapti and Chumbul, which may have been taken by Dowlut Rao Sindia, nor will the Honourable Company interfere in any manner whatever in the disposal of those provinces; and they will consider Dowlut Rao Sindia at full liberty to make such arrangement as he chooses with Jeswunt Rao Holkar, or with any other branch of the Holkar family, respecting the claims of that family to tribute from the Rajahs, or others, or to any possessions situated to the north of the river Tapti and to the south of the river Chumbul: but it is clearly to be understood, that as the Company's government agrees not to concern

ARTICLE 10.

As Serjee Rao Ghaultka has acted in a manner calculated to disturb the friendship between the two States, the Maharajah agrees never to admit that Chief to share in his councils, or to hold any public employment under his government.

ARTICLE 11.

This Treaty, consisting of eleven Articles, has been this day settled by Lieutenant-Colonel Malcolm, acting under the directions of the Right Honourable Lord Lake, on the part of the Honourable Company, and by Moonshee Kavel Nyn, on the part of Dowlut Rao Sindia. Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm has delivered one copy thereof, in Persian and English, signed and sealed by himself, to the said Moonshee Kavel Nyn, to be forwarded to the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, and has received from the said Moonshee Kavel Nyn a counterpart of the said Treaty signed and sealed by the said Moonshee. Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm engages that a copy of the said Treaty, ratified by the Honourable the Governor General, in every respect a counterpart of the Treaty now executed by himself, shall be delivered to Moonshee Kavel Nyn, to be forwarded to the Maharajah, within the period of one month from this date, and on the delivery of such copy to the Maharajah, the Treaty executed by Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, under the immediate direction of the Right Honourable Lord Lake, shall be returned; and Moonshee Kavel Nyn, in like manner, engages, that another copy of the said Treaty, ratified by the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, in every respect a counterpart of the Treaty now executed by himself, shall be delivered to Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, to be forwarded to the Honourable the Governor General, within the period of one month from this date; and on the delivery of such copy to the Honourable the Governor General, the Treaty executed by Moonshee Kavel Nyn, by

CENTRAL
INDIA.TREATY of concert and alliance with DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, dated the 5th November 1817.

No. LXVII.

Sindia.

TREATY of concert and alliance between the HONOURABLE THE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, settled on the part of the Honourable Company by CAPTAIN ROBERT CLOSE, by virtue of full powers to that effect vested in him by HIS EXCELLENCY THE MOST NOBLE FRANCIS, MARQUIS OF HASTINGS, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, one of His Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, Governor General, appointed by the Honourable Company to direct and control all their affairs in the East Indies, Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's and the Honourable Company's forces, &c. &c. &c., and on the part of His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia by RAM CHUNDRU BHASKUR, duly empowered by His Highness to that effect.

WHEREAS the British Government and Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor are mutually actuated by a desire to suppress the predatory power of the Pindarees, and to destroy and prevent the revival of the predatory system in every part of India; the following Articles have been agreed on for the purpose of giving effect to the mutual wishes of the two States.

ARTICLE 1.

The contracting parties engage to employ the forces of their respective governments and of their allies and dependants in prosecuting operations against the Pindarees and any other bodies of associated free-booters; to expel them from their haunts, and to adopt the most effectual measures to disperse and prevent them from re-assembling. With this view the forces of the two governments and their respective allies will immediately attack the Pindarees and their associates, according to a concerted plan of operations, and will not desist until the objects of this engagement are entirely accomplished. The Maharajah further agrees to employ his utmost efforts to seize the persons of the Pindaree leaders and their families, and deliver them up to the British Government.

ARTICLE 2.

The Pindaree hordes having established themselves in the territories of the Maharajah and other neighbouring States, it is hereby agreed that, on their expulsion, such of the lands occupied by them as heretofore belonged to the Maharajah, shall be immediately resumed by His Highness, who engages never to re-admit them to possession. Such of the lands now occupied by the Pindarees as belong to other States shall be restored to their rightful proprietors, provided they shall have exerted themselves to the extent required in expelling the Pindarees, and shall engage never to re-admit them, or in any way to connect themselves with those freebooters. Those lands shall otherwise be delivered over to Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, and be held by him on the same conditions.

INDIA.

ARTICLE 3.

Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia hereby engages never to re-admit the Pindarees or any other predatory bodies into his territories, or in any manner to give them the smallest countenance or support, or to permit his officers to do so; on the contrary, His Highness promises to issue the most positive orders to all his officers, civil and military, and to enforce them, by the severest penalties, to employ their utmost efforts to expel or destroy any bodies of plunderers who may attempt to take refuge in His Highness's territories. All officers disregarding His Highness's orders are to be considered and dealt with as rebels to the Maharajah and enemies of the British Government.

ARTICLE 4.

Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia is the undisputed master of his own troops and resources. With a view, however, to the more effectual accomplishment of the objects of this Treaty, His Highness agrees that the divisions of his troops (which taken together shall amount to 5,000 horse) employed in active operations against the Pindarees or other freebooters, shall act in concert with the British troops, and in conformity to the plan that may be counselled by the officer commanding the British divisions, with which His Highness's troops may be appointed to act in concert. With the same view it is agreed that a British officer shall be stationed with each division of the Maharajah's troops, to be the channel of communication between them and the British Commanding Officer; and to forward the other purposes of their conjunct operations, His Highness engages that all his officers, civil and military, shall afford every degree of support and assistance in their power, in procuring supplies or otherwise to the British troops operating in his territory; and any failure in this respect shall subject the offending party to be considered and treated as a rebel to His Highness and an enemy of the British Government.

CENTRAL
INDIA.

No. LXVII.
Sindia.

ARTICLE 5.

Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages that the divisions appointed to act in concert with the British troops shall be maintained in a state of complete equipment, both men and horses, and regularly paid. In order to provide effectually for the latter object in such a manner as shall prevent all future discussion or dispute, His Highness consents to renounce, for the next three years, the payments now made by the British Government to him, as well as to certain members of his family and ministers of his government, and that those sums shall be disbursed towards the payment of His Highness's troops, through the British officers stationed with them: and the British Government agrees, at the conclusion of the war, and after His Highness's troops shall have received what may be due to them, to pay any balance that may remain to His Highness. With the same view, the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia likewise consents to relinquish in the fullest manner to the British Government, for a period of two years, the tribute which he is entitled to receive from the States of Jodhpore, Boondee, and Kotah.

ARTICLE 6.

It is agreed, that the troops of Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, cavalry, infantry, and artillery, shall occupy, during the war, such positions as shall be designated by the British Government, and shall not change them without the express concurrence of that government, any unconcerted movements being calculated to derange the joint operations of the forces of the two States, and to give advantage to the enemy. It is also agreed, in order to ensure the due execution of the stipulation contained in this Article, that the British Government shall be at liberty to station an officer in each of the divisions of the Maharajah's army abovementioned.

CENTRAL
INDIA.

No. LXVII.

Sindia.

ARTICLE 7.

The force that will be put in motion by the British Government, and that actually in the service of Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, being fully sufficient to chastise the Pindarees and effect the objects of the present Treaty, His Highness agrees, in order to prevent the possibility of collusion between his officers and the Pindarees, not to augment his forces during the war, without the concurrence of the British Government. His Highness expressly engages to prohibit his officers from admitting into the ranks of his army, or otherwise harbouring or protecting, the Pindarees, or other freebooters; and all persons neglecting or disobeying these orders, are to be considered and treated as rebels to His Highness and enemies of the British Government.

ARTICLE 8.

With a view to the more effectual prosecution of the joint operations of the two governments, and to the facility and security of the communication of the British troops with their supplies, the Maharajah, reposing entire confidence in the friendship and good faith of the British Government, agrees that British garrisons shall be admitted into the forts of Hindia and Asseergurh, and shall be charged with the care and defence of those forts during the war, and shall have the liberty of establishing dépôts within them. The flag of Dowlut Rao Sindia shall, however, continue to fly in the fort of Asseergurh, and His Highness shall be at liberty to station a killadar, with a personal guard of fifty men, in the said fort; but it is clearly understood that the actual command of that place, as well as of Hindia, and the disposal of the warlike stores that may be found in those forts, shall be vested exclusively in the British Commanding Officers. Any part of those stores that may be damaged or expended, while the forts in question are occupied by the British troops, shall be accounted for, and the value made good to His Highness. For the more effectual performance of this stipulation, inventories shall be taken by officers, on the part of both governments, at the time of the occupation of the forts by the British Government. The present garrisons (with the exception above stated in regard to Asseergurh) shall move out of the forts. The Maharajah will thenceforward have no further concern with the Sebundeas of the garrisons, but His Highness's other troops, including the Paugah, &c., shall encamp at such places as may be prescribed by the British officers, in conformity to the provisions of the 6th Article. The territories depending on the forts above-mentioned will continue to be managed by the officers of the Maharajah, who will receive every support from the British Government and its officers. The whole, or such portion of the revenues as may be necessary, shall be appropriated to the payment of the Maharajah's troops acting in concert with the British divisions, as stipulated in the 5th Article; and a faithful account of the whole shall be rendered to His Highness after the conclusion of the war. The two forts above mentioned, and the territories dependent on them, will be restored to the Maharajah as soon as the operations against the Pindarees or their confederates shall be brought to a termination, in the same condition in which they may be delivered up to the British Government. All private property will be respected; and the inhabitants of the towns or villages depending on the forts, will enjoy the protection of the British Government, or be permitted to depart with their property, if they think proper.

ARTICLE 9.

The main object of the contracting parties being to prevent for ever the revival of the predatory system in any form, and both governments being satisfied that to accomplish this wise and just end it may be necessary for the British Government to form engagements of friendship and alliance with the several States of Hindostan, the 8th Article of the Treaty of the 22nd November 1805, by which the British Government is restrained from entering into Treaties with certain Chiefs therein specified, is hereby abrogated and annulled; and it is declared that the British Government shall be at full liberty to form engagements with the States of Oudeypore, Jodhpore, and Kotah, and with the State of Boondee, and other substantive States on the left bank of the Chumbul. Nothing in this Article shall, however, be construed to give the British Government a right to interfere with States or Chiefs in Malwa or Guzerat, clearly and indisputably dependent on, or tributary to, the Maharajah: and it is agreed that His Highness's authority over those States or Chiefs shall continue on the same footing as it has been heretofore. The British Government further agrees and promises, in the event of its forming any engagements with the abovementioned States of Oudeypore, Jodhpore, Kotah, and Boondée, or with any others on the left bank of the Chumbul, to secure to Dowlut Rao Sindia his ascertained tribute and to guarantee the same in perpetuity to be paid through the British Government; and Dowlut Rao Sindia engages, on his part, on no account or pretence whatever, to interfere in any shape in the affairs of those States without the concurrence of the British Government.

ARTICLE 10.

If (which God forbid!) the British Government and the Maharajah shall be compelled to wage war with any other State, on account of such State attacking either of the contracting parties, or aiding or protecting the Pindarees or other freebooters, the British Government, having at heart the welfare of Dowlut Rao Sindia, will, in the event of success, and of His Highness's zealous performance of his engagements, make the most liberal arrangements for the consolidation and increase of his territories.

ARTICLE 11.

Such parts of the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, and of the Treaty concluded on the 22nd of November 1805, as are not affected by the provisions of the present engagement, remain in full force, and are mutually binding on the contracting parties.

ARTICLE 12.

ENGAGEMENT between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and the MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO
SINDIA, dated the 6th February 1820.

No. LXI
Sindia.

WHEREAS the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia agrees to give up for three years the annual payments made by the British Government to himself and certain other persons of his Court, and also the tribute to which he was entitled from the Rajpoot States (for three years), for the purpose of maintaining a body of Auxiliary Horse; and whereas the whole of that amount has already been paid by the British Government to the Maharajah's troops, and a considerable balance remains due to the British Government; it has now been agreed between the Maharajah and the British Government that the body of Auxiliary Horse to be maintained by His Highness shall be reduced, so that the abovementioned funds, namely, the annual payments formerly made to the Maharajah and his family and ministers, together with the tribute due from the Rajpoot States, may be fully adequate to the payment of the force.

It is further agreed that, for the liquidation of the debt incurred by the Maharajah to the British Government for the payments already made to the Auxiliary Horse, as well as for the expenses of those Horse until the funds appropriated for their maintenance become available, the following districts shall be made over, from the commencement of the year 1877 Sumbut, to the British Government, viz.—

2. ditto Chopra.
3. ditto Pachora.
4. ditto Lohara, 12 villages.
5. Possessions in Gurra Kota and Maltoun, intermixed with those of the British Government, together with the fort of Gurra Kota.

And whereas all the above-mentioned districts are intermixed with the possessions of the British Government, it is further agreed that, after the liquidation of the debt due by the Maharajah, the British Government shall either restore those districts to His Highness, or continue to hold them, paying a fair rent for them, or grant to His Highness other

TRANSLATION of an AGREEMENT between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and the MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, regarding the Nimar Districts.

WHEREAS by an arrangement formerly effected by Major General Sir John Malcolm, it was agreed that the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia should pay annually the sum of Rupees four thousand and thirty-eight towards the support of certain Grassia Chiefs in Nimar, which contribution not having been paid for upwards of four years, a debt has consequently accumulated to near Rupees twenty thousand; and whereas the pergunnahs of Dhurgaon, Burwee, Sylanee, Poonassa and Kandwa, which adjoin certain provinces belonging to the British Government in Nimar, are now so desolate that the Maharajah does not receive the proper revenue of them, and in consequence of the disorders which prevail in them, great inconvenience is occasioned to the adjacent districts of the British Government in that quarter: Therefore, in order to remove those inconveniences and to provide for the payment of the debt before-mentioned, as well as to secure the punctual discharge for the future of the annual contribution above noticed of Rupees four thousand and thirty-eight, it is hereby agreed by the Maharajah that the aforesaid pergunnahs including their dependencies shall (with the exception of certain long established rights or charitable grants as Nankar Pudarick and Dhermdow) remain in the possession of the Honourable Company.

Sindia.

The British Government consents that, after deducting the amount of the debt mentioned in the preceding Article, and after deducting the annual contribution of Rupees four thousand and thirty-eight together with the expenses of management, the whole remaining revenue to be collected from the districts abovementioned shall be paid annually to the Maharajah for ever; and as the expenses of management cannot now be correctly ascertained, it is likewise agreed that whatever sum those expenses may amount to during the first year that the pergunnahs aforesaid remain in the possession of the British Government, the same amount shall be considered for ever afterwards the fixed and permanent annual charge on that account.

And whereas certain Grassia Chiefs in Malwa are by former agreement entitled to receive from the Maharajah's government certain Tanka dues in the payment of which difficulties have been sometimes made by the Maharajah's officers, it is hereby agreed by both governments that as long as those payments shall be faithfully and regularly discharged, the Grassia Chiefs shall continue to receive them from the Maharajah's kamavidars, but if at any time the Maharajah's officers hesitate to make the payments in question, it is understood that the British Government shall be at liberty to discharge them and to add the amount of those payments to the deductions already agreed to be made from the revenue of the districts abovementioned.

Done at Gwalior, this 10th day of November 1823, corresponding with the 6th of Rubeeal-awal, in the year 1239 of the Hegira, and with the 8th of Kartick (Shoodh), in the year 1880 Sumbut, or 1224 of the Arabic era.

In the year Soor Sun, Araba Asseereen, in the month of Mohurram and on the 25th day, corresponding with A. D. 1824, I request that in the district of Nimar, the undermentioned mahals may be received from

In the year Kumus Assecreen, Moeatecin wo Aluf, and the 22nd of the month of Juffer, A. D. 1825, the government of the Company having stated that certain mahals are not prosperous, but on the contrary very much depopulated, and requested that they might be transferred to its management to be restored to prosperity; for this reason the following mahals are transferred :

ARTICLE. 1.

Every part of the Treaty of Peace concluded by General Sir Arthur Wellesley, K. B., at Surjee Anjengaum, on the 30th December 1803, and of the Treaty of alliance and mutual defence, settled by Major John Malcolm at Boorhanpore, on the 27th February 1804, and of the definitive Treaty of amity and alliance, with the declaratory Article annexed, concluded by Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, at Moostafapoor, on the 22nd November 1805, and of the Treaty concluded between Captain Robert Close, on the part of the British Government, and Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, on the 5th November 1817, as well as every part of all other Treaties and Engagements between the two States, which may be now in force, except in so far as may be altered by this engagement, is to remain binding upon the two governments.

ARTICLE 2.

Whereas the late Maharajah Junkojee Rao Sindia engaged to defray all the charges of a force, to be commanded by British officers, and constantly stationed within His Highness's territories, for the protection thereof and the preservation of good order therein, and the cost of such force hitherto has been about Company's Rupees 5,00,000 per annum, and the revenues and receipts set apart and assigned for the maintaining of the said force, together with other revenues now received by the British Government on His Highness's account, amount to the sum of about Company's Rupees 5,46,000; and whereas it is expedient to increase the the amount of such force and to make permanent provision for defraying the charge thereof, it is therefore agreed between the British Government and His Highness the Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia, that in addition to all the revenues and other receipts already set apart for the purpose of maintaining the said force, or received by the British Government on His Highness's account, the revenues of the districts enumerated and territory described in the Schedule A. to this Treaty shall be appropriated to the maintenance of such force.

ARTICLE 3.

It is further agreed that if the revenues of the districts so enumerated and described in such Schedule A., together with the revenues and payments mentioned in the foregoing Article as set apart for the payment of the said force, or heretofore received on His Highness's account, shall, after defraying thereout all the charges of civil administration, exceed the sum of Company's Rupees eighteen lakhs, the surplus shall be paid over to His Highness Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia; and if the said revenues and receipts shall fall short of Company's Rupees eighteen lakhs per annum, the deficiency shall be made good by His Highness.

ARTICLE 4.

And it is further agreed, for the better securing of the due payment of the revenues of such districts enumerated and described in Schedule A., and for the better preserving of good order within the same, that the civil administration thereof shall be conducted by the British Government, in the same manner in which the civil administration of the other districts belonging to the Maharajah, of which the revenues are similarly assigned, is conducted by the British Government for His Highness.

ARTICLE 5.

And whereas there is now due to the British Government the sum of ten lakhs of Rupees, more or less, as may hereafter appear on examinaand a further sum of one lakh, on account of advances made to His Highness Baiza Bai, and on other accounts, and the charges of the present armament of the British Government may be estimated at ten lakhs, (after deducting therefrom the expense of furnishing to His Highness six thousand men, with artillery and stores, free of cost to His Highness, under the provisions of the Treaty of Boorhanpoor,) and a further expenditure of five lakhs will be incurred by the British Government in affording compensation for losses sustained during, and in consequence of the late hostilities, and in other charges connected herewith; it is further agreed, that His Highness shall pay to the British Government the sum of twenty-six lakhs of Rupees within fourteen days from the date of this Treaty, and in default thereof, that the revenues of the several districts enumerated in Schedule B., attached to this Treaty, shall, together with the civil administration of such districts, be made over to the British Government until such time as the said sum of twenty-six lakhs of Company's Rupees shall have been paid, together with interest, at the rate of five per cent. per annum upon the same.

ARTICLE 6.

And whereas the British Government is bound by Treaty to protect the person of His Highness the Maharajah, his heirs and successors, and to protect his dominions from foreign invasion, and to quell serious disturbances therein, and the army now maintained by His Highness is of unnecessary amount, embarrassing to His Highness's government and the cause of disquietude to neighbouring States, it is therefore further agreed that the military force of all arms hereafter to be maintained by His Highness, exclusive of the contingent above provided for, shall at no time exceed nine thousand men, of whom not more than three thousand shall be infantry, with twelve field guns and two hundred gunners, with twenty other guns; and His Highness the Maharajah engages to take immediate measures for the reduction of his army within the number above specified, and the British Government engages on its part to assist His Highness therein, should such aid appear to be required.

ARTICLE 7.

It is further agreed that His Highness will discharge all pay due to the troops disbanded, and also give a gratuity of three months' pay to such of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates of the corps disbanded, as may not be re-enlisted in the contingent or in any new corps formed by His Highness.

ARTICLE 8.

And inasmuch as it is expedient to provide for the due administration of the government during the minority of His Highness the Maharajah, which minority shall be considered to terminate when His Highness shall have attained the full age of 18 years, and not sooner, that is on the 5th Magh Vud Sumbut 1909, or 19th day of January A. D. 1853, it is further agreed that during such minority the persons entrusted with the administration of the government shall act upon the advice of the British Resident in all matters whereon such advice shall be offered, and no change shall be made in the persons entrusted with the administration without the consent of the British Resident acting under the express authority of the Governor General.

ARTICLE 9.

And it is agreed that the following persons shall, in the first instance, constitute the Council of Regency, and that the first named person shall be President of the same. Rao Ram Rao Phalkia Bahadoor, Shumsher Jung; Deo Rao Jadow Mama Saheb; Dubeer-ood-dowlah Moonshee Raja Bulwunt Rao Bahadoor; Oodajee Rao Ghatgia; Moolla Jee; and Narayun Rao Bhao Yumajee Potnuvees.

ARTICLE 10.

And inasmuch as it is fitting that Her Highness Tara Bai should have a suitable provision now made for the maintenance of her court, it is further agreed that the sum of Rupees three lakhs shall be annually set apart for that purpose, and be at Her Highness's sole disposal.

ARTICLE 11.

And it is further agreed that the British Government shall, as heretofore, exert its influence and good offices for maintaining the just territorial rights of the Maharajah and the subjects of the State of Sindia at present existing in the neighbouring and other Native States.

TREATY between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT on the one part, and MAHARAJAH ALI JAH JYAJEE RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, on the other part; settled on the part of the British Government by COLONEL SIR RICHMOND CAMPBELL SHAKESPEAR, K.T. and C. B., Agent to the Governor General in Central India, by virtue of full powers to that effect vested in him by HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONORABLE CHARLES JOHN EARL CANNING, G. C. B., Viceroy and Governor General of India, and one of Her Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, and on the part of His Highness Jyajee Rao Sindia by JUGDEO RAO MOHURKUR, Commander-in-Chief, and BALAJEE CHIMNAJEE, Durbar Dewan, nominated by His Highness to conduct this negotiation.

Whereas a Treaty was concluded on 13th day of January, A. D. 1844, corresponding with 22nd Zilhedge 1259 Hegira, between the Honourable East India Company and Maharajah Ali Jah Jyajee Rao Sindia; and

Whereas, in execution of the declared intention of the British Government to give to the Maharajah, in acknowledgment of services rendered by His Highness in 1857 and 1858, territory yielding a gross yearly revenue of three lakhs of Company's Rupees, it has become expedient to restore a portion of the districts assigned to the British Government by the above-mentioned Treaty; and

Whereas it will be to the advantage of both contracting parties that other portions of the said Assigned Districts be restored to the Maharajah in exchange for the possessions of His Highness, situated in the Bombay Presidency, and to the south of the river Nerbudda, and elsewhere; and

Whereas it has been found inconvenient that the sovereignty of the Assigned Districts should remain with the Maharajah, while their civil administration and management remain with the British Government; and

Whereas it has been declared on the part of the British Government that if the revenues and receipts of the Assigned Districts should fall short of 18 lakhs of Company's Rupees per annum, the deficiency shall not be claimed from the Maharajah, and by the above declaration the provisions of Article 3 have been abrogated; and

Whereas, with reference to the sixth Article, it has been declared that the military force in the Maharajah's service may, with certain limits, be increased; and

ARTICLE 3.

The Maharajah transfers to the British Government in full sovereignty the whole of His Highness's possessions in the Punj Mahals, and to the south of the river Nerbudda, also pergunnah Kunjeea on the Betwa river, on the following conditions :

2nd.—That, in lieu of all tributes and perquisites now derived by the Maharajah from the lands to be transferred by His Highness, the British Government shall for the future pay to the Maharajah from the British Treasury at Gwalior an equivalent in Company's Rupees, calculated at the average rate of batta which has prevailed during the last six months.

3rd.—That each government shall respect the conditions of existing leases until their expiry, and that, in order that this may be made clear to all concerned, each government shall give to its new subjects leases for the same terms of years, and on the same conditions as those which they at present enjoy.

TRANSLATION of a Khureetah from the MAHARAJAH SINDIA to the GOVERNOR GENERAL'S AGENT FOR CENTRAL INDIA, dated 9th August 1861.

AFTER COMPLIMENTS,—States that Article 4 of the Treaty of 12th December 1860 secured to His Highness the continued possession, as heretofore, of seven villages and two muzrahs in Jamgaon in the Deccan, but His Highness, consequent on the increased friendship between the two governments, and for their mutual benefit, has now consented to the transfer to the British Government, in exchange, of these his hereditary villages, as above; and has received equivalents for them on the Pahooj: he therefore requests him (the Governor General's Agent) to apply to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India in Council, to cancel that part of Article 4 of the said Treaty which refers to the villages in question.

TRANSLATION of a Khureetah from the AGENT, GOVERNOR GENERAL, FOR CENTRAL INDIA, to HIS HIGHNESS THE MAHARAJAH SINDIA, dated 14th October 1861.

AFTER COMPLIMENTS,—I have submitted to His Excellency the Viceroy your Highness's khureetah to me of date 9th August 1861, and I am directed to inform you that your request has been acceded to, that that part of Article 4 of the Treaty of 12th December 1860, which specially reserved to your Highness the seven hereditary villages and two muzrahs in Jamgaon in the Deccan, may be cancelled, your Highness having received equivalents for them on the Pahooj.

2. The Governor General has decided that the best mode of complying with your Highness's request will be to append to the copy of the Treaty, which is in Calcutta, and to the copy which is with your Highness, copies of your Highness's khurectah to me, and this my reply with the English translation of each of them in the margin. I therefore forward the above-mentioned papers which I beg your Highness will direct to be appended to the Treaty of 12th December 1860.

ENGAGEMENT executed by MAHARAJAH ALI JAH JYAJEE RAO SINDIA under Article 7 of the Treaty of 12th December 1860, transferring to the British Government the full sovereignty of the districts assigned for the maintenance of the Gwalior contingent in 1844, remaining with the said Government on the completion of the territorial exchange arrangements provided for by the above named Treaty.

WHEREAS under Articles 2 and 3 of the Treaty, dated 13th January 1844, between Maharajah Ali Jah Jyajee Rao Sindia and the British Government, certain districts and receipts enumerated and described in Schedule A appended to the said Treaty, and of which a copy is appended to this deed, were assigned for the maintenance of the Gwalior contingent :

And whereas certain of these districts, or portions thereof, as detailed in Schedule B appended hereto, have recently been restored to Maharajah Sindia under the operation of Articles 2 and 5 of the Treaty dated 12th December 1860, subsequently entered into between His Highness and the British Government, and the said Maharajah has engaged by Article 7 of the latter Treaty on the completion of the arrangements provided for therein, to transfer to the British Government the full sovereignty of all the Assigned Districts which shall then remain in its possession :

And whereas the arrangements so provided for have now been completed, and the Assigned Districts and receipts described in Schedule C, appended hereto, remain in the possession of the British Government :

HOLKAR.

From Malcolm's Central India and Reports by successive Residents.

THE Holkar family are Soodras of the Dhoongur or shepherd tribe. The first who rose to eminence was Mulhar Rao, who was born about the end of the 17th century and was one of the most distinguished leaders in the first Mahratta invasion of Northern India. He died at the age of seventy-six and was succeeded by his grandson Mallee Rao, who died insane nine months after his accession. The pious Alia Bai, the mother of Mallee Rao, then took the management of affairs and appointed as the commander of her army Tookajee Holkar, a Chief of the same tribe but no way related to Mulhar Rao. This Chief for many years served Alia Bai with the most devoted fidelity. Alia Bai died in 1795 and was not long survived by Tookajee Rao, after whose death the power of the House of Holkar was nearly extinguished by quarrels in the family and amid the dissensions which distracted the Mahratta confederacy at the close of last century. The fortunes of the family however were restored by Jeswunt Rao, an illegitimate son of Tookajee Holkar, who in 1802 defeated the united forces of Sindia and the Peishwa near Poona. The conclusion of the Treaty of Bassein between the Peishwa and the British Government defeated Jeswunt Rao's hopes of possessing himself of the person of the Peishwa. In the following year when Sindia and the Rajah of Berar combined against the British, Holkar promised to join the confederacy. But on the actual outbreak of hostilities he kept aloof and apparently intended to take advantage of the war to aggrandize himself at Sindia's expense. His schemes, however, were rendered hopeless by the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, and Holkar, after making a series of inadmissible proposals for an alliance, seems then to have hastily determined unaided and alone to provoke hostilities with the British. In the war which followed Holkar was completely overthrown. He was pursued by Lord Lake across the Sutlej, whither he retired in the hopes of forming a combination with the Sikhs against the British Government, and on 24th December 1805 he signed a Treaty (No. LXXIV.) on the banks of the Beas, by which he was stripped of a large portion of his territories. On the accession of Lord Cornwallis a change had taken place in the policy of the British Government, and it was considered expedient to withdraw from the connection formed with some of the minor Rajahs in the conquered provinces to the west of the Jumna. Sir George Barlow was guided by the same policy notwithstanding the remonstrances of Lord Lake, who considered the British Government pledged to respect its engagements with these Chiefs, and that the alliance with them interposed a strong barrier against the future encroachments of the Mahrattas. In pursuance of this policy, Sir George Barlow caused a declaratory Article to be added to the Treaty relinquishing to Holkar the districts of Tonk, Rampoor, and other districts forming the ancient possessions of the Holkar family, which at one time it had been the intention of Government to cede to Sindia in lieu of the annual pension of four lakhs of Rupees granted to that Chief. By Article 4 of the Treaty the district of Koonch in Bundelcund was assigned as a life grant to Beema Bai Sahiba, daughter of Jeswunt Rao Holkar. This lady died in November 1858, and the district of Koonch reverted to the British Government; but a provision of Rupees 20,000 a year has been assigned for life to her grandson Govind Rao for the support of the old retainers of the family.

Soon after the conclusion of the Treaty, Jeswunt Rao Holkar became insane. He died in 1811, leaving a son Mulhar Rao, during whose minority the State was torn by the most violent dissensions. Toolsee Bai, the favorite concubine of the late ruler, secured herself in the regency. In entering on the Pindaree war it was the policy of the Marquis of Hastings to put a stop to the predatory system by a revival of the political alliances which had been abandoned in 1805. The weakness of Holkar, which formed an excuse for connivance at Pindaree depredations, required the intervention of the British to restore his government and to subdue his mutinous army. Proposals for an alliance were on the point of being offered when Toolsee Bai secretly expressed a desire to place the young Holkar and his government under the protection of the British power. While negotiations were pending, however, information was received of the probable outbreak of hostilities with the Peishwa, and a hostile bearing was immediately assumed by Holkar's court. It is probable that Toolsee Bai would have concluded the alliance with the British, but a sudden revolution was effected by the mutinous army, the Regent was seized and barbarously murdered, and the Pathan Chiefs who headed the military faction, having pledged themselves to adopt the cause of Bajee Rao, broke off the negotiations. Holkar's army sustained a complete defeat at Mehidpore, and on 6th January 1818 the Treaty of Mundisore (No. LXXV.) was concluded, by which the supremacy over the Rajpoot Princes of Oudeypore, Jeypore, &c., was transferred to the British Government, the engagement between the British Government and Ameer Khan was confirmed, four districts rented by Zalim Sing of Kotah were ceded to him, Holkar lost all his possessions within and to the south of the Sautpoora Hills, and his remaining territories came under the protection of the British Government. By Article 6 of the Treaty, Holkar transferred the fort of Sindwa to the British Government. But it was restored in 1856 in consideration of a payment of Rupees 16,000 for the construction of a bridge over the Gohee Nuddee, and on condition that no alteration would be made in the existing customs duties on the Agra and Bombay road, and that the residents of Sindwa were not made sufferers by the transfer of the fort to Holkar.

Holkar.

The anarchy and confusion which prevailed in Holkar's territories previous to the conclusion of the Treaty of Mundisore had completely ruined the finances of the country. Tantea Jogh, Holkar's minister, set himself zealously to their recovery. Occasional loans were made to him by the British Government on the security of the Koonch jaghire and the Pertabgurbh tribute, by which means the minister was enabled to discharge the arrears of the disbanded troops and other pressing demands. Of the troops retained, a portion was set apart for the formation of the Mehidpore contingent, others were sent into the districts, and only a select body of about 500 cavalry was retained at the capital, together with a suitable proportion of infantry.

Two insurrections broke out in the year 1819, which added greatly to the difficulties of the minister's situation, and served to retard the settlement of the country. One was occasioned by an impostor personating Mulhar Rao Holkar, and the other by the pretensions of Hurree

Rao Holkar, cousin of the Maharajah. The impostor, whose real name was Krishna Kooer, assembled a considerable force to the west of the Chumbul, and kept the field for some months, supported by a body of Arab and Mekrannee mercenaries from the Guzerat border; but he was at length encountered by the Mehidpore contingent, and his party broken and dispersed. He then fled to Kotah, and being recognized by an Agent of Holkar's government at that place, he was seized and brought to Indore, where he was kept in confinement for some time, but ultimately pardoned and set at liberty on account of his youth and his being a mere instrument in the hand of others. The insurrection of Hurree Rao Holkar was less formidable; for, soon becoming sensible of the folly of his enterprise, he relinquished it and threw himself on the generosity of his young cousin, who, it is said, was disposed to pardon him, but was dissuaded from his purpose by Tantea Jogh, who deemed it imprudent that he should be left at liberty to disturb the peace of the country.

Serious disturbances broke out on the Rampoorra frontier in 1821, fomented by the Thakoor of Bhatkery and others, which were not finally quelled until the beginning of the following year and after the employment of the contingent under the guidance of a British officer. The results of the operations were, that the Bhatkery Chief's misconduct was punished by the sequestration of that portion of his jaghire which he held of Holkar's government; that Bhyroor Sing, another of the leading insurgents, delivered himself up under the promise of subsistence; and that Ajeet Sing, the Chief of the band of Soandee plunderers, was sent with some of his companions to Soandwarah for a year's close confinement. Again, towards the end of 1822, it became necessary to employ a detachment of British troops for the reduction of the fort of Burkerah, in which a body of insurgents were assembled, and were committing various excesses in the neighbouring districts.

In 1826 an agreement (No. LXXVI.) was made with Holkar and other States* in Malwa securing to the British Government the exclusive right to purchase opium grown in Malwa. Serious evil* however resulted from these arrangements, and in 1829 the monopoly was abandoned and a transit duty was levied upon the opium in its passage through the British territories to the sea coast. The extent of poppy cultivation has greatly increased since the abandonment of the monopoly. The revenue at first realized from the transit duty was about sixteen lakhs; and in the year 1860-61, it was Rupees 2,44,21,800.

* Similar Treaties were made with Dhar, Dewas, Rutlam, Jowra, Kotah, Sillana, Pertabgurb, Amjhera and Seetamhow. But as the purchase system was entirely abandoned, it has been considered unnecessary to do more here than enter the Treaty with Holkar in illustration of the arrangements which were made.

* "It is remarkable enough," says Colonel Sutherland, "that in discussing and negotiating these measures, the Government of that day avoided the agency of the most distinguished of their servants who held the principal political authority, Sir David Ochterlony and Sir Charles Metcalfe, whose opinions were known to be adverse to the system, and went to work either through the medium of the Opium Agent, who had been established in Malwa and Rajpootana, or directly with the local agents at the several courts. Government must have known that their measures were both offensive and injurious to the Chiefs and people of those regions, but they did not know the extent to which they were so. They did not know that they had raised up a cloud of spies and opium-seizers, whose hand was in every man's house and in every man's cart; that they were teaching the Governments of those countries to lend us their aid to forward views most opposed to the interests of their own subjects, whether agricultural or commercial, or the extent to which the odium of the whole system fell upon themselves.

"It has often been a source of just complaint, that the Indian Governments do not receive from their officers that free and manly description of the evils which peculiar measures are calculated to produce, when it is known or suspected that such exposition would not be palatable; and in no case has this been more apparent than in the negotiation of our opium Treaties in Malwa and Rajpootana, and in the adoption of measures necessary to support their stipulations, all of which were alike subversive to the power of the princes of those regions, and destructive to the best interests of their subjects. Government was not entirely ignorant of the injustice and evil tendency of those measures, but neither was it fully aware of the extent of the evil which they inflicted.

"It was, however, soon discovered that the system did not work well for us; that opium found its way to the foreign settlements of Damaun and Din, for exportation to the China market, in such quantities as injuriously to affect our monopoly prices there, and it was sought to negotiate new Treaties with the several States, which should strike at the root of this evil by limiting production, for prices in Malwa and Rajpootana had continued so high as to serve as a premium. The Raj Rana of Kotah was the first who had courage to speak out, and Sir Charles Metcalfe being at the time on a tour through Rajpootana, he was not only listened to, but the voice of complaint was sure to reach Government in a shape that could not be resisted. Revenue to the extent of upwards of a million sterling was, however, considered to be involved in the discussion, and as that is a sum which no government can readily afford to part with, this struggle against nature continued for some time longer. At last opium-carriers armed to oppose opium-seizers, and a sort of civil war had in some places arisen, which was likely to become more extended. It was therefore found necessary to relinquish the system and to endeavour to bolster up our internal agriculture and trade, by levying a protecting duty on the commerce of those States."—Sketches, pp. 86 and 87.

In the month of June 1829, the Begoo Thakoor, a feudatory of Oudeypore, took possession of Holkar's district of Nundwah. The invader was expelled by a body of Holkar's troops, but the Thakoor about a year after the first aggression again seized the same district, and was again driven off by Holkar's troops and the contingent. The Oudeypore State was held responsible for the act of the Thakoor, and a demand of Rupees 24,000 in payment of the expenses incurred by Holkar in repelling the first aggression was made upon the Rana. This compensation was not paid until eight years had elapsed after the occurrence of the aggression. For the loss and expenses incurred by the second aggression of the Thakoor no compensation was ever obtained. In this and several other similar cases, it was a matter of complaint, on the part of native States, that while the British Government prohibited them from taking their own measures to redress injuries inflicted on them by their neighbours, it displayed no vigour or promptitude in obtaining redress for them.

Mulhar Rao Holkar died in October 1833 at the age of 28. He left no issue, but his widow and his mother adopted a child who was said to be of the same tribe and lineage as Mulhar Rao. The British Government made no objection to this adoption, but at the same time did not bind itself to support the arrangement if it should appear to be illegal or subversive of the rights of any other party, or contrary to the wishes of the majority of the Chiefs and followers of the Holkar State. It was acknowledged simply as the spontaneous and unopposed act of the Holkar government, in which the people seemingly acquiesced. The child, between three and four years of age, was publicly installed on 17th January 1834 under the title of Martund Rao Holkar. The adoption of Martund Rao however proved to be a device of the mother of Mulhar Rao Holkar for the purpose of keeping the power in her own hands during a long minority. It was not acceptable to the people, who were in favour of the succession of Hurree Rao Holkar, a cousin of the late Maharajah. Hurree Rao had been thrown into prison by his cousin in 1819 for rebellion, and been ever since kept in rigorous confinement. He was released on the night of 2nd February 1834 by a powerful body of his partisans, and received a ready welcome from the troops and people. The policy of non-interference prevented the Resident from giving active support to Martund Rao, although the installation of Martund Rao had been formally acknowledged by the British Government. This indifference on the part of the British Government as to who should rule gave rise to most serious disturbances. The wealthy merchants fled from Indore, trade was suspended, and the plundering Bheel tribes infested the roads and destroyed many villages. As Hurree Rao evidently had the popular voice on his side, and it was absolutely necessary to put a stop to the anarchy which prevailed, Hurree Rao was after much indecision and delay escorted into Indore by a detachment of the contingent under command of a British officer and was formally installed on 17th April. Martund Rao was banished from the country and granted an allowance of Rupees 500 a month on condition of his resigning all claims to the succession.

The long imprisonment of Hurree Rao had unfitted him for government. The management of affairs was left in the hands of his minister Revajee Phansia, whose oppressive and unpopular measures revived the hopes of Martund Rao's party. On 8th September 1835 an attack was made on the palace for the purpose of assassinating the Maharajah and his minister. The attempt was unsuccessful, and resulted in the slaughter of the whole of the assailants. Martund Rao Holkar died without issue at Poona on 2nd June 1849, and with his death ended the intrigues which from time to time endangered the peace of the country both during the rule of Hurree Rao Holkar and his successor.

When the attack was made on his person in 1835, Hurree Rao applied to the British Government for aid, but it was refused on the ground that the engagement to maintain the internal tranquillity of the country depended on the condition that the measures of its government were not directly or indirectly the cause of disturbance, and because the grant of assistance would require a continual interference in the internal affairs of the State inconsistent with the position of Holkar and the policy of the British Government.

In 1841 the Maharajah adopted as his heir and successor Khundee Rao, a boy of 13 years of age, son of an obscure zemindar, and very distantly related to the reigning family. Hurree Rao died on 24th October 1843 at the age of 48. Warned by the evils which resulted from the vacillating policy pursued on the accession of Martund Rao, the British Government took immediate measures to proclaim Khundee Rao as the acknowledged successor and to make it known that no other claims would be recognized. Khundee Rao died on 17th February in the following year. He was never married. There was no lineal heir to the State and no person who had a legitimate right to adopt. The nomination of a successor was therefore declared to rest exclusively with the British Government, and the Resident Sir R. Hamilton was instructed to make the selection in such a way as to show that it was manifestly the sole act of the British Government. The mother of Hurree Rao Holkar, who was greatly respected by the people and had been associated with the Resident in the administration before Khundee Rao's death, pleaded the claims of Martund Rao, but Government refused to select him and proposed to nominate the younger son of Bhao Holkar if he should be found on enquiry to be the most eligible. The Resident thereupon declared in full Durbar the desire of the British Government to perpetuate the State of Holkar by the selection of a successor from amongst those eligible to such distinction, that the Mah Sahiba had pointed out the younger son of Bhao Holkar as a fit successor, and that the Governor General, having a great respect for the Mah Sahiba, had determined to bestow the Chieftainship on him. Three days thereafter, without waiting for instructions, the Resident installed the boy with all the formality of a hereditary Chieftain. For this serious departure from his instructions the Resident was severely censured and informed that by his proceedings an opportunity had been lost to Government of marking an important line of policy. In a letter to the young Chief the Governor General laid down the conditions on which the State was conferred on him. This letter (No. LXXVII.) was declared to have the force of a Sunnud and the Maharajah was required to present a nuzzer of 101 Gold Mohurs on its delivery.

The young Chief Tookajee Rao Holkar attained his majority in 1852, and was entrusted with the entire management of the affairs of the State. Since that time there has been little or no change in the political relations between the British Government and Holkar. The Maharajah has been granted a Sunnud (No. LXXVIII.) guaranteeing to him the right of adoption. He has also been made a Knight of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India. He receives a salute of nineteen guns.

The population of Holkar's territories is roughly estimated at 5,76,000 souls, and the area at 8,318 square miles. The revenue of the State from all sources is about thirty lakhs of Rupees, and the expenditure about twenty-two lakhs. Holkar maintains a military establishment of 2,050 regular and 4,300 irregular infantry, 2,100 regular and 1,200 irregular cavalry, and 500 artillerymen with 24 field guns equipped.

Previous to the mutinies of 1857, Holkar contributed Rupees 1,11,214 annually to the United Malwa Contingent and Rupees 7,862 to the Malwa Bheel Corps. The United Malwa Contingent proved faithless during the mutinies and was pronounced extinct in February 1858. No new corps has been organized in its place, its duties being performed by troops of the line. The Malwa Bheel Corps did not mutiny; it has been re-organized as a military police corps. The British Government contributes Halee Rupees 10,000, equivalent to Rupees 9,828, to the Malwa Bheel Corps.

An annual payment of Rupees 30,000 is made to Holkar by the British Government as compensation for his share of the district of Patun which was made over to Boondée* in 1818. The Maharajah also receives through the British Government a tribute of Salim Sahi Rupees 72,700 on account of Pertabgurh,† but he has no feudal supremacy over that State. He receives credit for this tribute as part of his contribution towards the Malwa contingent, and it is realized from Pertabgurh one year in arrears.

ARTICLE 1.

The British Government engages to take annually from Maharajah Holkar's government 5,000 Surat maunds of pure opium in cakes, each maund consisting of four punseerees and each punseeree weighing 401 Oujein Halee Rupees, or 391 new or 407 old Furruckabad Kuldar Rupees; and to pay for the same at the rate of 30 Furruckabad Kuldar or Oujein Halee Rupees. If a higher price than this should be given for purchases from others, the Maharajah's government shall be entitled to a similar price. The said quantity of opium to be delivered and weighed in all November at the Honourable Company's godowns at Indore or Mahidpore as may be desired by the Company's Opium Agent. Whatever quantities the Opium Agent or his deputies may object to as adulterated, damp, or otherwise faulty, shall not be taken, but pure and prime opium such as the Agent is in the practice of purchasing from the merchants of Malwa shall be taken.

ARTICLE 2.

The British Government will pay the Maharajah's government for the opium as above stipulated in three equal instalments—the first on the 1st January, the second on the 1st of March, and the third as soon as the opium has been delivered and weighed.

ARTICLE 3.

The Maharajah's government engages to confine the cultivation of poppy in his territories within an extent calculated to yield a quantity not exceeding in any year 6,000 Surat maunds of dry opium. weather, and the Maharajah's government finds itself in consequence unable to complete the stipulated quantity of 5,000 maunds from the produce of its own territories, and the same should be made clearly manifest to the Company's Opium Agent, in such case, and provided the Opium Agent should be able to make purchases in the Malwa markets at Rupees 30 per punseeree, the Maharajah's government will complete the stipulated quantity by purchases in the markets. But if the Opium Agent should be unable to purchase in the markets at that price, then the Maharajah's government will not be required to make up the deficiency, notwithstanding which the British Government will gratuitously, in consideration of the intimate union subsisting between the two governments, make up to the Maharajah's government the difference to the full price of 5,000 maunds at Rupees 30 the punseeree as stated in the 1st Article.

ARTICLE 5.

The Maharajah's government engages to prevent to the best of its power the exportation of opium from his territories not having the sanction of the British authorities, and to confine the sale of opium for internal consumption in his territories to venders under its license. Any quantities passing in or out that may be stopped of their own motion by the officers and agents of the Maharajah's government shall be delivered over to the Company's Opium Agent, and the Maharajah's government shall receive two-thirds of the value of the same rated at Rupees 30 per punseeree, or less in proportion to its quality if of inferior quality. The British authorities moreover shall be at liberty to cause to be stopped and to appropriate any opium herein prohibited which they may discover passing to and fro in the Maharajah's territories, and for all such the Maharajah's government shall receive one-third of the value rated according to the quality as above stated.

ARTICLE 6.

The British Government being anxious that the Maharajah's government should sustain no loss from this arrangement whether in transit collections or otherwise, but on the contrary being desirous of obliging and benefiting it, agrees to give it at the end of the year in addition to the price of the opium as settled in the first Article a bonus of Rupees five per punseeree on the quantity therein stated, provided it shall have observed faithfully the conditions of this engagement.

TO HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJAH TOOKAJEE.

AFTER COMPLIMENTS,—Your Highness's letter dated 5th July last has been duly received. In that letter allusion is made to the death of His late Highness Khundee Rao, which had been reported to me by the Resident at Indore, and it is stated that the ceremonies customary on the occasion had been duly performed. Your Highness further remarks that at the conclusion of the period of mourning you had been, by the great kindness of the British Government, installed as successor to the vacant guddee; and your Highness proceeds to state that it will be your aim and object so to conduct the duties of the office to which you have been called as to promote the welfare and happiness of the people of the Holkar State.

The intelligence of the early death of the late Maharajah was a cause of much grief to me. By that event the guddee of the Holkar State became vacant, there being no one of the Holkar family remaining entitled to succeed to the principality or to adopt an heir to the guddee.

It became therefore necessary for the Governor General to make an arrangement for the administration of the government of the Holkar principality.

Having an earnest desire to promote the interests of the Chiefs and people of the State, and to preserve the honour and prosperity of the principality, the British Government determined on this occasion to make such an arrangement as would conduce to the accomplishment of these ends and would at the same time, it was believed, be agreeable to the feelings of the remaining members of the family of the late Hurree Rao Holkar and of the Chiefs and nobles of the principality.

Actuated by these motives, I was induced to direct the British Resident at Indore to nominate your Highness to the occupation of the vacant guddee.

I have every confidence that your Highness will to the utmost of your endeavour administer to the duties of the government in which you have been thus installed, in a manner befitting your high station, and with a becoming impression of the importance of the interests which will on your coming of age be entrusted to your care.

It is the intention of the British Government in thus bestowing on your Highness the principality of the Holkar State, that the Chiefship should descend to the heirs male of your Highness's body lawfully begotten, in due succession, from generation to generation.

Until the period of your Highness coming of age the affairs of the government will be administered in your behalf, as at present, by a competent Regency acting under the general superintendence, and in all matters of importance the instructions, of the British Resident, who will make arrangements for the education of your Highness during your minority in a manner suitable to your Highness's future high destinies.

All existing engagements with other Chiefs and States made by the Chiefs of Holkar and in force at the time of the death of the late Maharajah will continue binding on your Highness and on your Highness's government.

From Malcolm's Central India and Reports by successive Political Agents.

THE Bhopal family was founded by Dost Mahomed, an Affghan in the service of Aurungzeb. He was nominated superintendent of the district of Bairsea and he took advantage of the revolutions which followed the death of the Emperor to establish, by means not over-scrupulous, his independent authority in Bhopal and the neighbouring country. He died about 1723 at the age of 66. On his death, Sultan Mahomed Khan, his legitimate son then a minor, was put in power by the Pathan Chiefs; but the cause of Yar Mahomed Khan, an elder but illegitimate son, was espoused by the Nizam and Sultan Mahomed was compelled to abdicate in favour of Yar Mahomed. Yar Mahomed Khan had four sons by the eldest of whom, Fyze Mahomed Khan aged eleven, he was succeeded. The claims of his uncle Sultan Mahomed Khan were again brought forward by a powerful party, but in the contest which ensued Sultan Mahomed Khan was defeated and was obliged to accept the grant of Rhatgurb for himself and his descendants and to renounce all claims to the sovereignty of Bhopal and all interference with the affairs of the State.

At this time the Peishwa Bajee Rao, while returning from Delhi, demanded in the name of the Emperor the restoration of the territories usurped by the Pathans of Bhopal, and the Nawab was compelled by Treaty to relinquish all his possessions in Malwa except a few towns, being confirmed by the Peishwa in his remaining possessions in Gondwarra.

Fyze Mahomed Khan, of weak intellect, nominally ruled Bhopal for thirty-eight years. He left no issue and was succeeded by his brother Yassein Mahomed, who survived only a few days and was succeeded by his brother Hyat Mahomed Khan, during whose weak rule the real power remained in the hands of his ministers.

Towards the close of last century the Bhopal territories were overrun by plundering bands of Pindarees and invaded by Raghojee Bhonsla. At this time Vizier Mahomed, son of the Nawab's cousin Shereef Mahomed Khan, who when a mere youth had fled from Bhopal after an unsuccessful rebellion against the power of the minister, in which his father had been killed, returned to Bhopal as a soldier of fortune. He was the means of saving his country from destruction by the Mahrattas, and he became the founder of the present reigning family of Bhopal. For many years he carried on a petty warfare with the Mahrattas, in the course of which he reconquered most of the territories which had been lost to Bhopal. But his power and abilities excited the envy and jealousy of Ghous Mahomed, the son and successor of Hyat Mahomed Khan, who to strengthen himself against Vizier Mahomed invited the armies of Sindia and Nagpore to occupy the country and agreed to pay to Sindia an annual tribute. From this time Ghous Mahomed sank into obscurity, and though he long survived and enjoyed the titular dignity of Nawab, he had no influence in the government of the country nor were his claims ever agitated in the discussions which subsequently arose regarding the succession to the Bhopal State.

Vizier Mahomed's first efforts, made about the year 1809, to obtain the assistance and mediation of the British Government in his struggles with the Mahrattas were unsuccessful. He was compelled for self-preservation to league himself with the Pindaree leaders. In 1812 a combination was made between Sindia and Raghojee Bhonsla to crush him, and Bhopal was besieged by their united armies towards the close of 1813. Vizier Mahomed made a most gallant defence during a siege of nine months and the Mahrattas were compelled to retire unsuccessful. Sindia was making active efforts to renew the siege in the following year, but he was restrained by the interference of the British Government, who began to see cause for less reliance on the friendship of Raghojee Bhonsla and to value more the importance of Bhopal as a means of checking the depredations of the Pindarees. The connection of Vizier Mahomed with the British Government, however, never ripened into any formal engagement during his life-time.

Vizier Mahomed died in 1816 and was succeeded by his second son Nuzzur Mahomed, with the consent of all parties and among others of the elder son Ameer Mahomed Khan, who was disqualified by vicious excesses. Nuzzur Mahomed was married to the Qoodsia Begum, daughter of Ghous Mahomed.

One of the first measures taken by the British Government at the commencement of the Pindaree war in 1817 was the formation of a close alliance with Bhopal. The Pindaree leaders had long found a secure retreat in the Bhopal State, and it was chiefly by their help that the Nawabs of Bhopal had been able to resist the attacks of Sindia and the Rajah of Nagpore. But the connection with these freebooters was distasteful and tolerated only from the Nawab's inability to control them. Nuzzur Mahomed therefore gladly accepted the British alliance. An agreement was made with him on conditions proposed by himself, with the addition of an engagement to give the British Government the service of his troops. No formal Treaty was executed, but the correspondence (No. LXXIX.) which passed was declared to have the force and validity of a Treaty. The conditions of this engagement were faithfully fulfilled and they were made the basis of the formal Treaty (No. LXXX.) of perpetual friendship and alliance concluded with the Nawab in 1818 by which his State was guaranteed, he agreed to furnish a contingent of 600 horse and 400 infantry and he received five districts in Malwa as a reward for his services and to enable him to maintain the contingent. The grant of these districts was subject to an assignment of Rupees 6,000 a year on their revenues to Khundee Rao the former manager, which provision was guaranteed by the British Government. The town and fort of Islamnuggur which had passed from the possession of the Nawab were also restored to him.

Shortly after the conclusion of the Treaty, Nuzzur Mahomed was accidentally killed by the discharge of a pistol by the hand of his brother-in-law Foujdar Khan, a child eight years of age. Nuzzur Mahomed was a gallant soldier, an enlightened ruler, and a firm ally of the British Government. He left one daughter, the Secunder Begum. It was arranged, with the consent of the Bhopal nobles and the sanction of the British Government, that he should be succeeded, under the Regency of the Qoodsia Begum, by his nephew Moneer Mahomed Khan, son of Ameer Mahomed Khan who had resigned his claims, and that Moneer Mahomed Khan should marry the Secunder Begum. In 1827 Moneer Mahomed Khan endeavoured to assert his authority, but was resisted by the Regent and he eventually resigned his claim to the Secunder Begum's hand and to the succession in favour of his younger brother Jehangir Mahomed Khan, receiving a jaghire of Rupees 40,000 a year which was guaranteed by the British Government. This arrangement was effected in concert with the Chiefs of the State, who claim by custom a limited privilege in the selection of their ruler.

The Qoodsia Begum, anxious to retain the power in her own hands, long delayed on various pretexts the celebration of the marriage of her daughter with Jehangir Mahomed Khan. But finding her endeavours to secure the countenance of the British Government to her retention of the administration during her life fruitless, the Begum at last yielded and the marriage was celebrated on 18th April 1835. This however did not put an end to the family dissensions, the Begum still hoping to evade the eventual resignation of power and the Secunder Begum entertaining ambitious views of her own. In 1836 a plot of the Nawab Jehangir Mahomed Khan to seize the person of the Begum was discovered. He was arrested and put under restraint but effected his escape on 2nd April 1837, and being joined by a large party of his followers, raised the standard of rebellion. Although Government admitted the Nawab's claim to be just and to have been recognised by Government and the Begum on the supercession of his elder brother, yet formal interference was declined. The Nawab was defeated and compelled to seek shelter behind the walls of Ashta. After the siege of this town had lasted for some months without any decisive result, the Begum and the Nawab accepted the proposed mediation of the British Government. An agreement (No. LXXXI.) which was countersigned by the Governor General was concluded between them by which the Nawab was left in charge of the administration and the Begum received a life jaghire of Rupees 60,000 a year with which the Nawab pledged himself not to interfere. The Nawab and the Secunder Begum also executed an agreement not to design or commit injury to each other; but while approving of this agreement, Government considered it to be of too private a nature to admit of its formal ratification.

The Nawab was installed in power on 29th November 1837. The reconciliation with the Secunder Begum however was not sincere, and ENTRAL INDIA. Bhopal. shortly after the Nawab's accession she retired to live with the Qoodsia Begum at Islamnuggur. The Nawab died on 9th December 1844, having previously executed a will to the effect that his illegitimate son Dustageer should succeed him in power, and that his daughter Shah Jehan by the Secunder Begum should be married to a descendant of Vizier Mahomed Khan of pure blood. The will in favour of Dustageer was set aside and several plots to place him in power failed. The British Government recognized the succession of Shah Jehan in the same manner as, on the death of Nuzzur Mahomed Khan, it had admitted the claims of Secunder Begum, and it was decided that the future husband of Shah Jehan, who was to be selected from the Bhopal family with a view to the amalgamation of the two branches descended from Ghous Mahomed Khan and Vizier Mahomed Khan, should be Chief of Bhopal, and that in the meantime Foujdar Mahomed Khan, brother of Qoodsia Begum, should act as Regent receiving co-operation from the Secunder Begum. The arrangement did not work well, and eventually Foujdar Mahomed Khan resigned his office and Secunder Begum was appointed Regent in February 1847.

The Secunder Begum conducted the administration with great vigour and ability. She abolished the system of farming the revenue and made settlements directly with the heads of villages, regulated the assessments of the estates of the jaghiredars, abolished monopolies of trades, brought the mint under her direct management, re-organized the police, and made arrangements for the liquidation of the debts of the State.

In July 1855 Shah Jehan Begum was married to Bukshee Bakee Mahomed Khan of Bhopal. He did not belong to the Bhopal family. Indeed there existed no member of the family with whom the Shah Jehan Begum could contract an eligible marriage, and as the nobles of Bhopal, although willing to submit to the Begum, were not prepared to acknowledge as ruler of Bhopal any one who did not belong to the ruling family, some modification of the arrangements made in 1844 became necessary. It was eventually decided that Shah Jehan Begum should be the Chief of the principality, her husband being only titular Nawab, and that Secunder Begum should continue to act as Regent till Shah Jehan Begum should reach the age of twenty-one. Secunder Begum, however, was dissatisfied with her position. She complained of the recognition of her late husband as Chief of Bhopal, she being sovereign in her own right, and of the consequent recognition of her own daughter during her life-time. Government however having recognized the claims of Shah Jehan Begum could not set them aside; but the Shah Jehan Begum voluntarily resigned her right to rule during her mother's life-time, and in 1859 Her Highness the Secunder Begum was accordingly proclaimed ruler and the Shah Jehan Begum her heir, the succession remaining with her children.

In 1840 the Bhopal contingent was reformed, and the Nawab agreed to increase the tribute paid for its maintenance from Rupees 1,30,000 to Rupees 1,38,000. The contingent was again re-organized in 1849 and a Treaty (No. LXXXII.) was concluded with the Secunder Begum by which the annual contribution for the perpetual maintenance of the contingent was raised to Rupees 2,00,000 on condition that the whole liabilities of the State for the contingent were henceforth to be limited to that sum. The contingent mutinied in the rebellion of 1857, and since its dissolution its duties have been taken partly by troops of the line and partly by the Bhopal levy, which was raised in 1859. To this arrangement, which is practically a modification of the Treaty of 1849, the Begum has formally assented (No. LXXXIII.). The levy is a military police corps but is liable to be called on to serve in any part of India.

Besides the contribution for the levy, the Bhopal State pays annually Rupees 5,000 for the support of the Sehore school established by Major Henley in 1818, and Rupees 12,000 for the construction and repair of roads within the Bhopal State.

The Secunder Begum has always been steadfastly attached to the British Government. For her services during the mutinies of 1857 she received a grant (No. LXXXIV.) of the pergunnah of Bairsea which was confiscated on account of the rebellion of the Dhar State; the recognition (No. LXXXV.) of the right of succession according to Mahomedan law and the customs of her State; and the dignity of a Knight of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India. The Begum has most liberally rewarded with jaghires those of her own subjects who rendered good service in the crisis of 1857.

In 1863 the Secunder Begum resolved to proceed on a pilgrimage to Mecca, and she requested that no new orders of the British Government should be carried out in Bhopal till her return. The Begum was told that, as it is impossible to foresee events, so it was impracticable for the British Government to comply with such a request; but she was assured that, unless imperatively necessary in the interests of the Bhopal State and its absent ruler, and in the interest of public peace and good order, no such orders would be issued nor any interference allowed with the arrangements she had made for the administration of Bhopal, and that, in the event of the issue of such orders being absolutely necessary, an intimation of their exact nature would be forwarded to her. The Begum was also assured that, in her absence, the protection of the British Government would be extended to the Shah Jehan Begum.

The area of Bhopal is 6,764 square miles, the revenue about Rupees 13,76,252, and the population 663,656. The Begum is entitled to a salute of nineteen guns. The army of Bhopal is estimated at 723 horse, 3,428 foot, and 73 guns with 223 artillerymen.

AGREEMENT with NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN in 1817.

TRANSLATION of a letter from MR. JENKINS to NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN, the Nawab of Bhopal, dated 13th October 1817.

The written proposals of your vakeel Enayet Musseeh dated 22nd January 1817, or 4th of Rubbee-ul-Awul 1232 A. H., specifying the conditions on which you were desirous of placing your State under the protection of the British Government, have, as you know, been for some time under the consideration of His Excellency the Governor General. Though hitherto unanswered they have not been overlooked, and I am now instructed to communicate to you His Excellency's assent to them.

The following is an exact transcript of the proposals in question :—

PROPOSALS of HUKHEEM ENAYET MUSSEEH, confidential Agent of NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN the Nawab of Bhopal, agreeable to the wishes of his principal; dated 22nd January 1817, corresponding with the 4th of Rubbee-ul-Awul of the Hegira.

ARTICLE 1.

“The fort of Nuzzurghur, commonly called Seermow or Goolgaon, which is situated near Bhilsa, shall be delivered over to the British Government as a permanent cantonment and depôt for grain, &c.

ARTICLE 2.

“We will use our utmost endeavours to assist in the collection of supplies of cattle, grain, and all other necessary articles for the use of the British troops, at the market prices.

ARTICLE 3.

“Agreeable to the orders of the British Government, we will also abstain from all intercourse and correspondence with the Pindarees and all the plundering Affghans of Hindostan.

ARTICLE 4.

“After we are taken under the protection of the Company we shall have no occasion to enter into engagements and correspondence with the other Chiefs and Rajahs of Hindostan; but in trifling affairs, relating to the administration of the government, it will be continually necessary to correspond with the neighbouring Zemindars and Chiefs, in which cases, as a previous reference to the British authorities and the obtaining permission might occasion delay, after having concluded any petty transaction of this kind, we will communicate the same to the nearest British authority.

ARTICLE 5.

“After being taken under the protection of the Company we will submit to the British Government all our claims and pretensions on other Rajahs and Chiefs in order that the Company may effect a favourable settlement of the same; or even should we suffer a little loss in this way, we will out of respect to the English Government quietly submit to it.

ARTICLE 6.

“With regard to money stipulations for the payment of the British troops, the case is this, that for the last two years the revenues realized by us from our country have not exceeded one lakh and twenty-five thousand Rupees; on which we have with difficulty subsisted. How therefore can we contribute any sum towards the payment of British troops? Let the Company excuse us on this point. But the fort of Nuzzurghur with some villages dependent on it, some of which are flourishing and the others deserted, shall be delivered into the hands of the Company; and when by the assistance of the British Government we shall attain our wishes, we shall never be found deficient in rendering every service in this respect in our power."

The only additional stipulations which the Governor General requires from you are that you will zéalously co-operate with your troops against the Pindarees and their abettors, according to the advice of the officers of the British Government; that you will admit the British troops at all times into your territory; and that all articles of supply for them shall be purchased and pass through your territories free of duties. In the present condition of your territory and resources the British Government does not require you to contribute anything to the payment of its expenses, but it must be understood that after any eventual increase of your dominions accompanied by the improvement which the restoration of tranquillity may be expected to effect in your resources, you will be ready to contribute in a fair proportion according to your ability.

On these conditions the British Government engages to protect and guarantee your dominions against all enemies, and to recover and restore to your possession such parts of your territories as have been seized and occupied by the Pindarees. You may besides expect such other marks of its favour and kindness as circumstances may put in its power to confer upon you and your own good conduct may merit.

I am authorized by the Governor General to inform you that it is only necessary for you to signify to me, in your reply to this letter, your assent to the above conditions, to render you at once the ally and to entitle you to the immediate and permanent protection of the British power. But your reply must be distinct and unequivocal.

The British Government has now unalterably determined to suppress the predatory power of the Pindarees, and to destroy and prevent the revival of the predatory system in every part of India. The British armies are advancing from every quarter into Malwa for this purpose. Every State must therefore declare itself either friend or foe. Those even who do not co-operate zealously in this cause will be viewed and treated as enemies. Your professed and approved attachment to the British Government has entailed on you the peculiar enmity of the Pindarees and rendered you deserving of every assistance and support, whilst the local position of your territories, in the vicinity of the Pindaree positions, the bravery of your troops, and the energy of your personal character are calculated upon as enabling you to become a most useful auxiliary in the approaching crisis. Your conduct on this occasion will have the most powerful influence on your future fate, and the Governor General has no doubt that you will stand the test.

I send this letter through Colonel Adams and I have to request you will transmit your reply to it through the same channel. On receiving your reply, which must be early and I cannot doubt will be direct and satisfactory, the Colonel will inform you of his wishes regarding the employment of your troops, and concert with you the necessary measures for the protection of your country, the occupation of the fort assigned for a depôt, and the supply, &c., of the British troops which will advance across the Nerbudda into your territories. I shall be obliged by your furnishing Colonel Adams with every information on these topics, and you will of course consider his suggestions on all points as those of the British Government.

TO NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN of Bhopal, written the 23rd December 1817.

Sir John Malcolm duly communicated to me the correspondence which had passed between him and you and the substance of his personal conferences with your agent the respectable Enayet Shahzad Musseeh, and I have been informed by Lieutenant-Colonel Adams of the junction of a body of your troops, both horse and foot, with his division and of the satisfaction he has derived from their conduct. These circumstances have amply confirmed the opinion I have always entertained of your friendship and attachment to the British Government, and I request you to be assured that a corresponding feeling towards you has always existed in my mind.

In consequence of your letter to Sir John Malcolm stating that you had written to Mr. Jenkins to declare your assent to the terms proposed to you by that gentleman under my authority, I awaited a communication from Mr. Jenkins of that letter and the execution and exchange of a regular engagement comprizing those conditions, according to the wish you had expressed, before I signified my formal sanction of them. The late disturbances at Nagpore, which the signal triumph of our arms will soon suppress, having prevented the completion of those arrangements, I deem it proper no longer to delay a direct communication of my unqualified confirmation of the assurances you have received from Brigadier General Sir John Malcolm and Mr. Jenkins. Your knowledge of the reliance that may always be placed on the assurance of a British officer has however supplied the place of that formal sanction, and the just confidence in my friendship which led you at once to proceed in execution of the terms settled with Sir John Malcolm and Mr. Jenkins has afforded me a high degree of satisfaction. You have already begun to experience the benefits of your alliance with the British Government by the recovery of some of the districts from which the Pindarees were expelled, and you may rely on my unremitting attention to your interests and to the augmentation of your prosperity and resources, as far as circumstances may enable me to indulge this disposition, in the firm confidence that your conduct will be such as to merit every degree of favour.

With regard to the future payment of a portion of the charge of the British troops that may be employed in the protection of your territories, a point on which you have expressed some anxiety, I have only to assure you that whatever may be ultimately arranged in that respect will be framed in a spirit of the utmost liberality and with a due advertence to the pecuniary situation and means of your government. On this subject be at ease.

A regular Treaty shall be hereafter prepared and duly exchanged and ratified; but in the meanwhile I request you to consider this as having the full force of such an instrument.

TRANSLATION of a Khureetah from HER HIGHNESS the NAWAB SECUNDER BEGUM of Bhopal, dated 29th May 1862, to address Agent, Governor General, for Central India.

AFTER COMPLIMENTS,—Your letter, No. 339, dated 1st May, acquainting me with the arrangements which have superseded those formerly in force in respect to the contingent, has duly reached me, informed me of what I was previously ignorant, and removed the doubts from my mind which I had wished cleared away. Your letter states that the Supplementary Article of the Treaty of 1818, dated 29th November 1849, fixed at two lakhs of Rupees the annual contribution of the Bhopal State for the perpetual maintenance of a contingent of all arms commanded by British officers, for the security of the Bhopal government; on this account a force of British European troops was stationed at Sehore, which by reason of damage to discipline was subsequently removed to Saugor and Mhow in order that a force, efficient and powerful, be always available to afford support to the Bhopal government in lieu of the former contingent; that the Bhopal levy and Central India horse will be available for the ordinary duties of the former contingent. Although by this disposition there is an apparent difference from the terms of the said agreement with regard to the late contingent, yet in reality it is a practical fulfilment of the terms of the Supplementary Article; for greater security and support is afforded to the Bhopal government by the presence of European troops at Saugor and Mhow than was provided for by the former arrangement.

CENTRAL

Under these circumstances it is most desirable that there should be no ground for misconception, and that the views of the Bhopal government should coincide with those of the British Government. My friend, when these words of sound advice were well understood by me, viz., that the British Government in lieu of former arrangements had by the existing disposition of troops taken upon itself more efficient measures for the security and protection of the Bhopal State, they imparted perfect satisfaction to me; in truth the new disposition is in accordance to my views and has removed all grounds for anxiety or misconception.

From Malcolm's Report on Malwa and Reports by Agent to the Governor General, Central India.

THE Puar family was one of the most distinguished in the early Mahratta history. Anund Rao Puar is usually considered as the founder of the principality of Dhar, which with some adjoining districts and the tribute of some Rajpoot Chiefs was assigned to him by the first Bajee Rao Peishwa. Anund Rao died in 1749 and was succeeded by his son Jeswunt Rao Puar, who was slain in the defeat of the Mahrattas at Paniput. To him succeeded his infant son Kundee Rao Puar, who was followed by his son Anund Rao Puar. He died in 1807 and was succeeded by his posthumous son Ramchunder Rao Puar, on whose mother Meena Bai the administration devolved. Ramchunder died early, but Meena Bai, with the consent of the neighbouring Chiefs, adopted her sister's son under the name of Ramchund Puar.

For twenty years before the British conquest of Malwa, the Dhar State was subjected to a continued series of spoliations chiefly at the hands of Sindia and Holkar, and was preserved from destruction only by the talents and courage of Meena Bai. By the Treaty concluded on 10th January 1819 (No. LXXXVI.) Dhar was taken under protection of and was bound to act in subordinate co-operation with the British Government, several districts which it had lost were recovered and restored to it, its tributary rights over the Rajpoot States of Banswarra and Doongurpore were ceded to the British Government, and the British Government were to hold the Bairsea pergunnah for five years in payment of a loan of Rupees 2,50,000 to the Dhar State.

In 1821 by an additional engagement (No. LXXXVII.) Dhar ceded the pergunnah of Bairsea and the tribute of Allee Mohun to the British for an annual payment of Rupees 1,10,000. In 1831 the pergunnah was given back to Dhar, as the collections from it were less than the sum paid for it by about half a lakh of Rupees, but as the Dhar authorities could not manage the district owing to its isolated position and separation from the rest of their territories, it was again taken under British management in 1835 on the understanding that the surplus revenues after meeting all expenditure should be paid to Dhar. The payments continued to be made till 1860 when they were stopped as a punishment for the rebellion of the Dhar State, and the pergunnah of Bairsea was made over to Bhopal as a reward for the services of the Secunder Begum.

In 1828 the pergunnah of Lemunpore Mekrar in Nimar was made over in perpetuity to the management of the British Government (No. LXXXVIII.) on condition that the surplus revenue after payment of all expenses of administration should be annually paid to the Dhar State. It was however restored to Dhar in 1830.

Ramchunder Puar was succeeded by his adopted son Jeswunt Rao Puar who died in 1857 and was succeeded by his half brother Anund Rao Puar, then 13 years of age. The Dhar State rebelled in 1857 and was in consequence confiscated. It was subsequently restored to Anund Rao Puar with exception of the Bairsea pergunnah, but was retained under British management till the Chief should attain the age of 18 years, or until he should become competent to manage his own affairs. The Chief has received a Sunnud (No. LXXXIX.) granting to him the right of adoption.

The Rajah of Dhar has recently engaged (No. XC.) to cede to the British Government such land as may be required for the construction of a railway through his State.

The area of the Dhar State is estimated at 2,091 square miles and the population at about 1,25,000 souls. The revenue is Rupees 4,37,000. One company of the Bhopal Levy is maintained at the expense of the State to garrison the fort. Dhar pays an annual contribution of Rupees 19,656-0-4 for the maintenance of the Malwa Bheel Corps. The Chief receives a salute of fifteen guns.

DEWAS.

THE two brothers Tookajee and Jevajee came with the first B Rao Peishwa into Malwa, and in the division of that province obtained possession of Dewas, Sarungpore, and several other districts yielding a nominal revenue of Rupees 2,42,900, but subject to a yearly payment of Rupees 26,000 to several Grassia Chiefs. To this was added an assignment of the tribute of certain districts to the amount of Rupees 78,922, and at a later date the province of Humeerpore in Malwa yielding Rupees 75,000 and the district of Kandobah in the Deccan. For thirty years before the British occupation of Malwa, the Chiefs of Dewas had been plundered and oppressed by Sindia, Holkar, and Pindaree Chiefs, and were deprived of most of the tributary payments of Humeerpore, Kandobah, and other districts; but in 1818 the two Chiefs then in possession, Tookajee the grandson of the first possessor of the name, and Anund Rao, his cousin, the adopted son of the grandfather of Jevajee, were by Treaty (No. XCI.) taken under British protection.

In 1828 the Chiefs of Dewas made over to the administrative charge of the British Government (No. XCII.) the pergunnah of Bagode an outlying district in Nimar which they could not efficiently control. The annual surplus revenue of the pergunnah, after payment of the charges of administration, is paid to the Chiefs of Dewas.

Tookajee Puar was succeeded in 1824 by his adopted son Rookmar Rao, commonly known as Khaseh Saheb. He died in 1860, and Kishnajee Rao, whom he had adopted, was recognized as his successor.

Anund Rao Puar, the younger Chief of Dewas, adopted Hybut Rao in 1837 by whom he was succeeded. Hybut Rao adopted a son in 1851 on the understanding that if a legitimate son of his body should be born, the son by adoption should relinquish all claims to the State. A legitimate son was born in December 1860, and his future right to succession was declared. Hybut Rao Puar, chief of the junior branch of the family, died on 12th May 1864, and was succeeded by his son Narain Rao Puar Dada Saheb. The State is managed during minority by the Kamdar Govind Roa Ramchunder, subject to the general control and supervision of the Agent to the Governor General.

CENTRAL
INDIA.

Both Chiefs of Dewas did good service during the mutinies. By the Treaty of 1818 the Dewas State was required to provide a contingent of 50 horse and 50 foot to be doubled when the revenues improved. In 1827 the contingent was raised to 75 horse and 200 foot which, with Holkar's contingent of 400 horse, formed the Eastern Malwa contingent. On the amalgamation of the Eastern and Western Malwa contingents, the obligation to supply a quota of troops was commuted to an annual contribution of Halee Rupees 35,600. The revenue of the State is Rupees 4,25,000; the area 256 square miles; and the population 25,000 souls. The Chiefs have each received a Sunnud (No. LXXXIX.) guaranteeing to them the right of adoption. The Chiefs are equal in rank and have an equal share in all receipts. Each receives a salute of fifteen guns.

JOWRAH.

GHUFFOOR KHAN, the first Nawab of Jowrah, was brother-in-law of the predatory leader Ameer Khan whom he represented at the court of Holkar when Ameer Khan quitted Malwa on his expeditions into Rajpootana. The lands which had been assigned to him by Holkar were guaranteed to him by the 12th Article of the Treaty of Mundisore on condition of his maintaining a body of 600 horse, the quota to be increased in proportion to the increasing revenue of his districts. Ameer Khan himself claimed these lands, alleging that the grants had been made to him although Ghuffoor Khan's name was used, and that he was entitled to them by virtue of his engagements with the British Government. Inquiry, however, showed that Ghuffoor Khan held them on his own account as a member of Holkar's government, and that his real dependence on Ameer Khan, which was the origin of his influence with Holkar, had ceased before the war of 1817. Ameer Khan's claim was therefore rejected.

Ghuffoor Khan was succeeded in 1825 by his son, Ghous Mahomed Khan, the present Nawab, who was then only two years of age. The arrangements for the management of the State were made by the British Government, but as Jowrah was nominally a fief of the Holkar State, although really independent of it, the investiture of the infant Nawab was made in the name of Mulhar Rao Holkar to whom a nuzzerana of two lakhs of Rupees was presented, and confirmed by the British Government. The elder widow of Ghuffoor Khan was appointed guardian; her son-in-law Jehangir Khan was appointed her agent; and they were required to keep open accounts of the State revenues for the inspection of the Resident at Indore. Two years afterwards, in consequence of gross mismanagement and neglect of the Resident's advice, the Begum was removed from the guardianship. It was also decided that, in the event of Ghous Mahomed's death, the male relatives of Ghuffoor Khan should succeed in preference to his descendants in the female line.

In 1823 the quota of troops to be maintained was permanently fixed (No. XCIII.) at 500 horse, 500 foot, and four guns. In 1842 the above arrangement was commuted to a yearly contribution of Hallee Rupees 1,85,810 when the Western Malwa contingent, consisting of the troops furnished by Jowrah, was amalgamated with the Eastern Malwa contingent furnished by Holkar and Dewas. The contribution was reduced to Hallee Rupees 1,61,810 in 1859 as a reward for the Nawab's services during the mutinies.

The area of Jowrah is 872 square miles; the population 85,456 souls; the revenue Rupees 6,55,240. Jowrah contains the best poppy-growing lands in Malwa and yields yearly about one thousand chests of opium. The Nawab keeps up a military force of 175 horse and 600 foot. The Nawab has received a Sunnud (No. LXXXV.) guaranteeing the succession to his State according to Mahomedan law, in the event of the failure of natural heirs. He receives a salute of 13 guns. In 1821 agreements (No. XCIV.) were mediated between the Rangrah Thakoors of Mulhargurh, the Zemindar of Taul, and the Nawab. These Thakoors claimed the position of tributary jaghiredars and the peace of the country was disturbed by the measures which they took to assert that position by force. It was however decided that they were mere farmers of revenue. The engagements which were mediated with them have long since expired.

Nawab Ghuffoor Khan having for his own satisfaction requested a writing under my seal and signature in proof of the arrangement now made in regard to the number of troops to be maintained by him in readiness for the service of the State; it is accordingly hereby certified, that it is not the intention of the British Government to require the

In the engagement originally executed between the British Government and Nawab Ghuffoor Khan, it was stipulated that in proportion to the increase of the cultivation and revenue of his jaidad, a proportional addition should be made to the strength of the contingent; but in consequence of the conclusion of the arrangement recently entered into, the above conditions have been substituted and will henceforth continue in force.

TRANSLATION of an Agreement (Kabooleut) between THAKOOR OONKAR SING of Sunowda and Nawab GHUFFOOR KHAN for the rent of the village of Sunowda and other villages altogether nine in number, dated 1st September 1821, corresponding with the 5th Bhadwah Sood Sumbut 1878.

By this writing I agree to pay for the nine villages the sum of Salim Sahi Rupees 13,853 for three years from the year 1878 Sumbut to the year 1880 both inclusive; this sum to include rent and every extra charge with the exception of the fines imposed on criminals, the transit duties, and the zemindaree dues. I have of my own free will concluded this Agreement with the Nawab's government (Jehangir Khan being the Nawab's agent in the business) by which I bind myself to pay into the catcherry of Mulhargurh the abovementioned sum by regular instalments each year. After the expiration of the abovementioned period of three years, I will for myself and descendants enter into a leasehold agreement to increase the rent of any village that may be found capable of affording such increase according to the established custom of the pergunnah of Mulhargurh. If I under any pretence fail to pay my rent I will submit to be considered an offender against the State. After the expiration of the aforesaid period of three years, in case any of the nine villages should be found depopulated, I will agree in the new settlement that may be made to a deduction from the sum total of the rent that may be fixed upon, proportionate to the sum paid by such village during aforesaid period of three years, and that the village so depopulated (become khalsa) revert to the Nawab. I will on no pretence whatever attempt to evade the fulfilment of the last mentioned Article, and I agree that all advantages and losses be laid to my account. For this reason I have written this paper of my own free will.

PART III.

MEDIATIZED CHIEFS IN CENTRAL INDIA AND MALWA.

At the close of the Pindaree war the districts in Malwa and Central India were in so disorganized a state as to be unsafe even for troops to pass through. It had been the policy of the chief Mahratta powers during the preceding years of anarchy to reduce to subjection the petty Rajpoot Chiefs within their influence. The Mahratta leaders parcelled out the districts among themselves either by mutual agreement or caprice, or according to their power to enforce obedience to their will and authority. Thus it came to pass that at the time of the introduction of the British power the smaller States were found under tributary obligations to Sindia, Holkar, or the Puars, and sometimes to all three. The tributary claims of the Mahratta States were occasionally fixed and well defined, but generally varied both in amount and in the regularity of their enforcement with the power to exact them. Many of the smaller Chiefs had been driven from their possessions; these found refuge in the mountain fastnesses and jungles, and avenged themselves by levying contributions from or altogether destroying the detached villages which had been usurped by the stronger powers. Their example was imitated by men who, without any claims to territorial inheritance, had influence to gather round them a sufficient number of professed robbers or plunderers to make themselves feared. Unable to suppress such outrages, the larger States found themselves compelled MEDIATIZED CHIEFS. to purchase the good-will of the plundering leaders by allowing the a share of the revenues of their districts as blackmail or tunkha condition of their abstaining from aggressions.

Such a system could only exist in the absence of a power sufficient strong to enforce peace and good order. For the pacification of t country all parties eagerly solicited the interference of the Briti Government, who the more readily undertook the task because of t opportunity which it afforded them of breaking the continuity of t influence of the Mahratta powers, with whom they had recently be engaged in a contest for empire, by establishing through Malwa succession of Rajpoot Chiefs and others owing the security of their esta and the comparative independence of their position to the interventi of the British Government. The policy pursued by the British Goverment was to declare the permanency of the rights existing at t time of the British occupancy on condition of the maintenance of order, adjust and guarantee the relations of such Chiefs as owed mere fea or tribute so as to deprive the stronger powers of all pretext for interfence in their affairs, and to induce the plundering leaders to bet themselves to peaceful pursuits, either by requiring their feudal superi to grant them lands under the British guarantee, or by guaranteei to them payments equivalent to the tunkhas which they levied. T result of these measures, as described by Sir John Malcolm, was virtual surrender of the supremacy over the petty States* and Chi

13	Bishen Sing, Mundlovee with Bikajee, Kamaisdar of Durgong.	Bishen Sing claimed certain dues from the pergunnah which the Kamaisdar refused, as being unjust. On reference, Sir J. Malcolm decided that the former should have 5 per cent. damnee land, agreeable to the existing Sunnud; Rupees 4 bheit from each village; Rupee 1 bheit for each renewed puttah; two villages in enam, and quarter of the collections on sayer, &c., 29th November 1819.
17	Gopal Sing with Lutchmun Sing.	Gopal Sing held of Lutchmun Sing 455 beegahs of land in enam for service and another village, paying for it a tunkha of Rupees 500. The latter wished to resume the village and the beegahs of land as there was no service required to be performed: settled that Gopal Sing pay Rupees 500 for the village and Rupees 200 for the land, also a batta of 12½ per cent. on the above amount.
20	Soodhan Sing of Bheelwarra with Bhowany Doss.	This was a dispute between Soodhan Sing and Bhowany Doss, because the latter appropriated to himself the donations to the god Devy; settled that Soodhan Sing pay Bhowany Doss a certain sum, and the latter not to interfere with the collections made from devotees, 4th December 1819.
23	Mohun Sing with the Holkar State.	Mohun Sing's father held 300 beegahs of land for village service from the Government, but on his death the land was resumed; settled that Mohun Sing receive a grant of 100 beegahs in enam, June 1820.
25	Oonkar Lal Zemindar with Manick Ramjunnee.	Oonkar Lal to pay Rupees 500 annually to Manick Ramjunnee, whose nose had been cut off at the instigation of Oonkar's mother, and who also was plundered of all her property, September 1820.
35	Rao Devy Sing Goand ...	A jaghire of Dhairce, and a bheit of Rupees 5, and Rupees 2 per cent. on the revenue from each village in Lemunpore Mekrar. (Note.—A settlement of this kind was made DIRECT between the Dhar Durbar and Devy Sing, but NOT under the guarantee or through the mediation of the British Government. No trace of such guarantee is to be found among the Durbar records.)
36	Goolab Rao Goand ...	Ramgurh in jaghire; a bheit of Rupees 5 from each village; a damnee of 1 per cent. on the revenue. (Note.—This man was charged with cattle-lifting in 1834. Probably his rights were confiscated.)
44	Gopal Sing with Bheem Sing. (Note.—Gopal Sing is the same as No. 17 above) ...	Gopal Sing holds in perpetual jaghire of Sukhetkeira from Bheem Sing for services rendered, paying an annual tribute of Rupees 500. Gopal Sing was to continue to render military service when required for this jaghire, but it is stipulated that in lieu of this he shall pay to Bheem Sing an additional tribute of Rupees 300, in all Rupees 800 annual tribute to be paid to Bheem Sing.

DIATIZED ruinous interference in the affairs of the smaller States on the part of CHIEFS. their more powerful neighbours.

From the guarantee thus given no deviation was permitted. "Where any circumstances," says Sir John Malcolm,* "call for the interference of the British Government and an engagement or guarantee is given, no departure from that is permitted. It is indeed by the maintenance of the impression that the signature and seal of a British officer is, to whomsoever granted, the completest of all securities for his rights, privileges, or possessions, that our power over the multiplicity of States and Chiefships depends; and it is, above all others, a point upon which we can never with safety admit the slightest evasion, much less deviation." In later times, however, when long years of peace have obliterated the memory of the embarrassments which the Grassia leaders were able to create, their guaranteed rights have occasionally been lost sight of. With the sense of danger the larger States have forgotten that their claims over the less powerful Chiefs were only established by a power stronger than their own; and it has been their policy, particularly of Sindia and Holkar, to encroach on the guaranteed rights of their feudatories which they justly consider to be marks of dependence, and gradually to reduce the feudatories to entire subordination to themselves. On the other hand, the guaranteed Chiefs, relying on the protection of the British Government and the limitation imposed on the power of their feudal superiors, have not unfrequently attempted to assume a degree of independence to which they are not entitled. It has proved a matter of much difficulty for the officers of the British Government to hold both parties fast to their engagements; but the necessity for a strict adherence to the engagements concluded in 1818 is as strong now as it was then. The degree of interference exercised by the British Government in the affairs of the guaranteed Chiefs varies of course with the nature of the engagements concluded which were very numerous and varied in character, some being in the form of engagements between the superior State and the subordinates guaranteed by the British Government; others being Sunnuds or Deeds issued by the representative of the British Government either alone or conjointly with the ruler of the superior State; and others being mere

* Report on Malwa.

orders or perwannahs issued by the feudal lord to which the representative MEDIATI of the British Government attached his signature as guarantee. With CHIEF grants made by the superior Chiefs themselves, without the intervention of the British Government, there is of course no pretension to interfere.

But although there is very great diversity in their tenures, the guaranteed Chiefs may all be divided into two great classes, those Chiefs in the administration of whose affairs the interference of the feudal superior is excluded by the express terms of the guarantee, and those Chiefs whose Sunnuds contain no such stipulation; and the policy of the British Government towards them is governed by the following general rules:—

1st.—The guarantee given by the British Government descends in all cases to direct heirs.

2nd.—When there are no direct heirs, the previous recognition by the British Government of an adopted heir is, as a rule, essential to the continuance of the guarantee: with this previous sanction the guarantee descends to an adopted heir.

3rd.—When this previous sanction has not been obtained, the guarantee does not descend to adopted heirs unless the adoption subsequently obtains the formal sanction of the British Government.

4th.—When there are no heirs, direct or adopted, the escheat of the guaranteed estate or tunkha is to the Suzerain Chief and not to the British Government.

5th.—When the interference of the feudal superior in the affairs of the subordinate Chief is expressly barred by the terms of the guarantee, the decision of all questions relating to succession, direct or by adoption, rests solely with the British Government.

6th.—When there are direct heirs to an estate or tunkha, the Sunnud for which does not expressly bar the interference of the Suzerain Chief, the decision regarding the succession and the continuance of the guarantee rests solely with the British Government; but the superior Chief has a right to be heard if he has any reasonable objections to bring either (a) to the legitimacy, or (b) the directness of the descent.

7th.—When there are no direct heirs to such an estate or tunkha, and the British Government sanction the succession of an adopted heir, the feudal superior is entitled to a patient hearing of his claim to the EDIATIZED CHIEFS. escheat; but he has no concurrent authority with the British Government in deciding the question of succession, nor, where a British guarantee is involved, can he take any step in recognition of an adopted heir prior to and independently of the preliminary action of the British Government.

8th.—Tunkhadars have no power over the tunkhas beyond their own lives, and no right to burden them with sums payable after their death.

9th.—When the terms of the guarantee exclude the interference of the superior Chief, the subordinate Chief is not subject to the payment of nuzzerana. In other cases, a nuzzerana equal to one-fourth of the net revenue of the guaranteed estate or tunkha may be levied by the superior Chief on the occurrence of a succession by adoption to the guaranteed estate or tunkha. On such occasions the superior Chief gives to the subordinate a dress of honour equal to one-fourth of the nuzzerana.

10th.—None of the mediatized Chiefs have power of life and death. They must submit all trials for heinous crimes and all sentences of death or transportation or imprisonment for life to the local officers of the British Government.

WESTERN MALWA.

THE districts of Western Malwa are subject to the inroads of the Bheels from Banswarra and Pertabgurh. In 1861 an engagement (No. XCV.) was made with the Thakoors on the frontier, in whose districts the principal passes of the hills are situated, to unite and oppose the incursions of the Bheels. The Thakoors are quite able to prevent these incursions if they remain united; but they are generally at feud with each other, and often make common cause with the Bheels to plunder or injure their neighbours.

1. Rutlam.*—Under an engagement (No. XCVI.) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1819 between Purbut Sing, Rajah of Rutlam, and Dowlut Rao Sindia, the former agrees to pay an annual tribute of Salim Sahee Rupees 84,000, while Sindia undertakes never to send any troops into the country or to interfere in any way in the internal administration or succession. This tribute was assigned under the Treaty of 1844 with Sindia in part payment of the Gwalior contingent. It is now paid to the British Government under the Treaty of 1860.

Purbut Sing died in 1824. He had no children, and as disturbances were anticipated in the event of his death without proper arrangements for the succession, Sir John Malcolm had recommended in 1821 that Bulwunt Sing, a cousin of the Chief of Saloombur, whom Purbut Sing had selected to succeed him, should be recognized. Bulwunt Sing continued in possession of the Chiefship till his death on 29th August 1857. He was succeeded by his adopted son Bhyron Sing who died on 27th January 1864 leaving an infant son Runjeet Sing. This child has been recognized by the British Government as heir to the Chiefship, but an officer of the British Government has in the meantime been deputed to superintend the administration.

The Rajah of Rutlam is considered the principal Rajpoot leader in Western Malwa, and in consequence receives a voluntary allegiance and assistance if called for from the neighbouring Rajpoot Chiefs. The late Rajah Bulwunt Sing rendered good service during the mutinies, in recognition of which his successor, Bhyron Sing, received a dress of honour of Rupees 3,000 and the thanks of Government. The military establishment of the Rajah consists of 500 sepoys. The revenue from all sources is estimated at Rupees 3,64,064, and the population at 94,839. The town of Rutlam is the principal opium mart in Western Malwa. The area of Rutlam is about 500 square miles.

2. Sillana.*—Sillana pays an annual tribute of Rupees 42,000 under the same conditions as Rutlam (No. XCVI.), of which territory it originally formed a part. The tribute is paid to the British Government under the Treaty with Sindia of 12th December 1860, having been assigned in 1844 in part payment of the Gwalior contingent. By a separate Agreement (No. XCVII.) the Rajah engaged, after paying Rupees 22,234 in cash as arrears of tribute, to pay Rupees 75,000 as the balance of arrears up to 1819 in five yearly instalments. In A. D. 1709, on the death of Kessory Sing, Rajah of Rutlam, his eldest son Maun Sing succeeded to the lands forming the present district of Rutlam and Jye Sing his second son to Sillana.

The Chief with whom the settlement was made in 1818 was succeeded by his son Ruttun Sing who, having no sons, was succeeded by Nahar Sing, his uncle. Nahar Sing was succeeded by his son Tukht Sing who died in 1850 leaving a son, Doola Sing, 10 years old. The district was administered by the British Government till the mutinies of 1857 when it was put under a Regency headed by the chief wife of the late Rajah. As an acknowledgment of the services rendered in preserving order and furnishing troops, the members of the Regency received dresses of honour. The present Rajah Doola Sing was put in power in 1859. He holds in jaghire the village of Muckoon in pergunnah Kuchrode.

The revenue of Sillana is estimated at Rupees 2,49,000 ; the population at 88,978, and the area at about 103 square miles.

* Malcolm's Malwa, No. 2 of Schedule No. I.

3. Seetamhow.^{*}—This Chiefship, like Sillana, formed originally a MEDIAT portion of Rutlam, and was divided from it on the death of Ram Sing, CHIEF Rajah of Rutlam, in A. D. 1660, when his second son, Kassur Dass, West n. 2 succeeded to the lands now comprised in Seetamhow.

A tribute of Rupees 60,000 from this State was guaranteed to Sindia by an Agreement (No. XCVIII.) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. The total revenue of Seetamhow is about Rupees 1,50,000, and the population about 20,000. In consequence of repeated representations from the Rajah, Rupees 5,000 of the annual tribute were remitted in 1860 by Sindia of his own free will on the occasion of the Rajah's son waiting on him at Gwalior. An intimation of the remission was given to the Rajah of Seetamhow in a letter from Sindia to his address.

The Rajah of Seetamhow remained faithful to the British Government during the mutiny of 1857, and received a dress of honour of Rupees 2,000. The Rajah keeps up a military force of 40 horse and 200 foot.

4. Punth Peeploda.—In 1821 Naroo Dhondeo and Wasadeo Jinardin received from Sir John Malcolm a Sunnud (No. XCIX.) which was confirmed by the Supreme Government, whereby they received tribute on ten villages in the district of Mundavul and Soubah of Mundisore. Naroo Dhondeo was succeeded by his son Gopaul Rao. Wasadeo Jinardin is still living. The jaghiredars furnish reports of crime to the Political Assistant.

5. Peeploda.[†]—The settlement (No. C.) of this Chiefship, under which a tribute of Salim Sahee Rupees 28,000 is paid to the Nawab of Jowrah in accordance with the 12th Article of the Treaty of Mundisore,[‡] was made with Pirthee Sing by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. The Thakoor receives from Kishnajee Rao Puar of Dewas Rupees 138 on six villages and from Hybut Rao Puar Rupees 115 on five villages in Goorgoocha. He also holds a grant of land in the village of Betekheree in the Alote district from Kishnajee Rao Puar; and he receives Rupees 1,000 damee from Taul and Mundavul. The Nawab of Jowrah states that he receives Rupees 180 from the above damee, but the claim is disputed by the Thakoor.

The settlement made in 1818 put the Thakoor on the same footing as other mediatized Chiefs, but in 1844 when Sir Claud Wade was Resident at Indore, a new Deed (No. CI.) was executed between the Thakoor and the Nawab of Jowrah, without the cognizance of the Government of India, by which the Thakoor was placed in much greater dependence on the Nawab and the right of the latter to control the judicial administration of the Thakoor was admitted. The existence of this deed was first brought to notice in February 1864, but it was resolved not to interfere with the arrangements which had lasted twenty years, so long as no dispute should arise on the subject between the Thakoor and the Nawab.

Thakoor Pirthee Sing was succeeded by his son Omeid Sing; and he by his son Oonkar Sing, who died on 12th November 1863, and was succeeded by his adopted son Dooley Sing who was recognized as heir by the British Government.

Jinardin Gopaul, having represented to me their claims to tribute on ten (10) villages in the district of Mundavul and Soubah of Mundisore, granted in Sunnud by former Peishwas of the Poonah government to the latter two persons, their fathers; and which tribute has lately been held by Sumbajee Autya deceased, the relation of Nharoo Dhondeo and Wasadeo Jinardin, in management for them. And being satisfied that their claims are just, and that they, Nharoo Dhondeo and Wasadeo Jinardin, are the lawful hereditary proprietors of the tribute abovementioned, I submitted their claims to the consideration of the Most Noble the Governor General in Council in my letter of the 22nd February 1821, who has been pleased to direct by Mr. Secretary Swinton's letter of the 17th March 1821, in reply to my communication aforementioned, that the claims in question be confirmed, and they are hereby confirmed by me on the part of the British Government.

As the Nawab of Jowrah, with a view to suppress within his elaka the occurrences of the crimes as per margin, has taken from the Kangras (Rajpoots) and tunkhadars of his districts moochulkas, I in consequence engage that I will make proper arrangements for the suppression of the said crimes and freebooters within the limits of my elaka: I will neither join these freebooters nor give them any help or assistance.

Ruttun Sing, son of Himmut Sing of Kalookheree, having appeared before me at Indore, represented to me that in 1874 Sumbut when Bittul Mahadeo and General Low stationed themselves with troops at Indruk in pergunnah Mehidpore, and established thannahs at Narelia and other places, after sending away all the men therefrom, he (the said Ruttun Sing) from fear executed a writing before Lutchmun Sudaseo, kamaisdar of the mehal, to the effect that he would take two Rupees only on account of "bhet" from each village of the aforesaid pergunnah, and not levy a pice more from the mehal. He has now requested that after investigation of his case, orders should be issued for the payment to him of the tunkha which he received from the said pergunnah previous to the breaking out of the disturbances. After due consideration of the above request, and enquiry of the zemindars of the mehal, it has been found that he formerly received two Rupees as "bhet." It has therefore been decided that this sum shall be paid from the mehal cutcherry from the aforesaid year on the condition that he shall not oppress the people of the villages of the mehal, or exact from them more than what has been fixed for him. Accordingly his tunkha has been fixed at Rupees 225 of the mehal currency, and you are hereby directed to pay the above sum of Rupees 225 to Ruttun Sing of Kalookheree, from the cutcherry of the pergunnah from the aforesaid year, and to take receipts from him for the same. You will inform him that should he levy anything from the villages, a deduction will be made from his tunkha. Tell him that he will be required to render service according to his ability.

Kamaisdar of Pergunnah Kaita.

Lutchmun Sing, son of Uchul Sing, Grassia of Nurwur, represented to the Circar that he used to receive tunkha from the village of Bhutwancee in the aforesaid pergunnah which he does not now receive, and requested that an arrangement for the payment of the same might be made. From the enquiries which I have instituted, I have ascertained that when the tunkha of Kurrun Sing was settled, Lutchmun Sing Grassia's tunkha was included in that of Kurrun Sing, who promised to pay the same to Lutchmun Sing, but that when payment was demanded Kurrun Sing denied his liability, whereupon Lutchmun Sing brought the circumstance to the notice of Captain Henley, who addressed a letter to the Circar on the subject. It having been settled that the said Grassia should not exact his tunkha from the people of the villages, but should receive a cash allowance from the mehal cutcherry; and that he should make arrangements for the prevention

MEDIATIZED CHIEFS. of thefts in the mehal; a sum of Rupees 60 per annum to be paid from 1879 Sumbut has been settled on him. You are hereby directed to pay him every year, according to the instalments, the above sum of Rupees 60 of the local currency in lieu of his tunkha from the mehal cutcherry, and to take receipts for the same. You represented to the Circar at Indore that the two villages, Lalgurh or Maunpoora and Nagorarea in pergunnah Mehidpore, which you have held for a long time, were resumed last year, and assigned by the Circar for the construction of a religious institution called chettry at Bhanpoora; that the grass tunkha which you formerly used to receive from the villages was stopped, and it was settled through Captain Kay on the part of General Malcolm that instead of taking money as grass dues from the villages, or oppressing the people by its exaction, you should receive the village of Kuchalia, and an annual cash allowance of Rupees 1,000 from the Circar's cutcherry; and that a letter was written to the kamaisdar of the mehal directing him to pay you Rupees 1,000 every year. You moreover stated that you continued to enjoy the village of Kuchalia and to receive the annual sum of Rupees 1,000 which had been fixed for you. You also made a request to Mr. Ross Dudley that in order to enable you to obtain grass, fuel, &c., the aforesaid two villages might be farmed out to you in istumraree tenure, the revenues of which, after the deduction of Rupees 1,000 payable to you by the mehal cutcherry, were to be paid by you at any place where the Circar might direct. The above officer having brought your request to the notice of the Circar, and your request having been duly considered, it has been determined to farm to you the said two villages in istumraree tenure. A sum of Rupees 4,652 has been fixed as the rent of the two villages for two years, viz., Rupees 2,251 for

You presented to me a petition stating that your uncle, Pirthee Sing, had died, and that you would support Gyana Bai, the widow of the deceased, and praying that as he left no children, and as a provision had been made for his maintenance out of your tunkha, the deceased's allowance might be given to you. Gyana Bai also presented a petition mentioning that she appointed her nephew, named Sumtajee, as successor to the said tunkha of the deceased. With a view to ascertain the circumstances set forth by the plaintiff and defendant, as well as to know which of the parties had, according to the custom of the family, a right to the allowance abovementioned, the vakeel of the Nana Sahib was ordered to send a report on the subject. The said vakeel addressed a letter to the Nana Sahib, who, having made the necessary enquiries, returned, by a letter, the papers connected with the case with a kyasnamah, from which it appeared that the claim of the defendant Gyana Bai is unfounded, and that yours is just and fully proved. With reference to the kyasnamah, it is decided that you shall receive every year the tunkha of Rupees 400 enjoyed by the deceased Pirthee Sing. Gyana is since dead, and her claim to the tunkha, to which she had appointed her nephew as successor, was not based on just grounds; but as she adopted Sumtajee, you should make such a provision for his support as may be deemed necessary.

BHOPAWUR AGENCY.

UNDER the Bhopawur Agency are the following feudatory States dependent immediately on the British Government: (1) Jobut with a revenue of Rupees 8,000 and a population of about 7,000, chiefly Bheels. The Chief of this petty State, Runjeet Sing, who is a Rahr-tore Rajpoot, has agreed (No. CXXXIV.) to cede such land as may be required for a railway passing through his territories; (2) Mutwarra, yielding about Rupees 2,000, and with a sparse population of Bheels; (3) Khuttewarra, yielding about Rupees 1,200; and (4) Ruttonmul with a revenue of Rupees 600. The population of Khuttewarra and Ruttonmul is entirely Bheel. None of these petty States receive any allowances from, or pay any tribute to the British Government.

Within the charge of the Bheel Agent at Sirdarpore lie also the districts of Dektaun, Sagore, and Baug belonging to Sindia. The jaghiredars of these districts have criminal jurisdiction subject to appeal to the Sirsoubah of Malwa. None of these estates are in any respect guaranteed by the British Government. The Agent has also charge of Holkar's outlying districts of Chiculda and Lohanee. In Chiculda lie the two petty Chiefships of Dhie and Dhurmrai which pay to Holkar a tribute of Rupees 300 and Rupees 150 respectively.

The principal guaranteed Chiefs under the Bhopawur Agency are those of Alirajpore or Alimohun which is tributary to Dhar, and Jhabooa which is tributary to Holkar. But besides these there are several Bhoomias and Bheel Chiefs whose relations with their feudal lords are guaranteed.

1. Alirajpore.—The principal tributary of Dhar is the State of Alimohun or Alirajpore. When the British power was established in Malwa this petty State was under the control of an adventurer named Kesree Sing was driven out by Mosafir, who was the only Mekranee leader allowed by the British Government to settle in Malwa. He had long been manager of Alirajpore and made himself useful in expelling his countrymen and other foreigners, and was therefore recognized as manager of the State during the minority of Jeswunt Sing. An engagement (No. CXXXV.) was mediated between him and the Dhar government, by which in lieu of tribute, alleged to have formerly been Rupees 20,000, the sayer duties in Alirajpore were made over to Dhar. The sayer duties however were not only unproductive, but the collection of them by Dhar officials led to disputes. To remedy these difficulties the first arrangement effected was an agreement on the part of the Dhar State to pay a sum of Rupees 1,200 a year to Alirajpore in commutation of all claims of individuals on the sayer duties. By this all pretext for interference on the part of the officials of Alirajpore was put an end to. Disputes however still continued. For this reason, and for the purpose of promoting the facilities of commerce with Guzerat, the British Government procured from Dhar the cession of the tribute of Alirajpore at the time when Dhar made over Bairsea to British management, and agreed to pay in lieu of the tribute Rupees 10,000 a year. The sum collected from the Alirajpore State by the British Government is Rupees 11,000, of which Rupees 10,000 are paid to Dhar and the remaining Rupees 1,000 are paid as a contribution to a police fund.

Jeswunt Sing died on 17th March 1862 leaving a will by which he divided the State between his two sons. It was a question whether this partition should be admitted. The neighbouring Chiefs were consulted by the Political Agent at Bhopawur, and it was at last decided by the British Government that the will should be set aside, that Gungadeo the elder son should be recognized as heir to the Chiefship subject to a provision in land for his younger brother. On the succession of Gungadeo a dress of honour was conferred on him by the British Government and a nuzzerana of Rupees 1,500 was taken.

The Chief of Alirajpore has engaged (No. CXXXVI.) to give ^{MEDIATION} lands for the construction of a railway, and to allow the British ^{CHIEF} Government to have full jurisdiction over such lands.

2. Jhabooa.—In lieu of the tribute of Rupees 35,000 which Holkar claimed from this State, lands were assigned to Holkar through the mediation of the British Government, but no written engagement was made. In 1821, in consequence of the disturbed state of the country and the imbecility of the Rajah Bheem Sing, the Rajah was required to abdicate in favour of his son Pertab Sing. The arrangement for the administration of the country was made through the mediation and under the guarantee (No. CXXXVII.) of the British Government. At a later period the State was for some years taken under the direct superintendence of the British Government.

The family is descended from one of the former Rajahs of Jodhpore. The present Chief did good service during the mutinies. The State pays Rupees 1,474-3-2 towards the cost of the Malwa Bheel Corps. It makes no other payment to and receives none from the British Government. The finest districts of this petty State were wrested from it by Holkar, but it is remarkable that Holkar left to its rulers the right to collect in these districts the chout or one-fourth of the revenues which the Mahrattas exacted from the countries which they conquered. Including the districts held by Holkar, which yield about Rupees 35,000, the revenues of Jhabooa are Rupees 1,23,000. The area is about 1,500 square miles, and the population 50,000 or 60,000, chiefly Bheels. There are about twenty families of rank in this State, who pay Rupees 15,000 a year in tribute to Holkar and Rupees 25,000 to their own Chief. The Chief has agreed (No. CXXXVIII.) to cede such lands as may be required for a railway through his territories.

3. Neemkhera or Tirla.—*—Under a settlement (No. CXXXIX.) effected by Sir J. Malcolm, the Bhoomia holds the village of Tirla in hereditary succession paying annually Halee Rupees 500 tunkha, and is answerable for all robberies between Dhar and Sooltanpore under penalty of forfeiture of the village. His tribute is paid direct to Dhar and no deductions are made from it. Criminal reports are also sent to the Dhar lgency. Kurruk Sing.

4. Chota Burkhera or Sorepore.*—The original settlement (No. CXL.) of Chota Burkhera was effected by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. The Bhoomia is to hold two villages in inam; one village on payment of Halee Rupees 101 per annum; and other villages on a payment of Rupees 752, to commence after seven years. By mutual agreement between the Bhoomia and the Dhar State in 1822, without the knowledge of the British Government, only Rupees 151 are now paid for four villages, the others having been given up. In the original Sunnud the Bhoomia was also made answerable, under penalty of forfeiture of his villages, for robberies in fifteen villages jointly with the Bhoomia of Mota Burkhera. The Bhoomia has no power to reduce the tunkha. He furnishes reports of crime to Dhar.

The present Bhoomia Bhowanee Sing is grandson of Pirthee Sing with whom the original settlement was made.

5. Mota Burkhera.†—This Chief has relations both with Dhar and Sindia which were settled by Sir J. Malcolm in 1820. By the settlement with Dhar (No. CXLI.) the Bhoomia was to hold in pergunnah of Dhurrumpooree seven villages on a payment of Rupees 1,526 yearly; in the pergunnah of Naulcha three villages on a perpetual rent of Rupees 201; and in the pergunnah of Jehangerpore one village in perpetuity on payment of Rupees 61 annually. He was to be answerable for robberies within his limits, under penalty of forfeiting his villages. The Bhoomia now pays for three villages in Dhurrumpooree only Rupees 866, four having been given back and the payment having been reduced by agreement with the Dhar State without the knowledge or consent of the British Government. The tunkha is paid direct to Dhar without any deductions. The Bhoomia furnishes reports of crime to the Dhar Durbar.

The original Sunnud of the settlement with Sindia having been lost another (No. CXLII.) was given in 1847 to the present Bhoomia's father Hutteh Sing. By this Sunnud the Bhoomia is to hold

Reports of crime are made direct to Dektaun and Sagore respectively. No. CXXXIV

6. Kalee Bowree.—Two engagements were mediated by Sir John Malcolm between the Bhoomia and the Dhar State. By the one (No. CXLIV.) the Bhoomia receives Halee Rupees 1,377 Circaree bhet, &c., and Rupees 123 zemindaree from the pergunnah of Dhurrumpooree, for which he undertakes to guard the pergunnah of Dhurrumpooree and be answerable for robberies. By the other (No. CXLV.) he pays Halee Rupees 501 yearly in perpetuity to the kamaisdar of Dhurrumpooree, in consideration of which he is to hold five villages. He is to be answerable for robberies in six Bheel villages. The payments are made direct by and to the Dhar State, without deductions. Reports are made to Dhar; they were formerly sent to the Deputy Bheel Agent. The Bhoomias with whom the original agreements were made were Patel Sawunt Sing and Kooar Puddum Sing.

The present Bhoomia is Tej Sing. Since 1845 he has received annually Rupees 150 from Sindia for the district of Bickaneer (No. CXLVI.), and is answerable for robberies in 17 villages. The payment is made direct from Bickaneer without deductions. Tej Sing also holds the village of Kheirwa in inam.

TRANSLATION of an ISTUMRAR PUTTA of the Mouza of Tirla of Dhar, on the part of RAMCHUND RAO PUAR, Chief of Dhar, to SHEO SING and BHEMAN SING BHOOMIA, of Neemkhera, Pergunnah Hindola, granted in perpetuity.

The abovementioned village was continued to the Bhoomia and his predecessors by the kamaisdar, and the Dhar government in accordance with the royal grants enjoyed by them from ancient date on the following conditions:—

1.—To protect the villages of the Dhar district from the borders of Sooltanpore to the cusba of Dhar.

2.—None of the Bheels or robbers, &c., would be permitted to rob the villagers and the inhabitants of Dhar of their cattle and property.

3.—No travellers or merchants would be subjected to any injury or molestation.

The predecessors of the Bhoomia held this village on the above conditions, and paid annually to the Dhar State a tunkha amounting to Rupees 350.

The Bhoomia failed to observe the conditions above specified during the present anarchy, the ryots and merchants, &c., suffered serious losses. The Dhar State in consequence confiscated the village of Tirla and was put to great expense on account of its management and re-population, and erecting a fort and a wall.

As peace has been now restored to the country by the interference of the British Government, the Bhoomia has been forced to fall back on the Dhar State. He requests that his ancestral village may be given back to him on the following conditions:—

2.—That the inhabitants of the intervening villages as well as the travellers will be protected from injury.

3.—That he will put down the robberies committed by Bheels and others.

4.—That he will be responsible to make good all losses that may be caused by the Bheel robbers.

5.—That he will be always obedient to his government, and will afford no shelter or refuge to robbers and malefactors.

6.—That he and his successors generation after generation will remain true to the above engagements. In default of which the Government is at liberty to confiscate the village.

In consideration of the services rendered to the State in former times by the Bhoomia, it has been settled through the mediation of Sir John Malcolm that the village be restored to him on the above

Whereas the Circar has issued an order to make arrangements in killa Mandoo, Naulcha, Dhurrumpooree, Pergunnah Dhar, to prevent the predatory excursions of the Bheels: therefore I represent that in consequence of my villages having been laid waste I have no means of employing sebundeeds for the purpose of checking the Bheels; and request that the Circar may be pleased to advance me such an amount of money as may enable me to entertain 50 sebundeeds for six months. I also promise that after six months, when my villages shall have been improved, I will serve the Circar and pay the sebundeas out of the income of the said villages, and if I fail to put a stop to the raids of the Bheels and Bhameers, I will make the sebundeas refund to the Circar the amount paid to them in the six months. The sebundeas shall locate at the thannahs of Naulcha and Dhurrumpooree. I will without any objection act up to the orders of the Circar's gomashtha at the thannah. I will neither employ nor dismiss a sebundee without report to the karkoon. I will draw pay according to the rules of the mehal. I will serve wherever and whenever the Circar may direct me. I will adopt measures to prevent the Bheels and Bhameers committing plunder; I will reside at the thannahs of Naulcha and Dhurrumpooree and serve the Circar. If I fail to put a stop to the robberies and plunders of the Bheels and Bhameers and to protect the roads, the Circar shall resume all the inam and peschush villages which I hold. And as the Circar has got the village of Pagara in pergunnah Dhurrumpooree improved through a banker, I will give security for the amount of money which the said banker may have disbursed on account of the above village, and redeem in the course of two months, from 1st Maugh Boodee, the document which has been given to the banker for the purpose of its being returned to the Circar.

TRANSLATION of a ROOBOKAREE by CAPTAIN EVANS, Agent at Dhar, on the 16th September 1847.

Gobind Rao Karkoon and Mugun Lall Canoongoe presented to me a petition on the part of the kamaisdar of Sagore, stating that Bhoomia Hutteh Sing of Burkhera holds three villages situated in the aforesaid pergunnah, and praying that besides the sum of Rupees 1,503, which has been laid down in the lease and engagement as the amount of rent for the above three villages, the said Bhoomia might be directed to pay the cesses or bhets due to amlahs, zemindars, furnavees, grassias, &c., as mentioned in the decision. With the petition they submitted a memorandum of the cesses for Rupees 144, viz., Rupees 72 on account of the bhet of the troops; Rupees 18 on account of the bhet of mehal kamaisdar; Rupees 48 on account of the bhet of zemindar; and Rupees 6 on account of the bhet of furnavees; and mentioned that out of the above amount of Rupees 144 a sum of Rupees 72 only was paid yearly during the last four years, and that the remainder was due. The said Gobind Rao Karkoon and Mugun Lall Canoongoe were then asked to state why no petition was made before this as the decision in question was passed four years ago, and to give proofs that they received the cesses according to the memorandum. They said in reply that they used to take cesses, "babootee," &c., from the aforesaid Bhoomia, and the local arbitrators having told them not to levy cesses, they wrote to their employer on the subject in the cantonment, but not having received any answer from him they were unable to act up to the decision. They also mention that they now having received orders from the cantonment to take cesses according to the decision have waited upon me. In order to prove that they received the cesses yearly, according to the memorandum, for 16 years from the date of the lease to the date of the aforesaid decision, they submitted statements for that period. The said Bhoomia in answer asserted that besides the rent laid down in the lease, he paid the sum of Rupees 72 on account of "bhets" due to amlahs, zemindars, and furnavees, from the date of the said decision to 1903 Sumbut. He further alleged that before the date of the above decision, the kamaisdar used to take by force from him yearly Rupees 100 on account of "babootee kirkole," &c.; Rupees 197 on account of "doannee;" Rupees 54 on account of "amlah bheth;" and Rupees 1,503 on account of rent, &c., after deduction of a trifling amount of "chuhoot" and "siropah." The Bhoomia also said that with the exception of "zemindaree" and "furnavees bhets," all other cesses are paid.

The fact that the cesses "amlah bheth," &c., were paid to the kamaisdar of Sagore, has, in my opinion, been established by usage, and is borne out in documents. Hutteh Sing holds no paper in support of his assertion. He acknowledged to have paid the bheth. No proof was given to show that the statements submitted by the kamaisdar were false.

It is therefore ordered that the said Bhoomia be directed to pay yearly into the cutcherry at Sagore, the cesses or bhets due to zemindar, furnavees, grassia, &c., according to the established usage of the pergunnah, and that a copy of this be given to the plaintiff and defendant respectively.

Hutteh Sing, Bhoomia of Burkhera, represented to me that he holds five villages in pergunnah Deguthan in istumraree tenure; and that the kamaisdar realized from him, as rent of those villages, a sum more than mentioned in the lease and engagement; and prayed that the kamaisdar might be directed to collect from him such an amount of rent as is laid down in the engagement. The said Bhoomia having been desired by me to produce the perpetual lease of the five villages held by him said that the lease had been lost for some years. With a view to make an enquiry into the matter the kamaisdar of Deguthan was ordered to produce the engagement executed by the said Bhoomia as well as the annual statements of rent collected from him.

Ballajee Punt Dewan, on the part of the aforesaid kamaisdar, submitted this day to the court statements of rent realized from the said Bhoomia from 1244 to 1252 Fuslee. From these it appeared that from 1246 to 1252 Fuslee the said Bhoomia paid yearly, as rent for the above five villages, a sum of Rupees 1,403-8 inclusive of cesses such as "sirkaree babootee," "zemindaree bhett," "grass," "bhett farkuttee," &c. The statements also showed that in 1244 and 1245 the Bhoomia paid yearly a sum more than the above amount.

It is therefore ordered that the said Bhoomia pay into the treasury at Deguthan the same amount of money as he has hitherto done.

GENERAL SIR JOHN MALCOLM.

Nos. CXLV.

Kalee Bowree.

The Circar will respect your possession of your farmed villages according to the foregoing statement; you shall continue to pay annually to the Circar Rupees 501, being the full amount of the revenue of your farmed villages in pergunnah Dhurrumpooree, and also the fixed cesses on account of that pergunnah. You shall serve the Circar in killa Mandoo, Naulcha, Dhar, and Dhurrumpooree, and make such arrangements as may prevent the commission of highway robbery, theft, &c. If you fail to do so your villages will be resumed by the Circar.

The revenue of the villages in your elaka inhabited by the Bheels shall be realized as heretofore.

DHAR AGENCY.

BESIDES the engagements mediated between the Dhar government and its feudatories, an agreement* (No. CXLVII.) was mediated between Dhar and the Dhar State. Both States brought forward claims for lands near Bijore and Depalpure; and as it was impossible to ascertain the boundary correctly, it was agreed that the lands should be left neutral for the purpose of pasturing cattle. This settlement is still in force.

1. Mooltan.†—Dulput Sing, the present Thakoor, succeeded his father Sewai Sing in 1852. He pays to the Dhar State Hallee Rupees 1,044 under a settlement (No. CXLVIII.) made in 1818. The payment is made direct to the Dhar State, and is not subject to any deductions. The Thakoor holds no villages except those mentioned in his Sunnud. He makes his reports of crime to the Dhar State and not to any representative of the British Government.

2. Kachee Baroda‡.—On 14th December 1818, a settlement (No. CXLIX.) was made by Sir John Malcolm with Bhugwunt Sing of Kachee Baroda, by which the Thakoor received sixteen villages, subject to an annual payment of Rupees 9,459 to Dhar, and engaged to be responsible for the peace of the villages. The Thakoor died in 1856 without direct heirs. The matter was not reported to the Government of India, but under instructions from Sir R. Hamilton, then Agent to the Governor General, the Dhar State was informed that as the Thakoorate had become extinct, the guarantee of the British Government was at an end. The widow of Bhugwunt Sing, however, adopted Dullel Sing, and his adoption was confirmed by the Dhar State. When the case came Dhar Agency. under the notice of Government in 1864, it was decided that the abolition of the guarantee was contrary to sound policy and previous practice. The guarantee was therefore restored. The relations of Dullel Sing to the Dhar State are precisely the same as those of the Chief of Mooltan.

3. Bukhtgurlh.*—In 1853 the present Chief, Bhugwunt Sing, succeeded his elder brother Sewai Sing, who was the son and successor of Pirthee Sing, the Chief with whom the settlement was originally made. His relations to Dhar are the same as those of the Chief of Mooltan. He pays annually Halee Rupees 16,502 under a settlement (No. CL.) made in 1818. In 1819 a dispute between the Thakoors of Bukhtgurlh and Kachee Baroda was settled (No. CLI.) through British mediation, by which the claims of the Bukhtgurlh Chief on the villages of Dhangeekheree and Doodwal were recognized. That portion of the engagement which relates to these two villages is still in force, but the former part of the engagement, regarding the Mundloi dues, is said to have been modified by Sir Claude Wade in 1842.

4. Baisola or Dhotra.†—Under a settlement (No. CLII.) made in 1818, Thakoor Chunder Sing engaged to pay annually Rupees 2,501 to Dhar. Chunder Sing was succeeded in 1839 by his brother Humeer Sing, and he in 1842 by his adopted nephew, the present Chief Bhoom Sing. The relations of this Thakoorate to Dhar are the same as those of Mooltan.

TRANSLATION of an ENGAGEMENT executed between HOLKAR and DHAR in regard to Mouza Bijore in Pergunnah Dhar and Mouza Sungrode in Pergunnah Depalpore in Indore, in the time of GENERAL MALCOLM. Dated 19th Shual 1236 A. H., corresponding with 20th July 1821.

For many years there has been a dispute between the zemindars of mouza Bijore in pergunnah Dhar and mouza Sungrode in pergunnah Depalpore regarding lands situated on the boundaries of these two villages. As no agreement could be come to, Maharajah Mulhar Rao Holkar and Rajah Ramchunder Rao Puar of Dhar referred the case for decision to Major General Sir John Malcolm who deputed Captain Dangerfield to the boundaries of the villages to enquire into the merits of the case. Captain Dangerfield, having surveyed the disputed lands, submitted a report to General Malcolm, who finally decided that both parties should at all times respect the boundaries fixed and agreed to by the disputants in the time of the late Ahlia Bai and raise no objection thereto; and that both parties should agree to the measurement made by Captain Dangerfield and recorded in the Government office. For their guidance this deed recording the boundary settlement made by the Bai Sahiba is written. The lands lying between the bank of the Chumbul and the place where the Bai Sahiba laid the boundary pillar of Kangra, have, after due enquiries, been reserved as grazing land for the cattle of the aforesaid two villages. Neither of the contending parties will ever in future raise any dispute in respect to the boundaries of the above lands, or bring forward any claim thereto. The cattle of both villages shall graze without let or hindrance on those lands. No person shall be permitted to cultivate the above disputed lands; but none of the contending parties shall ever prevent the cultivation of lands which are not included within the said boundaries and which lie out of them. The lands of the village of Sungrode having been measured under the superintendence of Jinardin Trimbuck, amil of mouza Sungrode in pergunnah Depalpole, Soonder Ramajee, karkoon of Holkar, Beneeram in the employment of the Puar Circar, and the potail and putwaree of Bijore in pergunnah Dhar, the boundaries thereof have been defined as follows:—

The eastern boundary extends to the bank of the Chumbul and the western boundary to the mosque. Boundary pillars have been erected on the east, west, north, and south. The lands which lie between the mosque and the boundary pillars measure 804 beegahs. The lands which formed the subject of dispute, and which have been reserved as pasturage for cattle and will ever continue so, stretch eastward to the pillars erected on the boundary of Bijore in pergunnah Dhar; westward to the pillars erected on the boundary of the arable lands of mouza Bijore in pergunnah Dhar; southwards to the pillars erected on the boundary of Saloogurh in pergunnah Depalpole; and northward to the pillars

1. Amjherra.*—The revenues of Amjherra are about two lakhs of Rupees; the area is 584 square miles, and the population 57,232. This petty State always paid tribute to the paramount power, first to the Mahomedan governors of Dhar, and afterwards to the Mahrattas. By an agreement (No. CLIII.) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1819, Amjherra paid a tribute of Rupees 35,000 to Sindia, who was excluded from all interference in the internal affairs of the State. This tribute was one of the items ceded by the Treaty of 1844 with Sindia for the payment of the Gwalior contingent, and is now paid to the British Government permanently by Sindia under the Treaty of December 1860.

The Rajah of Amjherra rebelled in 1857, and his State was confiscated. It was decided that Sindia, and not the British Government, had the claim to the territory. Previous to the mutinies Amjherra contributed Halee Rupees 4,000 to the Malwa Bheel corps. Sindia now contributes Halee Rupees 20,000 on account of the Gwalior territory and Amjherra.

2. Nurwur.—Through the mediation of Major J. Stewart, Acting Resident at Sindia's court in December 1818, the pergunnah of Parone and six villages were granted (No. CLIV.) to Madho Sing of Nurwur under the guarantee of the British Government. The Rajah had been deprived of his hereditary possessions by Dowlut Rao Sindia, and he took to plundering in Sindia's territories. The object of the settlement was to put a stop to his outrages.

Maun Sing, the present Rajah, joined the rebels during the mutinies, but surrendered in 1859 on condition of a free pardon and a suitable maintenance being granted to him. His former possessions were consequently restored to him under guarantee.

3. Bhadowra.—This grant (No. CLV.) was made by Maharajah

* Malcolm's Malwa, No. 6 of Schedule No. I.

Dowlut Rao Sindia through the mediation of the British Resident at his court to Rajah Maun Sing in 1820 on condition that Maun Sing would put a stop to the depredations committed by one Salim Sing Grassia and prevent theft, &c. The grant comprises the quit-rent holding of villages yielding an annual revenue of Rupees 2,300, half of which the Thakoor keeps for himself the other half being paid to Sindia. The present Thakoor is Mohun Sing.

4. Khaltoun.—This grant (No. CLVI.) of three villages, yielding annually Rupees 4,000, was made to Thakoors Bheem Sing, Pirthee Sing, Ramchunder, and Chunderbuns in 1825 through the mediation of the British Resident at Sindia's court, on condition that they would serve the government faithfully and protect the high road.

5. Sirsee.—Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia granted (No. CLVII.) three-fourths of the revenue of the talooka of Sirsee to Bharut Sah in 1820 on condition that he would pay the remaining one-fourth, and honestly discharge the duties entrusted to him by reducing the Grasias, &c., to obedience.

6. Ragoogurh.—The Chuan Rajpoots of Ragoogurh are known by the name of Kychee, and are one of the oldest families in Malwa. In 1780 Madhojee Sindia stripped the family of their possessions and imprisoned the Rajah Bulwunt Sing and his son Jey Sing. From that time there was perpetual feud between Sindia and the Kychee clan, it being the object of the latter to devastate Ragoogurh, and to make it an unprofitable possession, until Sindia was compelled to restore it to the family. Jey Sing maintained the war with Sindia till 1818 when he died, leaving his title to be disputed by two claimants, Dhokul Sing and Ajeet Sing. With these claimants a settlement (No. CLVIII.) was made in 1819 through the mediation and under the guarantee of the British Government, by which Sindia gave them the fort and town of Ragoogurh and lands in their vicinity supposed to yield an annual revenue of Rupees 1,42,848-8 with a provision that any revenue derived from these lands which exceeded Rupees 55,000 should be paid to the Gwalior government, who, on their part, were to make good any deficiency. One hundred of the dependants of the Kychee family were also enrolled in the Gwalior contingent in 1823. The jaghire never yielded so much as Rupees 55,000, and the result of the above plan was that an annual balance was brought in against Sindia which was advanced to the Kychees from the British treasury. Up to 1828 the durbar paid these balances, but thereafter they demurred on the grounds that, if the jaghire were properly managed, it would yield more than Rupees 55,000, and that the Kychees realized more revenue than was credited in the accounts. The matter was complicated by disputes in the family, and at last in 1843, with the consent of the British Government, the original arrangement was annulled and separate engagements (No. CLIX.) were made with the three principal members of the family, viz., Bijey Sing, Thakoor Chuttersaul, and Ajeet Sing. By this settlement Bijey Sing received fifty-two villages, yielding a revenue of Rupees 15,000, selected from the Kheecheewarra lands and the right to certain collections specified in the Sunnud, on the understanding that he would continue to serve the government as he had done up to that date, abstain from creating disturbances, not encourage robbers committing crimes in the territories of the British Government and Gwalior State, afford no protection to criminals, and establish police posts in his districts for the protection of travellers, and pay his share of the nuzzerana demanded by the Durbar.

Chuttersaul got thirty-two villages yielding Rupees 9,000. His successor, the present incumbent, is Thakoor Mungul Sing.

Ajeet Sing received one hundred and twenty of the two hundred and four villages originally granted to his family. No Sunnud in his case is forthcoming. He was succeeded by Jeymundul Sing.

7. Baroda or Sheopore.—This Rajah's hereditary possessions were seized by Sindia. The Rajah laid his complaint before the Resident at Gwalior, through whose mediation, after a discussion protracted through four years, a promise was obtained of the restoration of the estates. Shortly afterwards the Rajah died, but Sindia fulfilled (No. CLX.) the promise to his son Rajah Bulwunt Sing, the present Chief, and granted an addition of nearly Rupees 7,000 to his jaghire.

8. Burra.*—This Thakoor, Rao Newul Sing, receives a tunkha of Rupees 5,400, of which Rupees 1,200 are paid by Holkar and Rupees 4,200 by Sindia. No copy of the engagement is procurable.

Amjherra.

I allow on the part of myself, my descendants, and the servants of the State of the long established tribute of the district, when it was formerly flourishing, was Halee Sicca Rupees 35,000, and that sum used to be paid to His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia's government. But latterly anarchy and confusion have almost ruined my district, and the Circar having benevolently considered its consequent decrease of revenue, has settled that tribute, agreeably to the following detail, shall be paid to the jaghiredar of His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia, Jye Sing Rao Ghatkee Sirjee Rao, or to whomever His Highness may order, being at a rate corresponding with the expected improvement of my district, viz.—

For the year of the Sumbut 1877	...	Halee Rupees	22,000
" " 1878	...	"	24,000
" " 1879	...	"	26,000
" " 1880	...	"	28,000
" " 1881	...	"	30,000
" " 1882	...	"	32,000
" " 1883	...	"	34,000
" " 1884	...	"	35,000

The country improving the above sums will be yearly given. The Rupees are Halee Siccas, the accustomed percentage shall be allowed between the currency, and the Salim Sahi Rupees. For and after the year 1885 Sumbut the full tribute of Rupees 35,000 to be given regularly. The tribute to be paid in two equal kists, half in Maugh Sood Poonum, half in Jeyt Sood Poonum, being old established usage, and likewise each year's tribute detailed above to be paid in two kists and in the same proportions. If the whole or any part of a kist is not paid when due, one and a half month law to be given, and at the expiration of that time I agree to the Circar's appropriating to itself lands or villages whose revenues are equal to the deficient sums, the revenue of such seized lands or villages to be afterwards credited to the tribute and to that kist for whose deficiency they have been taken; such lands or villages shall never be claimed by me or my descendants.

MEDIATIZED CHIEFS. It would be wrong to do so. But no persons, horsemen or karkoons, belonging to the government of His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia to be jaghiredar or any kamaisdar shall be allowed to remain in my district.

No. CLIII.
Amjherra.

25th October 1820.

On the part of MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA Bahadoor, on the subject of tribute of the Amjherra district, Jey Sing Rao Ghatkee Sirjee Rao being jaghiredar.

Through the medium of Major General Sir John Malcolm, Jey Sing has written on behalf of himself and his descendants that I and my servants, whoever they may be, shall in no way interfere with the family concerns of the Rajah, the conduct of his government, or in the affairs of his district: we shall dispute on no such points.

The Circar in its goodness, considering the deteriorated state of the district, has settled the tribute as follows in detail :—

					Halee Rupees.
For the year 1877 Sumbut	22,000
„ 1878 „	24,000
„ 1879 „	26,000
„ 1880 „	28,000
„ 1881 „	30,000
„ 1882 „	32,000
„ 1883 „	34,000
„ 1884 „	35,000

This is the tribute to be paid annually as detailed for these eight years in Halee Siccas, and for 1885 of the Sumbut, and ever afterwards, the full established tribute of Rupees 35,000 shall be paid.

The tribute to be paid in two equal kists, as has obtained from time immemorial, one in Maugh Sood Poonum, the other in Jeyt Soodh Poonum; besides this we shall demand no other money whether for military or any other expenses. If I do so I shall act incorrectly, and moreover none of my troops or horse or karkoons shall remain in the district of Amjherra.

Lalla Mohunloll, your vakcel, has made a petition at Gwalior to the following effect :—

In Sumbut 1877, or Sun Ishera Meatein, the Government granted two hundred and four villages, yielding a revenue of one lakh forty-two thousand eight hundred and forty-eight and a half Rupees, situated in the vicinity of Ragoogurh, to the Khcechee Chiefs as the means of supporting themselves and their families. After this a karkoon on the part of the Circar, accompanied by a mootasuddee on the part of the

With the exception of the barra sayer we were granted all the duties hitherto carried to the credit of Government under the head of chota sayer, the bazar collections, and the duties levied on the sale of cattle: I now earnestly beg that new Sunnuds from the present year may be granted to us.

In compliance with this application the Circar has granted you a new Sunnud for the fifty-two villages, yielding a revenue of Rupees 15,000 which were selected from the Khcechee lands, yielding a revenue of one lakh forty-two thousand eight hundred and forty-eight and a half Rupees, situated in the vicinity of Ragoogurh, granted in Summut 1877, or Sun Ishera Meatein, the revenues of which were estimated by a karkoon and a mootasuddee on the part of the British Government. THE greater portion of the districts which were formerly under is Agency have recently been annexed to the Central Provinces. There still remain however under the Political Agent some small portions of British territory intermixed with the possessions of native States, the Bagode pergunnah of Dewas, and the State of Burwanee which is immediately dependent on the British Government. The population of Burwanee, amounting to upwards of 22,000, consists chiefly of Bheels.* At present the State is under the direct management of the British Government. Its revenues are about Rupees 40,000. The State of

* When measures were taken by the Bombay Government in 1818 to reclaim the Bheels of Khandeish, Sir John Malcolm considered that success would only be partial unless corresponding measures were adopted for reclaiming the Bheels of Burwanee. He therefore prevailed on the Rajah to make the following agreement with the Bheel chiefs which he guaranteed. The agreement had no practical results, but it is given here in illustration of the earliest measures which were adopted to induce the wild tribes to abandon their predatory habits:— translation of the Qulumbundee or terms of agreement entered into with the Circar of Burwanee by Muddun Naiq and Dowliah Naiq for themselves and their respective brothers Ruttun Naiq and Dhun Sing Naiq.

To the Sreo Maharaj Udhiraj Sreo Rana Mohun Sing Sahibjee whose royal residence is Uwass, in whose durbar we make the following agreement:—

We, Muddun Naiq, Ruttun Naiq, Dowliah Naiq, and Dhun Sing, promise to observe the good custom of the country and road from the town of Burwanee to Julgona. We shall not commit any robbery ourselves, and we shall do all we can to discover any committed by others. We promise to make the same agreement regarding the limits from Nunguluree to Sindwah and Sultanpore, &c., and if any robbery be committed in those parts by Bheels who may seek shelter in the Burwanee hills, we shall seize the offenders and deliver them up to the Circar. We shall also be responsible for the restoration of any property plundered on condition of our receiving from the Circar Rupees two hundred (200) per month as pay; we shall entertain a body of 35 Bheels in our pay and shall receive from us Rupees four per month, and by these means we shall be enabled to perform our engagements. We promise not to exact any tax from travellers. Whenever the Circar requires our presence we shall obey the summons.

To this are annexed the marks of Muddun Naiq and Dowliah Naiq.

By the first engagement (No. CLXI.) he is to receive Rupees 500 annually from the Dhurrumpooree pergunnah, and to be answerable for all robberies between the Maun and Karun rivers. The second engagement (No. CLXII.) grants six villages in pergunnah Dhurrumpooree in perpetuity on an annual payment of Rupees 525, and one village on an annual payment of Rupees 201; but by a subsequent agreement between the Bhoomia and the Dhar State, without the mediation of the British Government, the Chief pays now only Rupees 327 for three villages, the rest having been given up. Oudey Sing also holds the village of Kancureepoora in Mandoo in perpetuity, paying Rupees 40 per annum.

 Maulcha. On Nadir's expulsion from Malwa an engagement was made with his son Bheeman Sing on 8th May 1820 guaranteeing to him from the Holkar State all the tunkhas which his father received. Neither of these engagements is forthcoming, but the Indore Durbar have furnished perwannahs (No. CLXIII.) by which the Bhoomia receives tunkhas amounting to Rupees 2,505 from several districts. A case (No. CLXIV.) of the village of Khairree is also held from Holkar at a rent of Rupees 901, from which an abatement of Rupees 150 is made for the protection of the Doorjanpore Pass. It is doubtful whether this latter engagement is guaranteed.

Two engagements were mediated between Sindia and Nadir Patel and his son Bheeman Sing. The first engagement granted in perpetuity to Nadir Patel four villages in Dektaun on payment of Rupees 251 annually. The second granted the village of Koonjrode to Bheeman Sing on payment of Rupees 401 a year. Neither of these engagements forthcoming.

An engagement (No. CLXI.) was also mediated between Bheeman Sing and the Dhar State under which he received Rupees 65 from the Dhurrumpooree district, on condition of being responsible for robberies. He also received (No. CLXV.) the village of Dabir in Dhurrumpooree at a quit-rent of Rupees 150.

Bheeman Sing was succeeded by his son Motee Sing, and he by the present Chief Hameer Sing.

But shortly after the conclusion of this engagement the Chief entered into a new arrangement with Dhar, without the knowledge of the British Government, for only one of the villages on a payment of Rupees 101. 4. Ghurree or Bhysa Kherce.*—This Bhoomia held six villages in Dhurrumpooree paying yearly Rupees 525, beside baptee and zemindaree dues, and was responsible for all robberies in these and in ten other villages. By a subsequent arrangement with the Dhar State, without the knowledge of the British Government, Hutteh Sing gave up the six villages and three of them were continued with Burjore Sing. Ruttun Sing Bhoomia of Kooteeday is a younger branch of the same family as Lutchemun Sing, son of Burjore Sing, the present Chief of Ghurree, and holds villages on the same grant. No copy of the original engagement has been furnished; but a copy of the engagement (No. CLXVII.) with Burjore Sing is produced.

5. Sillanee and Bukhtgurh.†—Prior to the occupation of Malwa in 1817 this family had long been plunderers in the districts of Sindia and Holkar on the Nerbudda. In May 1818 Rao Ruttun Sing, Mundroop Sing, and Cheetoo Bai submitted to Sir John Malcolm who took some of their adherents into service under Cheetoo Bai. By a settlement (No. CLXVIII.) concluded on 13th May 1820, a tunkha of Rupees 4,038 was assigned to the family from Sindia and Rupees 778-8 from Holkar, and the British Government granted as remuneration for service Rupees 100 a month each to Ruttun Sing, Mundroop Sing, and Cheetoo Bai, and Rupees 50 each to Nahar Sing, brother of Ruttun Sing, and Pertab Sing, son of Mundroop Sing; and engaged in the event of their dismissal from service to be answerable for the payment of the tunkhas from Sindia and Holkar. The sum of Rupees 400 a month is still paid from the British treasury to the successors of the original grantees, viz., Oomeid Sing, son of Ruttun Sing; Hutteh Sing, grandson of Mundroop Sing; Bukhtawur Sing, son of Cheetoo Bai, who, however, died in 1863, and whose son and successor, Hutteh Sing, has not yet been recognised by Government; Bahadoor Sing, nephew of Nahar Sing; and Sher Sing, son of Pertab Sing.

share of religious offerings at Oonkar Mandatta on the Nerbudda.

6.. Chandgurh.*—Seventeen villages were recognised by Dowlut Rao Sindia as belonging to Ranee Ruttun Bai, and a Sunnud (No. CLXIX.) was given to her to that effect. The income of the jaghire amounts to about Rupees 800 a year. No deductions are made from it, and the jaghiredar derives no income from other sources. Reports of heinous crimes only are made to the Political Agent in Nimar.

Ranee Ruttun Bai was succeeded by her adopted son Bheem Sing, and he by his son Bharut Sing, who died in 1860. The succession was then disputed, but as Sirdar Sing, son of Bharut Sing, was considered by the Gwalior Durbar to be the legitimate successor, he was recognised by the British Government to whom the territory had been ceded under the Treaty of 1860. Nuzzerana was remitted on account of the poverty of the family.

7. Jamtee.—In 1820, Captain Briggs, Collector of Khandeish, obtained Sunnuds (No. CLXX.) from Sindia granting to the Hill Turvees, on the borders of Zeinabad, who were notorious freebooters, one village each and cash allowances amounting to Rupees 1,900 a year. The settlement is still in force, but the obligations were transferred to the British Government on the cession of Zeinabad by Sindia in 1860.
The Turvees pay no tunkha or nuzzerana, and have no other income than that derived from these grants. The original grantees were Lal Khan, who was succeeded by Sooproo, the present incumbent; Mus-sumut Maina succeeded by Mussumut Husso; Buddoo Khan succeeded by Emam Khan; and Kheir Khan succeeded by Akl Khan.

The country in which the possessions of the family lay was removed from the Peishwa's effective control; and about five years before the outbreak of the Pindaree war, Radha Bai, the widow of the last Boscutta's brother, with the consent of Sindia and Holkar and the knowledge of the Peishwa, adopted Kishen Rao as her son. On the conquest of Malwa, Sir John Malcolm after enquiry gave to Kishen Rao a Sunnud (No. CLXXI.) confirming to him the zemindaree dues of the pergunnahs of Kusrawud, Kanapore, and Burdia, and granting the village of Chota Kusrawud in inam subject for four years to a payment of Rupees 500 annually for sebundee expenses and to a revised rate thereafter. This settlement was reported to Government, but it was not at the time confirmed, as it was in contemplation to make over Kusrawud to Holkar in exchange for other lands, and to leave to Holkar the settlement of the Boscutta's claims. Holkar however eventually rejected the proposals for exchange, whereupon a full inquiry was made into the claims of Kishen Rao. The adoption was found to be wholly invalid, and the tenure was declared to be an escheat. But as the settlement made by Sir John Malcolm committed the Government to the recognition of some rights on the part of the family, it was determined (No. CLXXII.) to continue the village of Chota Kusrawud on a life tenure, subject to a payment of Rupees 800 a year, and also the zemindaree and other dues at the same amount as were then actually realized, namely, Rupees 899-2-3. Kishen Rao is still alive. Besides the above allowances he receives zemindaree dues amounting to about Rupees 3,750 in Poonassa, Attode, Moondree, and other districts in Nimar; and he holds zirat lands yielding Rupees 820 a year and a jaghire yielding Rupees 700, making an income of about Rupees 8,500 a year in Nimar. Whereas Mr. Dangerfield has been appointed by the British Government to make arrangements for the suppression of robberies and for the improvement of the country, I through his mediation execute this deed to the Circar and acknowledge that if any Bhoonias, Turvees, Bheels or Bhamurs of my district commit robberies on the roads or in the villages, or if they steal any cattle, I will be responsible. General Sir John Malcolm.

From COLONEL SMITH on the part of the English Government to KRISHEN RAO MADHO BOSCUITA, Sirmundloi of Circar Beejagurh, dated Mundlairsir, Soorsun Ishurein Meatein Ulf 122.

Whereas the inamee village of Chota Kusrawud, pergunnah Kusrawud, together with the zemindaree dues of pergunnah Kusrawud Kanhapore and Burdia were attached by the Government, and as Sir John Malcolm and Mr. Elphinstone have on principles of equity now directed the above wuttunee rights to be restored to you, these rights are accordingly bestowed on you by me. Your wuttunee dues will be collected by the Agents of Government and paid to you from the cutcherry, and you will continue as formerly in the exclusive possession of Chota Kusrawud, the revenues of which you will receive separately. You will make a regular yearly payment to Government of the sebundee charges for the maintenance of order in the pergunnahs as follows:—

Year 1227	Soorsun	Tisnat Ushur	Rupees	500
„ 1228	„	Ishurein	„	500
„ 1229	„	Uhud Ishurein	„	500
„ 1230	„	Isnu Ishurein	„	500

Total, Rupees 2,000

The above is fixed as the rate for four years, after the expiration of which the Government will arrange with the zemindars another settlement of the sebundee charges. The inamee rents of Chota Kusrawud for the past year amount to Rupees 2,700, from this sum Rupees 500 for sebundee will be deducted, and the balance will be given to you.

No. CLXXII.

SUNNUD granted to the widow RADHA BAI and KRISHEN RAO MADHO.

Whereas the Governor General in Council after full consideration of the case has come to the conclusion that the hucks and lands in the British territories in Nimar heretofore in the possession of the Boscutta family, under Sunnuds from the Peishwas, have virtually lapsed as escheats to the Government from the failure of legal and duly constituted heirs and representatives since the demise of the late Ramchunder Krishen Boscutta. These assignments and their proceeds are to be under the management and control of the said widow, Radha Bai, as long as she lives, for the mutual benefit and support of herself and Krishen Rao Madho. After her demise they will be at the disposal of Krishen Rao Madho for the remainder of his life, after which they will revert to and be resumed by Government. In testimony of which settlement this Sunnud is granted to the said Radha Bai and Krishen Rao Madho, and their acknowledgments will be taken in return.

INDORE CENTRAL AGENCY.

1. Pitharee.—Thakoor Pirthree Sing receives a tunkha of Rupees 4,835 from Dewas under a settlement (No. CLXXIII.) mediated by Captain Borthwick and Sir John Malcolm in 1818. The Chief with whom the original engagement was formed was Mahbut Sing. The two Chiefs of Dewas are in the habit of making certain deductions from this amount. One of the items of these deductions, however, viz., 17 per cent. on the amount of the tunkha, is objected to by the Thakoor and forms the subject of a complaint. This tunkha is paid direct from the State and the Thakoor is bound not to interfere in its collection in any village of the Dewas State.

The Thakoor of Pitharee holds 12 villages* under the Dewas Chiefs who state that these villages are farmed to the Thakoor and liable to increase of rent. On the other hand the Thakoor states that he holds them on quit-rent tenure under the guarantee of the British Government, but he cannot produce any document to support his statement. However the lease for these villages has not been renewed for the last forty-five years.

The question to whom the Thakoor is bound to furnish reports of crime has never been finally settled. The Chiefs of Dewas demand such reports but the Thakoor disputes their right to do so, and states that he will furnish them only to the Agent to the Governor General.

The Thakoor also receives tunkhas of Rupees 2,687 from Sindia and Rupees 1,145 from Holkar for which he holds Sunnuds, but neither of these appears to be guaranteed.

2. Baglee.*—The Thakoor of Baglee is a dependant of Sindia. Under a settlement (No. CLXXIV.) effected by Sir John Malcolm in A. D. 1819, Thakoor Salim Sing received Peeplia and eight other villages on a quit-rent of Rupees 5,562 a year, and five other villages on a quit-rent of Rupees 909. He also received nine villages on rent for five years, subject to increased assessment on the expiry of the lease. There is at present a dispute about these last villages. The Gwalior Durbar wishes to resume them, while the Thakoor is ready to pay an increased rent.

The present Thakoor is Sobhag Sing. He is bound to keep down plunderers on pain of forfeiture of his estates. The quit-rent for his villages is paid by him direct to the Gwalior Durbar. The Thakoor keeps his vakeel in attendance on the Agent to the Governor General who is in the habit of making direct reference to Sobhag Sing.

3. Karodia.†—To Thakoors Zalim Sing and Hutteh Sing the following tunkhas were guaranteed through the mediation of Major Henley :—

"	Holkar	(No. CLXXVIII.)	...	"	66	8
"	Bhopal	(No. CLXXIX.)	...	"	401	0
Total, Rupees					3,427	8

They were bound to render service, to abstain from levying the tunkhas from the villages and from the commission of crime.

The tunkhas are now enjoyed by Oomeid Sing, son of Zalim Sing, and Daibee Sing, son of Hutteh Sing. At the expiration of the term of each instalment the Thakoors are furnished with a per-wannah to the local officials of Sindia, Holkar, and Bhopal, from the Residency Office, to enable them to realise their tunkhas. A vakeel on the part of the Thakoors remains in attendance on the Agent to the Governor General.

† Malcolm's Malwa, No. 19 of Schedule No. II.

In the year 1838 Thakoor Zalim Sing and Chuttajee his brother obtained from Sindia, as blood-money, the village of Khairee Rajpoora. This engagement (No. CLXXX.) is guaranteed. Oomeid Sing also holds the village of Karodia under the Holkar State, but on what terms cannot be correctly ascertained as he has not produced any Sunnud.

CHIEF

The villages of Jamgode and Khaira were given by Sindia under a Sunnud dated A. F. 1240, on a quit-rent of Rupees 400, to Zalim Sing and Bheem Sing. Oomeid Sing now holds Khaira, and Oonkar Sing, the son of Bheem Sing, holds Jamgode. Chutter Sing, brother of Zalim Sing, obtained from Sindia the village of Razapore on quit-rent, and Taij Sing, another brother, obtained from Sindia 1,000 beegahs of land in the village of Koyel Khairee under Oogain. None of these arrangements however are guaranteed.

4. Tonk.—The present Thakoor Bulwunt Sing receives under Sunnuds from Sindia and Holkar the following tunkhas:—

From Sindia (No. CLXXXI.)	Rupees	4,457	0
„ Holkar (No. CLXXII.)	„	112	8
Total, Rupees				4,569	8

These Sunnuds are not attested or endorsed by any British officer, nor do they expressly state that the settlements were effected at the desire of the British Government. But it has been the practice of the Agent to the Governor General to grant the Thakoor a perwannah to enable him to realise the tunkha from Sindia's local officials. No perwannah however is granted for the tunkhas from Holkar.

The Thakoor also receives a tunkha of Rupees 4,570 from the two Chiefs of Dewas. No Sunnuds for this tunkha are produced, but the Thakoor holds a copy of a letter (No. CLXXXIII.) from Mr. P. Johnston relating to the payment.

Bulwunt Sing holds under Sunnuds from Sindia five hundred beegahs of land in pergunnah Tonk, and the village of Moormia in pergunnah Oonchode at a quit-rent of Rupees 201. He also holds under a Sunnud from Holkar six beegahs of main land in pergunnah Indore. But these grants are not guaranteed.

5. Patharea.—Bheem Sing, brother of Zalim Sing of Karodia, obtained the village of Patharea in the pergunnah of Oonchode from

6. Dhungong.*—This settlement was mediated by Major Henley and granted

From Sindia (No. CLXXXV.)	Rupees 1,484
„ Holkar (No. CLXXXVI.)	„ 56

The original recipient was Nahal Sing, the father of Mookund Sing and grandfather of Hameer Sing, the present Chief. Mookund Sing also received from Sindia a grant of thirty-six villages in Hurda and Hindia, subject to a payment of Rupees 1,001. No copy of the engagement is forthcoming; but on the cession of the districts under the Treaty of 1860, the tunkha would become payable to the British Government.

7. Singhana.†—This settlement was mediated by Major Henley who admitted a claim to Rupees 352, viz.—

„ Holkar (No. CLXXXVI.)	„ 112

The claim on Sindia was transferred to the British Government with the Hurda district. Only Rupees 56 are now paid as Holkar's share.

Anoop Sing with whom the settlement was made was succeeded by Bukhtawur Sing, the present Chief. Anoop Sing also received a grant of three villages from Mookund Sing of Dhungong through the mediation of the British Government. No copy of the engagement is procurable; but the tenure was only for life.

8. Baee.‡—According to the settlement made by Sir John Malcolm in 1819, Purbut Sing and Rughoonath Sing were to maintain the security of the Simral Pass, and to receive the taxes on merchandize levied in Alia Bai's time. The Sunnud (No. CLXXXVII.) held by the family is to this effect. In conformity with this document the zemindars held

But it appears that in lieu of the taxes on merchandize the zemindars now get a cash payment of Rupees 750, and pay to the Indore Durbar an annual sum of Rupees 52-10 on account of sirdesmookee dues. The Durbar have no documents to show when this new settlement was effected and by whose mediation. The present Thakoor is Haree Sing.

9. Mayne.*—The settlement of the Taiza Turwee's claim was effected by Sir John Malcolm on 25th January 1819. The Holkar State agreed to entertain in its service seven of the Turwee's adherents and to give him two villages on rent, subject after the seventh year to a payment of one Rupee per beegah on condition that the Turwee made no further collections on passengers and goods between Mhow and Jaum, and was responsible for all robberies, &c.

No copy of this engagement is forthcoming, but the Indore Durbar have produced an engagement (No. CLXXXVIII.) written by Kaisha Paima and Ajha, the nephews of Taiza Turwee, whereby they bind themselves to enter the service of the Durbar and to hold themselves responsible for the protection of the country within certain limits. The Durbar state that for this service they get Rupees 50 a month direct from the Durbar treasury. The circumstances under which the settlement of Sir John Malcolm was modified are not clearly ascertained.

The present Chiefs are Oomaidia and Lalchund.

10. Dhawra Kunjara.†—This settlement was effected by Sir John Malcolm and was similar to the above settlement with the Taiza Turwee of Mayne. No copy of the engagement is forthcoming; but an engagement (No. CLXXXIX.) is furnished by the Indore Durbar under which Rupees 55 a month are granted as remuneration for the protection of the roads between Simrore Ghat and Sigwar.

The Durbar also state that Maharajah Haree Rao Holkar granted an additional allowance of Rupees 25 a month for some other service to be performed by the recipient, thus making the total cash payment Rupees 80 monthly exclusive of certain dues levied by the Turwee from passengers, &c., on merchandize.

11. Ragoogurh (Dewas).—With Thakoor Zalim Sing an engagement (No. CXC.) was mediated by Sir John Malcolm under which he held nine villages from Tookajee Rao Puar of Dewas subject to an annual payment of Rupees 2,887-8, and eleven villages from Anund Rao Puar for which he paid Rupees 4,287-8 a year. He was succeeded by his son Dowlut Sing who rebelled in 1857, for which his estates were confiscated by Dewas at the request of the Agent to the Governor General. Subsequently in 1859 the two Chiefs of Dewas granted to his family a yearly allowance of Rupees 1,500; but this grant is not guaranteed.

The Thakoor Dowlut Sing also held the village of Burkhera under Sindia on quit-rent of Rupees 250 a year. This grant also was resumed during the mutinies, but was restored to the sons of the Thakoor on the 23rd April 1860 under a Sunnud signed by Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia. This grant is not guaranteed.

12. Kaytha.—By an engagement (No. CLXXIII.) mediated by Captain Borthwick in 1818, the Thakoor receives Rupees 1,427 a year from the two Chiefs of Dewas. The present Thakoor is Sheodan Sing, son of Doorjun Lal.

13. Khursee Jhalaria.—Under an engagement (No. CLXXIII.) Thakoors Suroop Sing and Futteh Sing received annually Rupees 225 from Tookajee Rao Puar of Dewas. The present Thakoors are Motee Sing, son of Suroop Sing, and Dotar Sing, son of Futteh Sing. Motee Sing also receives Rupees 1,750 from Sindia.

14. *Poonghat.—Piem Sing received a tunkha of Rupees 112 from Sindia. No copy of this engagement can be found. He also received (No. CXCI.) a grant of Poonghat and twelve villages from Sindia subject to an annual payment of Rupees 401. This claim was transferred to the British Government on the cession of Hurda and Hindia by Sindia. He also received (No. CXCII.) a tunkha of Rupees 32 from Sindia.

It now appears from a letter from Thakoor Zalim Sing that the Sunnud in question was stolen at cusba Indore, where he accompanied Captain Pattle. At the request of Captain Pattle a duplicate of the said Sunnud is given to Thakoor Zalim Sing and Hutteh Sing. 1. The following duties used formerly to be levied on travellers on account of zemindar and chowkies.

Exclusive of duties on travellers, sayer duties were levied from tradesmen at the rate of two annas on every loaded bullock, sheep, camel, &c.

Sayer duty of one anna and not more was levied on every company of travellers or traders at the following five chowkies, viz.—

All duties must be levied according to the rate settled by the mediation of General Sir John Malcolm. 3. The following is the settlement made:—

One-fourth of the sum fixed to be paid to the Circar shall be given to the zemindar. If you settle aheerees or graziers and others in the village, you will receive a percentage at the rate of Rupees five per cent. on the amount to be paid by them to the Circar on account of pasture.

4. It is necessary to make an enquiry whether or not the cess “damee” is due to the zemindar, and whether or not pesheush is payable by the zemindar; for this purpose it is necessary that you should produce the old receipts which you hold. After enquiry a settlement will be made, and until such settlement is made you may take two Rupees on every village. One Rupee only should be taken on a village yielding Rupees 25 a year, but on a village paying Rupees 50 you may take two Rupees as mentioned above.

5. No duties on account of zemindar and chowkey, as above detailed, shall be levied from persons holding a letter of the Circar exempting them from payment of duties. If any tradesman holds an engagement of the Circar the duties should be levied from him with reference to that engagement. You will keep the tradespeople satisfied

BHOPAL AGENCY.

UNDER this Agency, besides many Chiefs whose relations with their immediate suzerain have been mediated and guaranteed by the British Government, there are three petty Chiefships, Koorwai, Mahomedgurh, and Basowda, immediately dependent on the British Government itself. The Political Agent has also charge of isolated districts belonging to Sindia,* Holkar,† Tonk,‡ and Dewas.§

Chiefs immediately dependent on the British Government.

1. Koorwai.—This petty Chiefship suffered great spoliation at the hands both of the Mahrattas and Pindarees. The Chief pays no tribute or tunkha to any State, and holds no formal guarantee. The present Chief is Nawab Nujjuff Mahomed Khan. The area of Koorwai is 162 square miles; the population 22,349; and the revenue Rupees 75,000.

2. Mahomedgurh was originally part of Koorwai, and was given as a portion to a younger son. It pays no tribute to any State. The present Chief is Hafiz Kooli Khan. The area is 80 square miles; the population 4,000; and the revenue Rupees 7,000.

3. Basowda.—This Chiefship is an offshoot of Mahomedgurh. In 1817 it was seized by Sindia, but was restored by order of the British Government, and all connection with Gwalior has since ceased. It pays no tribute.

The present Chief Usud Ali Khan was at one time virtual minister of Bhopal. He was removed to Benares for 10 years on account of

* Bilsa, Gunj Basowda, Mulhargurh, Shujawulpore, Soondersee, Sonekutch.

† Gagroneo, which was originally a guaranteed Chiefship (see Malcolm's Report on Malwa, No. 41 of Schedule No. III.) but lapsed to Holkar in 1862 on failure of heirs, Zeerapore, Machelpore, Soondersee, Kontapper.

‡ Seronjo.

§ Sarungpore.

"Basowda.—This Chiefship has been erroneously entered among Guaranteed Chiefships. Its real position is that of a feudatory of his intrigues in favour of Dustageer, the illegitimate claimant of the succession in Bhopal. He was released in 1858 on payment of a fine of Rupees 25,000. During his absence the State was managed by his eldest son. The area of Basowda is 68 square miles; the population 5,000; and the revenue Rupees 7,000.

MEDIATIZED
CHIEFS.*Bhopal
Agency.Mediatized and guaranteed Chiefships.*

1. Rajgurh.—The power of the Oomuts, an inferior class of Rajpoots, was established in the district known as Oomutwarra about a century ago by two brothers named Mohun Sing and Pursram, who assumed the titles of Rawut and Dewan and made a division of their possessions, the Rawut retaining five villages in excess of the portion of the Dewan as an acknowledgment of his superior birth-right. Out of this division arose the separate Chiefships of Rajgurh and Nursingurh. On the Mahratta conquest of Malwa the Oomuts were compelled to submit in common with other States, but they appear to have obtained much easier terms. The Rawut became tributary to Sindia and the Dewan to Holkar. Tribute was imposed on each in equal proportions. The amount appears to have varied between Rupees 65,000 and Rupees 85,000.

In 1818 the Chief in possession of Rajgurh was Newul Sing, who succeeded to the Chieftaincy by the assassination of his brother. On the introduction of the British authority into Central India, the mediation of the British Government was exercised to effect an arrangement for the payment of the tribute due to Sindia. Tullain and several other villages were made over to Sindia in payment of all his claims against the Rawut, and a written agreement (No. CXCIIL.) was executed giving to the British Government alone the right to mediate in the affairs of the principality. Another agreement (No. CXCIIV.) was mediated between the Rawut and the Puars of Dewas for the settlement of the Rawut's claims on the district of Sarungpore. These claims were to a share in the land revenue amounting in some villages to a fourth and in others to a third, a corresponding share in the sayer and transit duties, and an indefinite proportion of rent-free lands in every village. The claims on the land revenue were commuted to an annual payment of Bhopal Rupees 4,101, and the other claims to a payment of Rupees 1,001.

CHIEFS.

Bhopal Agency.

In 1831 the Rawut Newul Sing committed suicide and was succeeded by his nephew, the present Rawut, Motee Sing. At his urgent entreaty Sindia restored Tullain on the condition (No. CXCV.) that he would pay the former tribute of Rupees 85,000.

In 1846, in consequence of the mismanagement of Motee Sing, the British Government interfered to settle the administration of Rajgurh, which was ostensibly undertaken by Koke Sing, the uncle of the Chief, aided by Ramlohl as Dewan, who indeed was the virtual manager. The latter, in November 1847, accidentally lost his life, and the territory was then placed under the management of an officer subordinate to the Political Agent at Bhopal. The Chiefship was restored to Motee Sing in 1856, free of debt, on the express understanding that the revenue leases which had been made for twenty years should be maintained.

The present revenue is rather more than two lakhs per annum, of which Chunderee Rupees 85,000 are paid to Sindia on account of Tullain. The Rawut also pays Rupees 1,050 of the Kotah currency to the Jhallawar Rajah for Kalepeit. He receives from Sindia Halee Rupees 3,187 annually. Reports of crime are furnished to the Political Agent through whom also the tribute to Sindia is paid. The payments from Sindia and Dewas to the Rawut are made direct and not through the Political Agent. No deductions are made from the payments.

2. Nursingurh.—This Chiefship pays a tribute of Bhopal Rupees 85,000 to Holkar under the mediation (No. CXCVI.) of the British Government. The Chief receives a tunkha of Halee Rupees 1,200 from Sindia, and another of Rupees 5,101 from Dewas under British mediation (No. CXCVI.). The present Chief Hunwunt Sing is about 59 years of age. He maintains a military force of 200 horse and 700 infantry. The revenue of the Chiefship is about Rupees 3,25,000 and the expenditure about Rupees 2,50,000 a year. The tunkhas are received and paid through the Political Agent, and no deductions are made from them. In his administration the Chief is directly subordinate to the Political Agent.

3. Khilcheepore.—On the death of Dewan Doorjun Sal of Kilcheepore in 1819, his mother and widow placed in power a youth named Bulwunt Sing, whose claim to the succession was inferior to that of many other members of the family and particularly of Aman Sing. The different claimants appealed to the Gwalior Durbar who requested that the case might be decided by the British Government. Aman Sing was proved to be the nearest heir, but as he was at deadly feud with the other branches of the family, it was decided (No. CXCVII.) that his infant son Sher Sing should succeed under the nominal supremacy of the elder Ranee. On this occasion the Gwalior Durbar voluntarily remitted the nuzzerana which they were entitled to claim.

Dewan Sher Sing pays a tribute of Halee Rupees 13,138 to Sindia (No. CXCVIII.) through the Political Agent at Bhopal.

The area of Khilcheepore is 204 square miles; the population 35,500; and the revenue Rupees 83,317.

4. Larawut.—In 1818 this petty Chiefship was granted (No. CXCI.) under the mediation of the British Government to Vittul Rao Puar. The deed conferred on the grantee the shares of Dhar and Dewas in the district of Soondersee. In 1834, on the death of Vittul Rao Puar, the succession of his son Madho Rao was not disputed; but when the latter died in 1849, leaving illegitimate sons only, the estate was claimed as a lapse by Dhar. The Government of India however decided that it was an escheat to the British Government, but continued the estate for life to the eldest illegitimate son Ramchunder Rao, the present Chief, subject to an annual payment of Rupees 1,000. This decision was not supported by the Home Government who decided that, if the estate was an escheat, it lapsed to Dhar and Dewas, to which States the annual payment should therefore be made. The estate is continued for the life of Ramchunder Rao under the joint Sunnud (No. CC.) of the Dhar and Dewas Durbars. The tribute is paid in the following proportions:—

Dhar	Rupees	666	10	8
Dewas	"	333	5	4
					Rupees	1,000	0 0

In his administration the jaghiredar is subordinate to the Political Agent. The area of his estate is 30 square miles; the population 2,600; and the revenue Rupees 5,925.

5. Pathuree.—This Chieftaincy was through the mediation of the British Government (No. CCI.) restored to Hyder Mahomed Khan who

MEDIATIZED had been deprived of it by Sindia. The present Nawab Abdool Kurreem CHIEFS. Khan succeeded his father Hyder Mahomed Khan in 1861.

*Bhopal

The area of Patharee is 22 square miles; the population 6,000; and the revenue which was Rupees 7,000 has since the mutinies declined to Rupees 3,000.

6. Agra Burkhara.*—Thakoor Bulwunt Sing receives under a settlement (No. CCII.) made with Neerbha Sing in 1818 a tunkha of Rupees 300 from Koorwai† through the Political Agent. He holds a grant of twelve villages in Sindia's territory, and pays annually Rupees 1,001 as quit-rent direct to Sindia. The family also held the grant of 28 villages in the Seronje district under British recognition, but these as well as the grant from Sindia were confiscated for the rebellion of Chuttersaul, the predecessor of Bulwunt Sing. The Sunnuds were lost during the rebellion. The villages from Sindia's territory were however restored in July 1859. In his administration the Thakoor is subordinate to the Political Agent alone.

7. Dubla Dheer.‡—The Thakoor Rughoonath Sing receives the following tunkhas:—

From Holkar (No. CCIII.)	Rupees	600
„ Sindia (No. CCIV.)	„	2,800
„ „ (No. CCV.)	„	150
„ Dewas (No. CCVI.)	„	100
„ Bhopal (No. CCVII.)	„	600
				Rupees 4,250

The tunkhas are paid through the Political Agent. None of the States are entitled to make any deductions from the payments except Dewas which deducts one Rupee.

The Thakoor in addition to his tunkha holds the grant (No. CCVIII.) of three villages in Shujawulpore under the guarantee of the British Government, and pays a quit-rent of Rupees 1,401 annually.

In his administration the Thakoor is subordinate to the Political Agent. Sobbag Sing with whom the settlement was made in 1818 died in 1855. The present Thakoor is his adopted son.

* Malcolm's Malwa, No. 22 of Schedule No. II., and No. 39 of Schedule No. III.

† The amount given by Malcolm is Rupees 522.

‡ Malcolm's Malwa, No. 12 of Schedule No. II., and No. 29 of Schedule No. III.

8. Duria Kherce.*—Thakoor Sheodhan Sing receives the following MEDIAT
CHIEF
tunkhas under a settlement made by the British Government in 1818 :—

From Sindia (No. CCIX.)	Rupces	2,900	Bhop.
" " (No. CCV.)	"	180	Agenc
" Dewas (No. CCX.)	"	200
" Bhopal (No. CCXL)	"	1,200
				Rupces 4,480

The tunkha is held on the same conditions as Dubla Dheer, No. 7, and the relations of the Thakoor to his feudal Chief are the same. The Dhar State deducts one Rupee in every hundred of the tunkha which it pays. The Thakoor holds also the grant (No. CCXII.) of two villages in Shujawulpore under the guarantee of the British Government, and pays a quit-rent of Rupees 925.

9. Kumalpore.†—The Thakoor Motee Sing receives the following tunkhas from Sindia under agreements mediated in 1818 :—

From Sindia (No. CCIX.)	Rupces	4,300
" " (No. CCV.)	"	300
				Rupces 4,600

The conditions of the tunkha and the feudal relations of the Thakoor are the same as in No. 7 Dubla Dheer. Motee Sing also holds a village in Shujawulpore under British guarantee (No. CCXII.) on a quit-rent of Rupees 700.

Oodajee, with whom the engagements were made in 1818, was succeeded by his son Joajar Sing on whose death in 1828 the Political Agent in Bhopal, without reference to Government, recognized as his successor Motee Sing whom the widow had adopted, and assigned Rupees 3,100 of the tunkha to Motee Sing and the remainder to the widow. The young Thakoor fell into debt, and Sir R. Hamilton, the Agent to the Governor General, of his own authority reduced the widow's allowance to Rupees 600, and assigned the other Rupees 900 for payment of the debts. But it was ruled that, although the original assignment to the widow in 1828 had not received the sanction of Government, still, as it had been enjoyed for more than twenty years, it should not have been altered without reference to Government. The full allowance was therefore restored to the widow. It is paid through the Political Agent.

10. Dubla Ghosee.*—Thakoor Gopal Sing receives the following tunkhas under a settlement made by the British Government in 1818 :—

From Sindia (No. CCIX.)	Rupees	2,300
" " (No. CCV.)	"	300
" " (No. CCXIII.)	"	1,400
" Dewas (No. CCXIV.)	"	100
" Bhopal (No. CCXV.)	"	900
				Rupees 5,000

The conditions of the tunkha and the feudal relations of the Chief are the same as in No. 7 Dubla Dheer. The Dewas Durbar deducts one Rupee from the tunkha which they pay. The Thakoor holds (No. CCXIII.) a village in Shujawulpore on a quit-rent of Rupees 1,050. The present Thakoor succeeded Goverdhun Sing in 1854.

11. Khursia.†—Thakoor Motee Sing receives from Sindia a tunkha of Halee Rupees 1,750 under an engagement (No. CCXVI.) mediated in 1818. The conditions of the tunkha and feudal relations of the Thakoor are the same as in No. 7 Dubla Dheer. The present incumbent succeeded on the death of Suroop Sing in 1843.

12. Jhalera.‡—Thakoor Dotar Sing who succeeded by adoption on the death of Rao Futteh Sing receives from Sindia a tunkha (No. CCXVI.) of Halee Rupees 1,200. In other respects he holds the same position as No. 7 Dubla Dheer.

13. Heerapore.§—Rao Chutter Sing receives the following tunkhas under engagements mediated in 1819 :—

" Sindia (No. CCXVIII.)	"	2,910

In other respects he holds the same position as No. 7 Dubla Dheer. The Rao also holds (No. CCXX.) Heerapore and Airwas on an istumraree rent of Rupees 600. He also received a grant from Sindia of the village of Keyrokal and a grant from Dhar of sixteen villages in Mukrar subject to a payment of Rupees 1,001 a year; but of this engagement no trace is to be found, nor has the annual payment of Rupees 1,001 ever been made to Dhar.

14. Ramgurh. *—Under a settlement made in 1819 Thakooranee Soolunknee receives the following tunkhas :—

From Holkar (No. CCXXI.)	Rupees	1,000

„ „ (No. CCXIII.)	„	1,400

„ Bhopal (No. CCXXII.)	„	700
				Rupees 8,615

The tunkha is held on the same conditions as in No. 7 Dubla Dheer, and the relations of the tunkhadar to the feudal lord are the same. The Dhar State deducts one Rupee from its tunkha. The original tunkhadar was Khosal Sing. His son Isree Sing was succeeded by an adopted son Koomair Sing, who was convicted of murder and forfeited his tunkha. It was continued however to his adoptive mother Thakooranee Soolunknee till her death. The right of succession to it is now under discussion.

15. Kakurkherce.—Thakoor Lall Sing holds under an agreement (No. CCXII.) mediated in 1831 and guaranteed by the British Government a village in Shujawulpore on a quit-rent of Rupees 175 subject to a deduction of 2 per cent. or Rupees 3-8 on the transfer of the pergunnah to Sindia. He also receives (No. CCXXIII.) a tunkha of Rupees 800. His feudal relations are the same as No. 7 Dubla Dheer.

Chief of Rajgurh in which State he holds a lease of twelve villages. The present jaghiredar succeeded by adoption to Mokund Sing, of Bulwunt Sing, with whom the original settlement was made.

17. Jabria Bheel.—On the settlement of Malwa Rajun Kh brother of the notorious Pindaree Cheetoo, was allowed to settle at Goruckpore on an annual pension of Sonat Rupees 3,600. A few years afterwards he was allowed to return to Malwa, and his pension commuted to an assignment (No. CCXXV.) of land in Shujawul for his life. The grant consisted of a jaghire of three villages: Peeplianuggur, Khajooria, and Jabria Bheel, and an istumrarree farm Doogree and Jubree at a rent of Rupees 500. He was afterwards assured in 1825 that, in consideration of his past good conduct, if he should continue by similar good conduct to merit the indulgence, the circumstances of his family would receive favourable consideration after his death.

Accordingly on the death of Rajun Khan in 1831, and the subsequent transfer of Shujawulpore to Sindia, the Gwalior Durbar required to respect the grant to this family. The estate was divided among his five sons; Raj Buksh receiving Jabria Bheel and Jul Elahee Buksh, Khajooria; Madur Buksh, Doogree; and Mukh Buksh and Ruheem Buksh receiving Peeplianuggur. All these brothers are alive and in possession of their respective shares except El Buksh who died in 1859, and was succeeded by his posthumous Kurm Buksh. During the minority of Kurm Buksh the estate at Khajooria is managed by the Political Agent at Bhopal.

18. Gagronce.†—On the decline of the Mogul power in Malwa Rahtore Rajpoot from Marwar obtained possession of Zeerapore Malwa which he held till the conquest of Malwa by the Mahrattas, and his possessions fell to the share of Holkar. Being dispossessed he commenced plundering the country with such effect as to compel Holkar to grant to him Gagronce and several adjacent villages. With his descendant, Thakoor Rughonath Sing, a settlement (No. CCXXVI.) was mediated in 1820 by which the villages were confirmed to him subject to a payment of Rupees 1,500 a year.

† Malcolm's Malwa, No. 41 of Schedule No. III.

On the death of Rughonath Sing, the legitimacy of his eldest son, Futteh Sing, was disputed. His claims were eventually set aside, and a younger son, Sooruj Mull, was recognized. Sooruj Mull died on 24th June 1862, leaving no children and without adopting an heir. As there was no legitimate heir of Rughonath Sing living, the Thakoorate lapsed to Holkar who settled on the widow and mother of Sooruj Mull an annual allowance of Rupees 1,800 for life.

The engagements with the following Chiefs under the Bhopal Agency, who are stated in Malcolm's Report on Malwa to have received guarantees, have not been procured:—

19. Koonwur Chaen Sing.*—This Chief is said to have received a tunkha of Rupees 6,201 from Sindia and Bhopal; but this is a mistake. He received Rupees 5,101 from the district of Sarungpore which belongs to Dewas, and Rupees 1,200 from Sindia's district of Shujawulpore, making in all Rupees 6,301. Chaen Sing was killed at Sehore and was succeeded by his cousin.

20. Bulwunt Sing.†—This Chief received four half-assessed villages in the Bairsea district which he subsequently resigned; and five villages in jaghire from Bhopal, viz., Chandawur, Ghawur, Mugurdhee Burra, Mugurdhee Chota, and Manpoora. He was succeeded in the jaghire by his son Goordun Sing who had three sons, Gopal Sing, Bhowanee Sing, and Sooruj Mull. Gopal Sing rebelled in 1857, and the jaghire is now held by Bhowanee Sing.

21. Lutchmun Sing and Isree Sing.‡—These two Chiefs were cousins, and held seven half-assessed villages in Bairsea which they afterwards relinquished with exception of one village, Jheernia. They also held in Bhopal a jaghire of three villages, viz., Atcheroe, Rawutkhera, and Mowakhera. Lutchmun Sing was succeeded by his younger brother Zalim Sing, and he by his son Bhareesaul. Isree Sing was succeeded by his son Sheo Sing who, dying childless, was succeeded by his cousin Bholajee.

22. Salim Sing.§—This Chief held Paprail in jaghire from Kilcheepore. His son Umr Sing succeeded him.

Seal of RAWUT NEWUL SING.

Whereas from old a determined tunkha or tribute has been paid to the Maharajah Alijah Soubadar Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor by Rajghur, and whereas for two or three years past this tribute has not been regularly discharged and above Rupees 16,000, due on account of the present year, are still unpaid, I have now of my own accord and pleasure (in order that the tribute may henceforth be liquidated, and that no cause of delay or dispute may exist) resolved to separate and assign villages of Rajghur, according to a schedule herewith annexed, to the kamaisdar of Atmaram Punth in order that the tribute to the Maharajah may be realized from the revenues of these villages, and that no cause of blame or shadow of claim may in future exist; and through my desire to please the Maharajah I have separated the after-mentioned villages and made them over, along with the sayar and rights of every description thereunto attached, to the kamaisdar of Atmaram Punth from the commencement of the Fuslee year 1227, and I will not in any manner hereafter interfere with them or their inhabitants.

And whereas the abovementioned villages are generally much out of cultivation, and possessing but a stinted population, the expense of management and sebundee will be great, the same must be provided from their revenue; for with this or any other claim respecting them I have henceforth no concern. And whatever omissions of tribute there may have been on my part previous to the year 1826, I consider myself absolved from the same in consequence of the present cession.

I hereby under the foregoing considerations also agree to resign all claim to those sums on account of tunkha, bhett, &c., which, through the favour of the Maharajah, my ancestors and I have been in the habit of receiving from the pergunnahs of Shujawulpore and Shajehanpore.

And whereas by concluding this agreement I have conformed to the pleasure of the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, as well as provided in future for the regular payment of the tunkha and obviated all causes of complaint hereafter on either side, the Maharajah accordingly has graciously restored and confirmed to me the remaining part of my possessions (including the fort of Rajgurh) which had been attached in consequence of the delays and subterfuges that had occurred in the payment of the tribute.

All is well here, and I constantly pray for your welfare.

Whereas you made a representation in the fort of Gwalior that you have from of old acted up to the orders of the Circar; that the Circar has always evinced its kindness towards you; that the kamaisdar of the Circar accordingly took from you the revenue of pergunnah Rajgurh year after year; but that, being unable to pay the revenue as it fell due, you gave up to the Circar pergunnahs Kothrabehar, Tullain, Pachair, and Ruttunpore, containing in all 171 villages; and whereas you requested that those villages might be farmed to you, and stated that you would pay to the Circar the revenue thereof in Chanderee Rupees year after year in two instalments, i. e., first on the 15th Kartick Soodee, and second on the 5th Fagoon Boodee Deccanee; that you would comply with the usual orders of the Circar as respects jhoondah, bheth, &c.; and that in default thereof you would give up the said mehal to the Circar. Being satisfied with your good conduct, and deeming it necessary to protect you, the Circar has resolved to settle with you the 171 villages situated in the said pergunnah at a revenue of Chanderee Rupees 86,001 per annum to be paid year after year from the year 1235,

TRANSLATION of an ENGAGEMENT executed to the SOUBADAR by DEWAN SOBHAG
SING and KOONWUR CHAEN SING of Soobstan Nursingurh.

Nursingurh.

Whereas the above Soobstan was always assessed at Salim Sahi Rupees 85,000 per annum; and whereas the Pindaree troops having entered the country laid waste the pergunnah, and the people in consequence deserted the place; and whereas we, being unable to pay the revenue and to meet the necessary expenses of the Soobstan, brought the matter to the notice of the Circar who, in consideration of the aforesaid circumstances, and with a view to the improvement of the pergunnah, has directed the payment of the revenue for six years according to the following instalments, viz.—

In 1875	Sumbut...	Rupees	25,000
" 1877	"	"	48,000
" 1878	"	"	60,000
" 1879	"	"	72,000
" 1880	"	"	85,000
						Rupees 3,25,000

Therefore we shall, as ordered, pay without any objection, year after year, the above amount of Rupees three lakhs and twenty-five thousand, which includes the expenses of the mehal, in six years according to the said instalments commencing on the 15th Kartick Soodee and ending on the 15th Bysack Soodee.

TRANSLATION of a PERWANNAH from MULHAR RAO HOLKAR to DEWAN SOBHAG SING and KOONWUR CHAEN SING of Soobstan Nursingurh.

Whereas the above Soobstan was assessed at Rupees 85,000 per annum, but in consequence of the passing and repassing of the Pindaree troops through the mehal it was laid waste; and whereas you, with a view to bring the matter to the notice of the Circar, deputed Roop Ram Bohora who on arrival represented that, as the mehal was desolated, there was no means of discharging the revenue due to the Circar, amounting to Rupees 85,000, and also requested that the Circar might graciously be pleased to take the above sum by instalments every year so that the mehal might be improved; and whereas it is necessary to realize the revenue of the Soobstan as usual, but having had regard to the fact that the pergunnah has been laid waste, and in consideration of the representation made by you, as well as with a view to the improvement of the mehal, it has been decided in the presence of the said Roop Ram Bohora that the yearly revenue of the mehal should be paid in the following progressive payments so that the amount of rent in the 6th year will be Salim Sahi Rupees 85,000 :—

In 1228 or 1875 Sumbut	Rupees	25,000
„ 1230 or 1877 „	„	48,000
„ 1231 or 1878 „	„	60,000
„ 1232 or 1879 „	„	72,000
„ 1233 or 1880 „	„	85,000
Rupees				3,25,000

Therefore the sum of Salim Sahi Rupees three lakhs and twenty-five thousand having been fixed by the Circar as the aggregate amount of revenue for six years, this perwannah is given to you. You will therefore remit to the Circar the above amount of Salim Sahi Rupees three lakhs and twenty-five thousand according to the aforesaid instalments through the mamildar, and take receipts for the same.

All is well here, and I pray for your welfare.

The revenue of Kilcheepore, which you have hitherto paid to the Durbar, is now assigned by Alijah for the support of the British contingent force, and this circumstance may perhaps have been communicated to you by the kamaisdar of Patun. The kamaisdar has also written to me to say that the revenue amounts to Boondee Rupees 13,500, which you will now remit to this place. The sum of Rupees 4-8, which remains due on account of the present year, may be remitted by a Hoondee through naib toomandar Hidayut Ali. As there was a man at Kilcheepore sent by the kamaisdar of Patun, so now, according to custom, a naib toomandar on my part will remain there. And whereas the commandants of the troops of Maharajah Holkar were in the habit of receiving from me, as nuzzerana from time to time, sums of money and horses; and as now, by the blessing of the Almighty power, the troubles and distractions of the country have ceased, and no leaders of troops or other persons in power make any forcible exactions in money or otherwise from me; and, owing to my reliance in the protection of Maharajah Holkar, having no longer any necessity to incur the expense of sebundee or otherwise for my defence, a great saving has thereby accrued to me, and the incursions of plunderers and troops, which prevented the cultivation of the lands, having also ceased: on these accounts, and also considering the State of Holkar as my sovereign, I have determined hereafter to make the following payments, on account of pesheush, to the Maharajah at the periods respectively detailed; and I am hopeful that in like manner as my ancestors received a Sunnud from the late Maharajah Mulhar Rao (who is in Heaven), but which in the trouble of the times has been

TRANSLATION of a letter to BULWUNT RAO APPAJEE, Karnaisdar, Pergunnah Zeerapore Machelpore, dated 17th Zilhej 1220 Hijree, bearing the seal and signature of Mulhar Rao Holkar, from a Persian version of the original Mahratta document.

It was represented to the Circar on the part of Thakoor Rughoonath Sing through Captain Henley that the villages of the Zeerapore pergunnah that were for a long time in the possession of the Thakoor had for some time past through local disturbance of the country been out of cultivation; now that all sorts of hostilities had ceased in this country, if the Circar will, as formerly, place the said villages in possession of the Thakoor he will render service to government, keep both districts from thieves and robbers, and restore them to cultivation and pay the government tunkha for the said villages. The Circar having enquired, Thakoor Rughoonath Sing was found capable of serving government, and therefore it was settled to keep the villages in his possession from
